VISVA-BHARATI UNIVERSITY

Santiniketan, West Bengal

AIMS AND OBJECTS : To study the mind of Man in its realization of different aspects of truth from diverse points of view.

And with such ideals in view to provide at Santiniketan a centre of culture where research into and study of the religion, literature, history, science and art of Hindu, Buddhist, Jain, Islamic, Sikh, Christian and other civilizations may be pursued along with the culture of the West, with that simplicity in externals which is necessary for true spiritual realization, in amity, good fellowship and co-operation between the thinkers and scholars of both Eastern and Western countries, free from all antagonisms of race, nationality, creed or caste.

Visva-Bharati is an all-India institution with students and teachers drawn from all over India and there is always a fair mingling of teachers, students and visitors from abroad. Students live a community life, dining in the same halls (with separate arrangements for vegetarians and non-vegetarians), playing in the same spacious play-grounds close to the hostels, organizing common socials, picnics, excursions, literary and musical entertainments.

Besides a central general library (containing about 100,000 volumes), there are sectional libraries attached to various departments. The University has its own hospital with a medical officer and his assistants. The Guest House, which makes catering arrangements of its own, is open to visitors and guardians.

Besides the academic institutions, the University conducts two Departments : one for Rural Reconstruction and the other for Publication of Books. The Pulli-Sangathan Vibhaga (Rural Reconstruction Institute) at Sriniketan is concerned mainly with a comprehensive study of the problems of rural life in its social, cultural, economic and other aspects and extension work in the villages. The Institute maintains a model primary school for rural children, a teachers training school for serving primary education in rural areas as well as an agency for propagation of folk education and social education. There is a section for rural industries where training is provided to apprentices in a variety of crafts.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION (INDIA)

5, Russell Street, Calcutta.

The aim of the Association is, through its religious, social, educational and physical work to answer the fourfold—spiritual, social, mental and physical—needs of young men and boys.

The Young Men's Christian Association in India, started in Calcutta in 1857, is spreading rapidly. The 'local' Associations are autonomous and governed by local Boards of Directors. These Associations in Convention elect a General Board which is responsible for the supervision and expansion of all forms of the Association work in India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

The work of the Council (excluding that of the 80 local Y.M.C.A.'s) called for a Budget of Rs. 1,32,469 in 1952. Of this sum Rs. 37,500 had to be raised from the public in India.

The Headquarters of the Council of Y.M.C.A. is 5, Russell Street, Calcutta. The officers are:—

President of the Council :—Sir Samuel Rungtadnan.

BENGAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE AND INDUSTRY

Royal Exchange, P. Box No. 280, Calcutta 1.

The Bengal Chamber is registered with a declaration of membership of 400. Its objects are briefly to promote and protect the trade, commerce and manufactures of India particularly in Calcutta. There are three classes of members, Chamber, Associate and Honorary.

There are 27 commercial and industrial associations and organisations connected with the Chamber, whose business is transacted by the secretarial staff of the Chamber, subject to the direction of their own committees and sub-committees. A new department has recently been organised for specialisation and consultation in all matters concerned with industrial labour.

An important branch of the work of the Chamber is the measurement and weighing of most of the principal commodities exported from Calcutta. For this work the Chamber has a special department—the Licensed Measurers Department—which has been in existence for nearly 70 years and maintains a staff of some 130 measuring officers who measure and weigh goods chiefly in course of shipment. The measurements so recorded are used by the Steamship Companies as a basis upon which to calculate freights charged to exporters and the weights are required chiefly by exporters for contract purpose.

There is also within the Chamber an old established Tribunal of Arbitration for the settlement and adjustment of disputes and differences relating to trade, business, manufactures, etc. Arbitrators are drawn from among the members of the Chamber and the arbitrations are conducted in accordance with the provisions of the Indian Arbitration Act. Awards may be filed by either party in any particular dispute in the Calcutta High Court and be made a Decree in conjunction with like Arbitration bodies overseas.

To this work there has been added in more recent years the distribution of foodstuffs to employers of labour in the Calcutta Industrial area. The Chamber's Foodstuffs Scheme was started in August 1942 with a central organisation in Calcutta and a chain of Distribution Depots scattered all over the Calcutta Industrial area. At present it caters for the essential food supplies of nearly 700,000 industrial workers and their dependents.

Since 1946 the Chamber has run Language training courses for foreigners taking up appointments in India. Classes in Lower and Higher standard Hindi and Bengali in the Nagari script are organised twice in each year. Examinations of Chamber students and others wishing to sit for them, as also for students studying colloquial Hindustani are held under the Chamber's auspices at the end of each six monthly course.

FORMER PRINCELY STATES

THE integration of what used to be called Princely India with the larger India was completed in 1950.

When the process of merger was complete the position of the former 562 Princely States was as follows: 216 states with an area of 108,739 sq. miles and a population of 19,158,000 were merged with the Governors' States. Sixty-one States with an area of 70,769 sq. miles and a population of 7,305,000 were converted into Centrally administered Chief Commissioners' States. And 275 States with an area of 217,358 sq. miles and a population of 40,156,000 were merged into States Unions under Rajpramukhs.

The number of Centrally administered units formed out of the old Princely States was 7: Himachal Pradesh, Kutch, Bilaspur, Bhopal, Tripura, Manipur, and Vindhya Pradesh.

The number of States Unions formed out of the old Princely States was 5: Saurashtra, Rajasthan, Madhya Bharat, Patiala and East Punjab States Union, and Travancore-Cochin.

The total area affected in all was 387,893 sq. miles and the population 60,783,000.

There were only three former States which retained their old frontiers: Hyderabad, Jammu and Kashmir and Mysore.

Today the position is the same with two exceptions: 1. Ten of the States which at first merged into Vindhya Pradesh were later merged with Uttar Pradesh. 2. Out of the seven Centrally administered areas three obtained legislatures with a partially responsible Ministry in 1952. These three were: Bhopal, Himachal Pradesh and Vindhya Pradesh. Himachal Pradesh and Vindhya Pradesh have Lieutenant-Governors.

PROPERTY AND PRIVILEGES

Every Covenant between a Ruler and the Government of India contains a clause fixing the Rulers' privy purse which is calculated to cover the expenses of the Rulers and their families including such expenses as those on residence, marriage, ceremonies, etc.

The privy purse is guaranteed by Article 291 of the Constitution, the money being a charge on the Consolidated Fund of India, subsequently to be recovered wholly or partly from the States Governments.

The basis of calculation is the revenue of the State. For the first lakh the Ruler is allowed 15 per cent, for the next four he is allowed 10 per cent, above 5 lakhs 7½ per cent, the maximum being 10 lakhs. This maximum is exceeded only in the case of the Rulers of some of the major States recognized as viable, and even here it is agreed that the amount is to be paid only during the life-time of the present Ruler.

The total annual privy purse commitments amount to 5.8 crores at the present time. When the amounts guaranteed to certain rulers during their life-time are refixed the total annual expenditure on this account would be reduced to 4 crores. Then there are the savings resulting from fixing the privy purses which will, it is calculated, amount to about two crores exclusive of the savings in Vindhya Pradesh, Patiala and East Punjab States Union, Baroda and Kolhapur.

Here, for instance, is a list of the annual pensions which are to be paid to some of the Rulers of the former States during their life-time only: Jaipur, Rs. 18,00,000; Jodhpur Rs. 17,50,000; Hikaner, Rs. 17,00,000; Patiala, Rs. 17,00,000; Baroda, Rs. 26,50,000; Travancore, Rs. 18,00,000; Indore, Rs. 15,00,000; Hyderabad, Rs. 50,00,000; Mysore, Rs. 26,00,000; Gwalior, Rs. 25,00,000; Bhopal, Rs. 11,00,000.

Here is a list of other Princes with privy purses amounting to Rs. 10 lakhs and over.

Kolhapur: 10,00,000; Mewar: 10,00,000; Nawanshar: 10,00,000; Bhavnagar: 10,00,000; Rewa: 10,00,000.

The question of private property was settled by the States Ministry on an ad hoc basis, mainly through discussion between the representatives of the Ministry, the Rulers concerned, and the representatives of the Governments of the States or Provinces. No uniform system was followed in settling the question. The criterion applied was that if a building, for instance, was used exclusively by the Ruler or his family, it was considered to be his private property and if it was used for public purposes, it automatically became the property of the State.

The main features of the settlement are: The Ruler is entitled to retain the palace in which he lives. He can also have one more residential building only, either at a sea-side resort or at a hill station. All buildings in excess of these are to be made over to the State.

In no case is the Ruler allowed to retain any land except where there is positive proof that the land is his ancestral property. Even here, he is subject to the tenancy laws of his State and has to pay taxes like any other landowner. Generally no forest areas have been given to Rulers; though limited rights of grazing and obtaining fuel have been recognized in some cases. Shooting rights are conceded in well-defined areas subject to the laws in force in the place. The principle involved in agricultural land is that the Ruler is not entitled to any income besides the privy purse. In fact, wherever proprietary right over land is recognized it is done mainly on the ground that many ex-rulers have the time and the resources to undertake modern and mechanical methods of farming. The States Ministry has however restored to the States administrations thousands of acres of such land and in the case of one Ruler, 154 big villages have been taken away and handed over to the State.

The States Ministry declined to recognize the grant of lands made by Rulers to their relatives or others on the eve of integration or merger of their States. In cases where such assignments were made long before the integration, the property becomes subject to land assessment and tenancy laws of the Union or of the province.

Several Rulers are stated to have parted with their money and investments without demur. For example, the Maharaja of Gwalior made over to his Government Bombay Improvement Trust scrips bearing an annual interest of about Rs. 50 lakhs. Similarly, the Gangajali (reserve fund) of Rs. 1,62,37,000 was also given to the State. The Maharaja of Baroda agreed to create a trust with a corpus of Rs. 2 crores the income from which was to be available for works of public utility in the territory of the former Baroda State, and the advancement of education.

Jewellery—priceless sapphires, emeralds, diamonds and pearls were all divided into two categories. Those actually used by the Ruler himself and those used as regalia at State functions. A list was then made of the jewels falling into the latter category, and though the Ruler could keep this jewellery in his custody the Union Government or the Provincial Government, as the case may be, were given the right of inspection and check up.

The Rulers had a civil list reserve funds intended to relieve the State of the expenditure in connection with marriages, etc. This was allowed to be retained by the Rulers.

Temples and properties attached to them are constituted into trusts. Temples situated within the palaces were classed as personal property.

Half the number of cars of Rulers, some of whom maintained fleets of 50 and more, were assigned to the State and are now being used by Ministers and other State officials.

Some Rulers were generous enough to make over to the State larger slices of property than they were obliged to do under the terms of the agreement. The Maharaja of Travancore for instance granted to the State property to the extent of as much as 20,000 acres.

There are some 35 palaces and houses belonging to Rulers in Old and New Delhi about which no decision was taken. Some of the States administrations claim them as State property while the Rulers challenge the claim.

The States Ministry arranged for the payment of pensions "in deserving cases," which include the aged mothers of certain Rulers, widowed sisters and other near relatives having no personal property.

The final result of the award is that most of the Rulers have been left with one-fourth of what they considered as their private property, the rest going to their Government.

When the administration was taken over the new Governments inherited cash balances and investments of the value of nearly Rs. 70 crores. During the settlement of the private properties the Rulers gave up their claims to approximately another 4.5 crores. Other property given up includes palaces, buildings, stables, garages, shops and aeroplanes.

There is a clause in every Agreement which says that all the rights and dignities (enjoyed till then by the Princes) would continue under the new constitution. These Agreements are excluded from the jurisdiction of law courts by Article 368, while Article 362 requires every legislative or executive authority to give due regard to the clauses of the Agreement in the exercise of its functions. Some of these rights have already been outlined. Others may be mentioned here. The Princes are guaranteed succession according to law and custom. Then there are minor rights and dignities which vary from State to State and are exercisable both inside and outside the State. No exhaustive list has ever been drawn up of such privileges and dignities, though some like the use of red plates on cars, immunity from civil and criminal jurisdiction and exemption from customs duties are well known.

GENERAL ELECTIONS

Elections were held in Princely India on the same basis of adult franchise as in the former British Indian provinces.

The Congress emerged as the largest single party in all Princely States except two. It did not succeed in obtaining an adequate majority in PEPSU and Travancore-Cochin Unions with the result that ministerial stability in these two Part 'B' States could not be guaranteed.

The Congress and other political parties faced bitter opposition from Princes or the candidates belonging to royal families. Actually, the Congress suffered serious reverses in Rajasthan at the hands of Princes and other royal candidates. The late Maharaja of Jodhpur provided the spearhead of electoral opposition and the present Chief Minister of Rajasthan, Mr. Jai Narain Vyas, was defeated by the Maharaja in person in two constituencies.

This provoked political agitation on the part of Congressmen and other candidates who alleged that the Princes had exploited their power, prestige and position for political advantage at the polls. It was even alleged that some of them had won elections by means of a campaign of terrorism against the voters.

Princely participation in the elections led to a more serious complication in Saurashtra. The Congress was returned with an overwhelming majority but after the elections the Congress Ministry had to carry out vigorous investigations into the manner in which some members belonging to royal families had supported Congress opponents.

It was alleged that these Princes had helped and supported notorious dacoits of the State in launching a campaign of terrorism against the voters in a desperate effort to dislodge the Congress Ministry and take power. Among the Princes and members of royal families who were arrested in this connection were Prince Nirmal Kumar Singhji of Bhavnagar, Prince Fatehsinhji of Limbdi, a Girasdar leader, Prince Kalika Prashad, younger brother of Maharaja of Morvi, Thakur Chandrasinhji of Dhrol, a member of the Saurashtra State Assembly and Mr. Harisinh Gohel, former president of Rajkot Municipality and Secretary of Girasdar Association.

* Died in aircrash. The present ruler gets Rs. 10 lakhs.

In PEPSU also the Congress and other parties faced considerable opposition from princely candidates, prominent among them being the Nawab of Malerkotla but the Congress concern in this States Union was due to the fact that the Akali Dal and other opposition parties had reduced its chances of securing an absolute majority.

Despite this, the Congress in PEPSU did better than was predicted and managed to form a Ministry with the support of a few independents who came forward to support the Congress.

If in PEPSU the right wing parties had snatched away a good number of seats from the Congress, in Travancore-Cochin Union it was the left wing parties that registered an unexpectedly large number of successes. The Congress itself was a divided house in Travancore-Cochin but it managed to emerge from the elections as the largest single party. With the support of a few independents the Congress formed a Ministry though its tenure of office was very precarious.

In the second general elections in PEPSU and Travancore-Cochin the Congress did well in the former and took office, while in the latter it was defeated though it emerged as the largest single group.

HYDERABAD STATE

Capital Hyderabad.

Districts - Aurangabad, Bhil, Parbhani, Nanded, Gulbarga, Raichur, Osmanabad, Bidar, Medak, Mahbubnagar, Nalgonda, Nizamabad, Hyderabad, Warangal, Karimnagar, Adilabad, Khammam

Hyderabad State, formerly known as the Nizam's Dominions, forms the eastern portion of the Deccan. The State lies between 15°10' and 20°40' N, and 74°40' and 81°35' E, covering an area of 82,168 square miles. The population according to the 1951 census is 18,655,108. The languages spoken are Telugu, Marathi, Kanarese, Hindi, Lambadi and Urdu.

About two thirds of the State consists of an extensive plateau with an elevation varying from 1,250 to 3,000 feet above sea-level. The remaining portion lies at a lower altitude reaching down to 350 feet above sea level.

The river system of the State consists of two great basins, that of the Godavary and the Krishna. The former with a length of more than 600 miles in the State has a number of tributaries, the chief of which are the Painsanga, the Wardha and the Parantha from the north, and the Manjira and the Maner from the south. The Krishna forms the boundary of a number of Districts in the State and also part of the southern frontier of the State. Among its tributaries the most important are the Bhima, the Musi on which the capital stands, and the Tungabhadra, which forms the southern boundary of the Raichur-Mudgal Doab. The State, specially the Telangana region, abounds in tanks and artificial lakes constructed mainly for the purpose of irrigation.

The State may be divided into two fairly definite regions, the western, generally called Marathwada and the eastern called Telangana, although the State contains some Kanarese speaking population as well. If a line were drawn from the confluence of the Tungabhadra and the Krishna in the south to the confluence of the Manjira and the Godavary in the north, and extended right up to the Hyderabad-Berar boundary, this would serve as a good demarcation of the two tracts. The two regions differ not only linguistically but also in their physical formation, for the Marathwada is covered by trappean rock, while the Telangana has granitic and calcareous formation. The western trap or black cotton soil region (which is continued northward in Berar) is the land of wheat and cotton, while the granitic Telangana is the land of rice and jowar. Moreover, the former is covered with luxuriant vegetation, cliffs, crags and undulating hills, while in the granite and limestone region the hills are bare of vegetation and the land is covered with huge fantastic tors and boulders. Also as the soil in the east is sandy, the rivers dry up in hot weather, necessitating the storage of water in tanks and artificial lakes for purposes of irrigation.

POLITICAL SET-UP

Since, H.E.H. the Nizam agreed to integrate Hyderabad State with the Indian Union the contemplated elections to form a constituent assembly were cancelled, and instead General Elections were held under the new Constitution of India. The new Legislative Assembly consists of 175 members including 31 members of Scheduled Castes and 2 of Scheduled Tribes. The State returns 25 members to the House of the People out of which 4 seats are reserved for Scheduled Castes. The elected members of the Legislative Assembly have returned 11 members to the Council of States.

Almost all the local bodies have been reorganised so as to be representative in character.

Besides the two Corporations of Hyderabad and Secunderabad, there are 26 Municipal Committees, 125 Town Committees and 16 District Boards functioning at present in the local administration of the State.

CIVIL DIVISIONS

For purposes of revenue administration the State is divided into 17 Districts and 138 Taluqs (including 9 Mahals, & 8 Sub-Taluqs).

Each District except Khammam is under a Collector assisted by a Revenue Assistant; and each subdivision consisting of two to four taluqs is placed in the charge of a Deputy Collector. Khammam is placed under an Additional Collector with the over-all supervision of the Collector, Warangal.

The names of the Districts, Taluqs and Mahals into which the State is divided are as follows —

Aurangabad District Aurangabad, Kannad, Vajapur, Gangapur, Bhokardan, Ambad, Patthan, Jalna, Jafferabad, Khuldabad and Billo.

Bhil District Momnabad, Manjgaon, Gevrai, Bhil, Ashti, Patoda and Kalji.

Parbhani District Parbhani angakhed, Pathri, Jintur, Hingoli, Basmat and Kalamnuri.

Nanded District Deglur, Kandhar, Billoi, Nanded, Hadgaon, Bhokar, Mukhed and Mudhole.

Gulbarga District Aland, Gulbarga, Chitapur, Afzalpur, Shahpur, Jeevargi, Tandur, Seram, Kodangal, Chincholi, Yadgir and Shorapur.

Raichur District Raichur, Gadwal, Alampur, Manvi, Deodrug, Lingsugur, Gangavati, Sindhnur, Koppal, Yelburga and Kushtagi.

Osmanabad District Latur, Tuljapur, Usmanabad, Kalam, Omerga, Owsa, Bhoom and Pandah.

Bidar District Homnabad, Udgir, Ahmedpur, Nilanga, Bidar, Zahirabad, Naryankhed, Sunitapur and Bhalki.

Medak District Medak, Siddipet, Sangareddi, Vikarabad, Narasapur, Gajwel and Andole.

Mahbubnagar District Mahbubnagar, Makhtal, Pargi, Shadnagar, Wanaparti, Kalwakurti, Atmakur, Nagarkurnool, Kolhapur and Achampet.

Nalgonda District Bhongir, Jangaon, Miriyalguda, Devarkonda, Rammannapet, Huzurnagar, Nelgonda and Suriyapet.

Nizamabad District Nizamabad, Kamareddi, Armur, Yellareddi, Bodhan and Banswada.

Hyderabad District Hyderabad West, Shahabad, Hyderabad East, Medchal and Ibrahimpatan.

Warangal District Warangal, Parkal, Mulug, Mahbubabad, Borgamphad, Yellandu, Paloncha, Khammam and Madhira.

Karimnagar District Jagtial, Sirsilla, Huzurabad, Parkhal, Metpalli, Mahadeopur, Karimnagar and Sultanabad.

Adilabad District Adilabad, Kinwat, Roath, Nirmal, Asifabad, Sirpur, Rajura, Chinnur, Laksettipet, Khanapur and Utnur.

The total population of the State as has already been stated is 18,655,108. There are over 22,000 villages. Hyderabad City, the capital, has, according to the last census in 1951, a population of 1,085,722 (includes Secunderabad), Warangal 133,130, Aurangabad 66,636, Gulbarga 77,180. Besides Telugu, Kanarese, Marathi and Urdu, which are the chief languages of the State there are languages so geographically apart as Tamil, Punjabi, Malayalam, Rajasthani, Gujarati and Bengali.

COMMUNICATIONS AND TRANSPORT

The City of Hyderabad is the railway communications centre. From here lines radiate east, south, west and north. The line which goes east passes through Warangal and joins the Madras Calcutta line at Bezwa. The line which goes south connects with the Madras-Bombay line at Guntakal. The western line links up with the Madras-Bombay line at Wadi. The northern line goes north-west rather than north and joins the main Bombay-Bhusaval line at Manmad. The total mileage open for traffic is 139,566. This Railway is now in the Central Railway system.

The Railway used to operate a Road Transport Service covering 5,116 miles, which has now been converted into an R.T. Corporation. This includes suburban and district services. A large fleet of buses is maintained for this purpose.

The State has 6,176 miles of road of which 5,368 miles are metalled. 746 miles murum road, 51 miles C.C. road and 10 miles tar road. In addition to the above, a further length of about 400 miles of other roads is under construction.

Hyderabad City is connected by air with Bombay, Nagpur, Madras and Bangalore. There are 2 major aerodromes in the State—Begumpet and Hakimpet aerodromes. There are also one intermediate aerodrome, 4 minor aerodromes and 2 landing strips.

Hyderabad City has an automatic telephone system with one main exchange and three satellite exchanges and with 1,798 connections in the City and in the suburbs.

Besides the above, there are Telephone Exchanges at Warangal, Janagan and Bhongir, connected to Hyderabad by long distance lines. There are also Telephone Exchanges at Raichur, Nanded, Nizamabad, Latur, Jalna and Aurangabad. These Exchanges have also been connected to All India Trunk to encourage business and thus enhance trade.

Thirty-eight Public Call Offices are working in Hyderabad, Aurangabad, Bhongir, Bidar, Bhil, Jangaon, Jalna, Kurnool, Kurnoolpet, Kurnool Chowk, Narayalguda, Raichur, Trimulgherry, Warangal, Secunderabad S.O., Kingway Post Office, Bolaram, Basar Post Office, Trimulgherry Post Office, Gulbarga, Jachheria, Khammameth, Nizamabad, Sillio, Nanded, Peddapalli, Parbhani, Nalgonda, Mahboobnagar, Baral, Gadwal, Shahabad, Latur, Karimnagar, Hingoli, Alland, Yadgir, Osmanabad and Sirpur. Kagas-nager. These stations put through Trunk Calls, all over India and foreign countries.

Eleven Radiophone Stations have been opened at Hyderabad, Munirabad, Aurangabad, Raichur, Kothagudam, Nizamabad, Nizam-sagar, Nanded, Osmanabad, Bidar and Adilabad. These stations put through Trunk Calls, in addition to accepting messages from the public where there are no telegraph offices.

Seventy-seven Combined Offices have also been opened in Hyderabad to facilitate the receiving and sending of telegrams to all places. Besides this a Phonogram system has also been introduced in the State which enables telephone subscribers to send and receive their messages over their telephones.

The telephone system was taken over by the Indian Posts and Telegraphs Department on April 1, 1950.

There are two radio broadcasting stations, one at Hyderabad and the other at Aurangabad, the latter being a regional station. Both these are now controlled by A.I.R.

MINERAL RESOURCES

Hyderabad has long been known for gold, diamond and iron mines; the Konasamudram steel known as Indian "wootz" was used in the manufacture of the world famous Damascus swords.

At present, coal is mined at Kothagudum, Tandur, Sati and Yellandu and the output from all the coalfields in 1952 was 14,34,194 tons.

Gold was being mined at Huttli in Raichur District and the Huttli (Nizam's) Gold Mines Ltd., which had a successful career for nearly 20 years, closed down its operation in 1920 after the first world war. Gold mining has been revived at Huttli and a new company, the Hyderabad Gold Mines Ltd., was formed to work the mines. Production started in October 1948, and output of gold in 1952 was 9,291.53 fine ounces.

The world famous Golconda diamonds were mined along the Krishna valley, particularly round about Partial in Warangal District. In the nineties of the last century, the Hyderabad Deccan Co. worked the Partial mines and collected about 3,444 stones weighing 2,085 carats. Since then there has been no serious effort to prospect or mine for diamonds.

The iron ores of Hyderabad are mostly siliceous low grade ores, and are abundantly found in Adilabad, Karimnagar, Warangal and Raichur Districts. The quantity of iron ores available in these localities is estimated at about 40 million tons, ranging upto 40 per cent iron; the richer ores do not occur in large quantities anywhere. The Hyderabad coals are non-coking and the exploitation of the iron ores has to wait modern developments in the technique of iron smelting.

There are abundant ceramic raw materials like Kaoline, white and refractory clays, felspar and quartz suitable for the manufacture of pipes, pottery, porcelain, sanitary ware, refractory bricks as well as glass. The clay deposits of Adilabad and Bidar Districts supply raw material for local consumption. About 1,957 tons of white clay were quarried in 1952.

The Muscovite (ruby) mica deposits of Kallur, and graphite mines in Paloncha in Warangal District, produce marketable quantities of the materials. Abrasive materials like corundum, garnet, staurolite and other valuable minerals like zircon, kyanite and andalusite are found in parts of Warangal District. About 1,000 lb. of mica was produced in 1950.

Stray deposits of chromite occur in Madira taluq while old workings for copper have been noted in Raichur, Gulbarga, Warangal and Nalgonda Districts. Extensive old workings also occur near Yellambailu not far from Kothagudum collieries. Iron pyrites, a source for sulphur in sulphuric acid manufacture, is found as thin layers and lenses in the coal seams at Tandur and Kothagudum but only about 30 to 40 tons of the mineral can be collected in a month from both the collieries.

Soapstone or steatite deposits in Karimnagar District are worked by Sirpur Paper Mills which quarried 205 tons of the material in 1952, for use in their factory. Coloured clays, ochres, lithomarge and bole suitable for paints and distempers are found in commercial quantities in various parts of the State. During 1950, 39 tons of red ochre was extracted.

The building stones of Hyderabad are perhaps one of the most important and useful mineral assets of the State. The hard, durable and varied coloured granites yield unlimited supplies of excellent building material for heavy construction and decorative work. They take a smooth and fine polish. The lime stone deposits supply large quantities of flag stones for flooring and roofing and also for construction purposes. These limestones are available in different colours, take a fine polish and provide excellent material for flooring and design work. The Government controlled limestone quarries produced about 2,00,438 tons of flagstones and 45,764 tons of building stones in 1952.

Marble in white, grey, yellow, black and streaked varieties is obtained in large quantities in Warangal District. The quarries worked successfully in the recent past, and there is a large scope for the development of this industry on a large scale. Marble is also burnt for making superior quality lime. About 44 tons of marble were extracted in 1952.

The limestones are suitable for cement manufacture. The Associated Cement Co., Ltd., at their Shahabad Works, use the locally available limestones and shale as raw material. In 1952 the output of cement was 1,88,720 tons and the company quarried 2,24,723 tons of limestone.

FORESTS

The State possesses 9,455 square miles of forest. The forests in the east are good, while those in the west have little economic value. The principal forests are situated in the Districts of Adilabad, Warangal, Karimnagar and the Amarabad Taluq of the Mahbubnagar District. Forests capable of producing fine timber are confined to the eastern parts of Adilabad, Karimnagar and Warangal Districts along the river Godavari. The State has 7,304 acres under afforestation and 1,000 families are engaged in afforesting the waste belts of the Marathwada Districts.

AGRICULTURE

Agricultural conditions differ considerably in the three main regions of the State. In the Telangana tract, which is generally full of hills and valleys, wet cultivation is carried on a large scale, the water being supplied by tanks and irrigation reservoirs. The number of major tanks is 8,000 and of minor 25,000. Conditions in the Marathwada country are quite different as the rainfall is less and the soil so rich that the ryots are never anxious to grow wet crops. In some places advantage has been taken of the water obtainable from rivers and wells, and garden crops which are more profitable than dry crops, are extensively grown. Conditions in the Karnatak tract are much the same as in the Marathwada, and the ryots are not anxious to grow rice. This is the reason why the Telangana people generally have rice and the Marathwada and Karnatak people wheat or jowar.

There are usually four crops in the year in the Telangana, namely, kharif, rabi, abi and tabi, but in the Marathwada, where irrigation sources are very limited, only two crops are raised, namely, kharif and rabi. These are known as 'dry crops' because they are cultivated without the help of artificial irrigation and depend on the monsoon rains. The principal kharif crops are yellow jowar, bajra, cotton, sara, kodru, til, groundnut, castor, kangri, maize and pulses, such as moong, urad, toor, and kaulthi. The principal rabi crops are cotton, white jowar, chenna (Bengal gram), karad, wheat, linseed, chillies, sugarcane and tobacco.

Hyderabad is second in the Indian sub-continent only to the pre-partition Punjab and Madras in the number of horses and sheep. The State has excellent indigenous types of cattle, classified as the Krishna-Valley type, the Red Khandari type, the Deoni type, and the Malvi type. Buffaloes however form the main source in most Districts for the supply of milk and ghee. There is a special breed of buffaloes in the western tracts of the State and these are a very satisfactory source of supply of both milk and ghee. Stud bred stallions have been posted in the Marathwada tracts, while the Stud Farm at Hingoli has been transferred to the Army. A sheep breeding farm has been established at Mahbubnagar. Cross breeding with the Bikaner type is making good progress.

Main Food crops of the State: Rice, Wheat, Barli, Jowar, Bajra, Maize, Ragl and other small millets.

Main cash crops of the State: Groundnut, Castor, Linseed, Sesamum, Sugarcane, Cotton and Tobacco.

Total production of Food Crops: 16,66,519 tons.

Production of individual food crops in 1951-52: Rice (4,36,197 tons), Wheat (45,541 tons), Barley (3,057 tons), Jowar (9,84,948 tons), Bajra (1,04,707 tons), Maize (35,047 tons), Ragl (14,496 tons); Other small millets (62,526 tons).

Production of individual cash crops in 1951-52: Groundnut cake (5,76,087 tons); Castor (60,648 tons); Linseed (31,315 tons); Sesamum (48,868 tons); Rape and Mustard (442 tons); Other Oilseeds (56,147 tons); Sugar cane (2,16,053 tons); Cotton (4,30,012 Bales); Tobacco (4,910 Tons).

The rice mills are numerous in the districts of Nizamabad, Warangal, Medak, Mahboobnagar, Nalgonda and Karimnagar. Oil crushing mills are situated in the districts of Warangal, Gulbarga, Raichur, Nalgonda, Mahboobnagar and Karimnagar. Cotton ginning and pressing factories are found in Aurangabad, Parthani, Raichur, Nanded, Bhilr, Gulbarga and Adilabad. The largest number of factories engaged in beedi and tobacco products are in Nizamabad District followed by Aurangabad, Gulbarga, Warangal and Mahboobnagar Districts.

The State has 6 cotton mills (Hyderabad, Gulbarga, Warangal, Nanded and Aurangabad) producing annually 6,54,52,000 yards of cloth and 2,03,20,000 lb of yarn. The sugar factory at Bodhan in the Nizamsagar area produces annually 21,000 tons of sugar and the Sirpur Paper Mills (Adilabad District) produce 3,250 tons of paper. The production of cement (Gulbarga District) amounts to 1,86,000 tons ; of power alcohol (Nizamabad District) 415,000 gallons and of cigarettes about 45 crores.

Names of minerals produced in the State, showing within brackets their output, value and labour employed during 1952 : Coal (14,34,194 tons, Rs. 3,05,86,549, 16,132 workers) ; Gold (9,291.53 fine oz. ; Rs. 25,33,079 ; 1,227 workers) ; Limestone (4,70,935 tons ; Rs. 32,13,794, 8,357 workers) ; Marble (14 tons ; Rs. 1,760) ; Mica (600 lb. ; Rs. 180 ; 16 workers) ; Graphite (39 tons ; Rs. 3,900 ; 53 workers) ; Garnets (30 tons ; Rs. 1,800 ; 40 workers) ; Red Ochre (57 tons, Rs. 1,530 ; 13 workers) ; Steatite (205 tons ; Rs. 22,839, 63 workers) ; Slate (12 tons ; Rs. 72, 10 workers) ; Sand (63,719 tons ; Rs. 1,63,584 ; 312 workers) ; White Clay (1,057 tons ; Rs. 20,565 ; 107 workers) ; Quartz (1,965 tons, Rs. 8,225 ; 224 workers) ; Lime kanker (1,387 tons, Rs. 3,755 ; 110 workers) ; Building stores (11,29,608 tons ; Rs. 21,37,374 ; 820 workers) ; Mill stores (877 tons ; Rs. 1,920, 40 workers).

The total number of companies on the register at the end of December 1952 was 234 out of which 222 companies were limited by shares. The authorised, issued, subscribed and paid-up capital of the above companies was approximately Rs. 46 crores, Rs. 22 crores and Rs. 17 crores respectively.

COTTAGE INDUSTRIES

Small scale and cottage industries consist of yarn spinning, cloth weaving, Patthan industry of gold embroidery, Aurangabad Himru, Mahru and Kamkhab, blanket making, cloth dyeing and printing, silk weaving, wool carpet and durr making, Bidriware, silver filigree work, Nirmal toys work, hand-made paper, metal industry, tanning, button industry, soap manufacture, cane work, brush work, mat making, tusser work, clay work, brass industry, brick and tile making, carpentry, smithy, rattan work, biscuit making, fruit and vegetable processing, bangle manufacture, perfumery, tape making, Shatranji making, knife and scissors, ceramics, salt, jaggery and sugar, Palm gur, oil, ivory and horn work, matches.

The rural areas in Hyderabad State have the largest share of the Cottage Industrial establishments functioning in the State. The total number of Cottage Industrial establishments in the State is 221,097. These establishments do not come under the purview of Indian Factories Act or Indian Mines Act. The total number of Textile Establishments is 96,514 and non-textiles is 1,25,183. The total number of Handlooms working in Textile establishments is 1,31,649, out of which, 1,15,115 are cotton looms and 16,534 other than cotton looms (woollen and silk).

The approximate total number of persons employed in the various types of small-scale and cottage industries is as follows. —

Textile : Cotton Spinning and Weaving (2,39,142) ; Woollen Spinning and Weaving (37,919) ; Silk reeling, twisting and weaving (4,437) ; Manufacture of rope, twine string, etc. (9,874).

Non-Textile : Salt making (734) ; Food industries (6,123) ; Oil extraction (12,495) ; Dairy products (2,801) ; Gun manufactures (64,864) ; Beedi making (12,601) ; Tailoring (5,710) ; Cobblers (47,730) ; Blacksmiths (16,867) ; Copper and Brass workers (2,892) ; Cart making (4,083) ; Toilet and Soap manufacturing (1,436) ; Goldsmiths (19,154) ; Bricks and Tiles (2,955) ; Potters (48,123) ; Lime burners (2,834) ; Carpenters (24,281) ; Basket makers (26,970) ; Furniture and Wood industry (3,204) ; Paper industry (185) ; Printers and Bookbinders (1,023) ; Glass bangles (381) ; Toy makers (486).

The budget provision for expenditure on schemes for the development of Cottage Industries under Commerce & Industries Directorate during 1953-54 is as under Reorganisation of small-scale Industries in Indian Government, Rs. 1,06,800; Palm Gur Scheme, Rs. 21,850; Village Industries Training Centre, Rs. 97,940; Textile Designing Scheme Rs. 17,830; Integrated Village Industries Development Scheme, Rs. 4,50,489; Cottage Industries Sales Depot, Rs. 50,960; Sericulture Development Scheme, Rs. 10,410.

TRADE

The principal imports during the year 1951-52 in O.S. Rs. in lakhs were as follows.

Piece goods (cotton, silk, and woollen), 14,89.29; Industrial machinery, 4,22.31; Metals and their manufacture, 3,51.04; Petrol, 1,82.53; Foodgrains, 6,23.72; Others, 48,63.05.

Total imports: O.S. Rs. 79,31.94 lakhs.

The principal exports during the year 1951-52 in O.S. Rs. in lakhs were as follows.

Cotton, 15,51.82; Edible oils, 11,72.28; Oil seeds, 10,27.02; Coal, 1,43.57; Hides, skins and leather, 1,22.98; Foodgrains, 3,98.33; Others, 11,03.82.

Total exports: O.S. Rs. 55,19.82 lakhs.

Power Projects: Total number of units generated in the State by the Hussainsagar Power House, the District Power Schemes and the Azamabad Thermal Power Schemes stations: 5,55,01,863 kwt.

Total units purchased by District Power Schemes, for distribution purposes: 52,61,951 kwt

Total number of towns electrified: 14.

STATE'S FINANCE

As a result of constitutional changes after January 26, 1950, i.e. the date of the coming into force of the new Constitution of India, the administration of such of the subjects in Hyderabad State as are included in the list of Union subjects was with effect from April 1, 1950 taken over by the Central Government as falling within their functional ambit. The principal subjects which have been transferred to the control of the Central Government are the following: Taxes on Income; Central Excise Duties (i.e., duties on sugar, matches, tobacco, etc.); Railways; Posts; Telephones; Currency and Mint; Army; Audit and Accounts; Aviation and Broadcasting.

Revenue Receipts for 1953-54 are estimated at Rs. 2801.73 lakhs and the expenditure at Rs. 2821.83 lakhs leaving a deficit of Rs. 20.10 lakhs.

The main items of Revenue Receipts and Service Expenditure for the year under reference are as below:—

Revenue Receipts (In lakhs of rupees): Union Excise Duties (95.03); Share of Income-tax and tax on agricultural income (245.09); Land Revenue (502.29); State Excise Duties (942.86); Forest (90.00); Export, Customs and Surcharges (257.14); Sales Tax (197.14); Interest on investments (72.22).

Service Expenditure (In lakhs of rupees): Land Revenue (135.14); State Excise Duties (78.80); Irrigation (89.83); Debt Services (322.29); General Administration (90.38); Police (338.57); Education (475.76); Medical (111.54); Public Health (75.80); Agriculture (72.86); Veterinary (20.01); Co-operation (20.93); Civil Works (203.30); Superannuation Allowances and Pensions (221.37); Compensation to the Nizam and the Jagirdars (164.57).

A sum of Rs. 145.33 lakhs, has been provided for new Development Schemes and Schemes under the Five Year Plan as detailed below: Agriculture (4.29 lakhs); Veterinary and Animal Husbandry (2.57 lakhs); Co-operation (5.91 lakhs); Forest (4.29 lakhs); Education (25.57 lakhs); Medical (4.29 lakhs); Public Health (3.57 lakhs); Repairs to and restoration of breached tanks and canals (35.00 lakhs); Development under Tungabhadra Project (21.43 lakhs); Development under Nizamagar Project (12.85 lakhs); Harijan Welfare (6.85 lakhs); Community Projects (18.00 lakhs); Amelioration of Backward Classes (1.71 lakhs).

As a result of the recommendations of the Finance Commission, the Central Government have discontinued the grant-in-aid of O.S. Rs. 135.00 lakhs to the State under the Federal Financial arrangements from 1st April 1953 and have decided to allocate 40 per cent of the net proceeds of the Union Excise Duties on tobacco (including cigarettes, cigars, etc.), matches and vegetables products. Hyderabad's share in this divisible pool has been fixed as 5.39 per cent which is expected to yield Rs. 95.08 lakhs in the year 1953-54.

In addition to the above, the Budget Estimate for 1953-54 also includes State's share in the divisible pool of Income-Tax (other than Corporation Tax), which, on the basis of the recommendations of the Finance Commission, has been fixed as 4.50 per cent of the divisible pool, which in its turn is 55 per cent of the net proceeds of Income-Tax, excluding Corporation Tax. Hyderabad's share of the divisible pool of Income-Tax is estimated as Rs. 238.23 lakhs for the year 1953-54.

Currency: Both I.G. Currency and O.S. Currency continue to be legal tender and adequate facilities have been provided for their exchange at a prescribed rate at all District Treasuries and at the Hyderabad State Bank and its Branches. The value of Hyderabad Paper Currency, in circulation at the end of March 1953 was O.S. Rs. 33.97 crores.

Currency is a Central subject. The Central Government have decided to demonetise the State Currency. The demonetisation of O.S. Currency which was to take effect from the 1st of April 1953 has been postponed to 1st April 1955.

Banking: As recommended by the Rural Banking Enquiry Committee, the Reserve Bank of India has been appointed as Bankers to the Government of Hyderabad with effect from the 1st April 1953, and the Hyderabad State Bank is now functioning as Agents of the Reserve Bank of India conducting Government business on behalf of the Reserve Bank of India throughout the State with effect from 1st April 1953.

During the year 1952-53, the Hyderabad State Bank continued to discharge its normal functions as Bankers to Government under the Hyderabad State Bank Act.

OSMANIA UNIVERSITY

Hyderabad, Deccan, 7.

The Osmania University was established in 1918, and its charter was revised in 1947 and 1950. It is both a residential and affiliating university. It comprises nine Faculties, namely, Arts, Science, Commerce, Medicine, Engineering, Agriculture, Veterinary Science, Education and Law. There are 6 University Colleges, 2 constituent Degree Colleges (including one exclusively Women's College), 7 constituent Inter Colleges, 7 Affiliated Colleges (including one Medical College and four degree Colleges), 2 Constituent Evening Colleges (one Degree and one Inter) for those in employment.

In all Degree and Inter Colleges English is the main medium of instruction, but in a few Colleges parallel classes are conducted in Hindustani. In all professional courses English is the only medium of instruction. Compulsory Theology and Ethics have been abolished and replaced by a regional or allied classical language. The place of the Faculty of Theology has been taken by the Department of Religion and Culture under the Faculty of Arts. It also includes a study of comparative religion.

The University is completely autonomous though it is wholly financed by the Government. The University Council, consisting of 16 members, is the governing body. The Vice-Chancellor is the chief administrative officer. The other bodies of the University are the Finance Committee, Academic Council, Senate, Faculties and Boards of Studies.

Budget (1952-53): O.S.Rs. 82,40,810. (O.S.Rs. 116-10-8 are equal to Indian Govt. Rs. 100-0-0).

Contribution by State Government : O.S.Rs. 60,00,000.

Library : 111,341 Volumes (English 32,743; Urdu, Persian, Arabic 16,183; Oriental 15,277; Gift 16,874; Salarjung 30,464). There are 3,304 MSS and 1,244 Palm Leaf MSS.

Admission : The qualification necessary for entrance to the Inter Course is the Higher Secondary Certificate or equivalent certificate.

Degrees : B.A., M.A., Ph.D. in Arts, B.Sc., M.Sc., Ph.D. in Science; B.Com. and M.Com. in Commerce; B.E., M.B.B.S., B.V.Sc., B.Sc. (Agriculture), B.Ed., M.Ed., LL.B. and LL.M. Diplomas in French and German and Hindi.

Schools for special education	528	35,781	8,52,933
Direction, Inspection and miscellaneous indirect expenditure	—	—	62,02,929
Total	11,196	8,23,470	5,37,02,832

During the year 1952 two Basic Training Centres were established in the State at a cost of Rs. 68,742 recurring and Rs. 43,500 non-recurring, one at Bilknor and the other at Mombabad.

Educational, Personnel and Organisation : For administrative purposes the State is divided into five divisions each under a Divisional Inspector of Schools. Each division is divided into 17 units, each unit being under a District Inspector of Schools. Each Inspector has under him 6 to 10 Deputy Inspectors of Schools. All these officers are subordinate to the Director of Public Instruction who has two Deputy Directors and six Assistant Directors to assist him.

The Board of Secondary Education consisting of one Secretary, and one Assistant Secretary is entrusted with the Higher Secondary Certificate, Training and other examinations.

The total direct expenditure on recognised primary institutions in 1951-52 was Rs. 192 lakhs of which the Government bore 97 per cent. The medium of instruction throughout the primary stage is the mother tongue of the pupil.

Though a scheme was sanctioned to make elementary education compulsory, it had to be dropped as it did not work successfully.

The regional languages of the State namely Telugu, Marathi and Kannada have been made the media of instruction throughout the Secondary stage since June 1951. Hindi is compulsory in all classes.

Social Education : Adult Education Schools are under an Inspector for Adult Education with two Assistants and necessary establishments. The number of Adult Schools at the end of the year under report was 325 out of which 266 were Government ones. The number of Adults under instruction in them was 16,364 (15,624 men and 740 women) as against 6,689 during the preceding year. During this year 10,246 men and 396 women were made literate as against 5,404 men and 326 women in the preceding year.

The expenditure on Adult Education incurred by various Managements amounted to Rs. 1,15,090 as against Rs. 80,587 during the preceding year.

Training classes were conducted for the benefit of 50 students who volunteered to undertake Adult Education.

200 new Adult Schools were sanctioned during the month of January 1952 most of which could not be opened by the end of March 1952. They were however opened later.

62 Libraries for the Adults were opened in the Telangana area of the State.

There is a special Committee for Adult Education to advise on matters relating to Adult Education.

Non-Official Co-operation : In order to secure non-official co-operation in educational matters, the following committees have been formed with a non-official majority : Advisory Board of Education ; Special Committee for Basic Education ; Special Committee for Women's Education ; Special Committee for Adult Education ; Special Committee for Secondary Education ; Special Committee for Hindi Education.

JAMMU AND KASHMIR STATE

AREA: 92,780 sq. miles, Population: 4.41 millions (1951), Capital Srinagar.

The Jammu and Kashmir State constituting the extreme western section of the Himalayas, lies between 32°17' and 36°58' north latitude, and 73°28' and 80°30' east longitude. The total area of the State is 92,780 sq. miles—65 sq. miles less than the area of Hyderabad, and the population 4,410,000 with an average density of 48 per sq. mile. For administrative purposes, the State is divided into three provinces: Kashmir, Jammu and the Frontier.

Non-Muslims form about 23 per cent of the total population—a percentage slightly higher than the one which Muslims formed in India before the partition. Culturally both Muslims and Hindus belong to the same group. Consequently, they speak the same language and have common customs and conventions, and sometimes even places of common worship.

About 10.3 per cent of the total population is urban. There are 2 cities, 37 towns and 8,740 villages in the whole State.

In recent years, the State has made all round progress. To give a fillip to State Trade, a network of Kashmir Arts & Crafts Emporia has been established in important cities in India. These account for Kashmir goods worth about 17 lakhs annually. The State owns a transport fleet of nearly 500 vehicles. Distribution of essential commodities within the State is made mostly through multi-purpose co-operative societies. This has resulted in all areas of the State being fully served with essential supplies and elimination of the black market. The State runs two Radio Stations in Srinagar and Jammu. From the point of literacy, the State is well ahead of many former States in India, with a University of its own established in 1949. In 1951, there were 2,216 educational institutions in the State including seven colleges, one of them being exclusively for women. A Kashmiri script has been evolved for the first time in history. Text books in Kashmiri have been introduced in elementary schools.

The State occupies an important position in the political geography of India as it has common frontiers with China, the U.S.S.R., Pakistan and Afghanistan.

EARLY HISTORY

About the beginning of the 14th century Rentshen Shah, a Buddhist fugitive from Tibet happened to capture power and occupy the throne of Kashmir. He then wanted to change his religion and adopt Hinduism. The Brahmins of the State refused to accede to his request. He therefore embraced Islam, and started a regular campaign to kill the Brahmins.

After Rentshen Shah came a long succession of Sultans who, for more than two centuries, ruled Kashmir with an iron hand. They were followed by the Mughals. Then the Afghans captured power in 1750. In 1819 the Afghans were ousted by the Sikhs.

Gulab Singh, the great great grandfather of the present Sadar-i-Riyasat, Karan Singh, ascended the throne in 1846. Gulab Singh was one of the most important generals in Maharaja Ranjit Singh's army, and after Ranjit Singh's death, became the Prime Minister of the Sikh dominion. At the time he had absolute control over Jammu, Ladakh and other adjoining territories and had spread his conquests to Kashmir to the extent that by 1846 he was the virtual ruler of that land. That year, in return for his neutrality during the Sikh wars and also for the payment of a small sum of Rs. 75,00,000, the British signed a treaty with him whereby they recognized his sovereignty over Kashmir. This treaty is called the Treaty of Amritsar. It is against this treaty which is described as a sale deed that sentiment in Kashmir is very strong and that the ex-Prime Minister of Kashmir Sheikh Mohammad Abdullah led an agitation.

AGRICULTURE

Kashmir State has a delightful climate, though winter months are very cold. The maximum recorded temperature of the Kashmir Valley is 99.3 degrees and the minimum 11°. In Jammu the temperature in summer goes up to 115°, or sometimes even higher, but comes down to 30° and even to 20° during winter in some parts of the State. The average rainfall for the whole of the State is 28.45".

Forests hold an important place in the economy of the State. They yield fine wood of many varieties, medicinal herbs and also provide game and fodder for the cattle. The forest operations do not extend to the Frontier Province which forms three-fourths of the total area of the State. In the two remaining provinces, 10,865 sq. miles or about 50 per cent of their total areas constitute forest land.

Agriculture is the main occupation of the people. But the soil is not very fertile. Only 5.6 per cent of the total area is cultivable, and the remaining portion is full of mountains and deserts. The total amount of land actually under cultivation in the State is about 2,300,000 acres. The main crops grown are rice and maize, and in Jammu wheat and maize. The State on the whole is deficit with regard to food supply.

The Government passed the 'Big Landed Estates Abolition Act' in 1951, by virtue of which the right of ownership held by a landlord owning more than 22½ acres is extinguished and is thereafter vested in tillers of such lands. In pursuance of this Act, the Government has distributed the land held by big landlords (as defined in the Act) among the tillers and thus landlordism, to a large extent, has been abolished in the State.

The Land Compensation Committee appointed by the Constituent Assembly presented its report to the Assembly in the last week of March 1953. The Constituent Assembly accepted its recommendations and unanimously passed a resolution on March 31, 1953, that no compensation be paid for land expropriated under the Big Landed Estates Abolition Act.

INDUSTRY, MINERALS

Woollen textile manufacturing is the biggest single industry in the State. It gives employment to about 800,000 people, including both part-time and whole time workers. Kashmir woollens, such as shawls, carpets, namdas and gabhas have a world-wide popularity. During the 18th and 19th centuries especially Kashmir shawls had a wide demand in England, and, as it was expressed at the time, 'adorned the proudest beauties in Europe and the rest of the world.'

Next in importance comes the silk industry. Kashmir filatures are the largest in the world for a single unit of production, and produce one of the finest quality silks.

Papier-mache, silver-ware, and wood-carving are among the other minor industries of the State.

Woollen manufactures, silks, forest products such as timber, herbs, some chemicals, furs and skins, and fruit and vegetables are the main items of export, whereas foodstuffs, textiles, sugar and tea, spices and hardware form the main imports into the State.

The following is a list of the minerals found in the State: Coal, Lignite (possibilities of petroleum), Bauxite, Iron ore, Copper ore, Lead, Zinc, Nickel ore, Manganese, Gold, Arsenic, Chromite, Ochre, Gypsum, Graphite, Kaoline, Bentonite, Fuller's Earth, Marble, Slate, Steatite, Serpentine, Barytes, Corundum (Sapphire and Ruby), Beryl and Aquamarine and Tour-mallin. There are other minerals too, suitable for glass manufacture. But it is not known, whether the exploitation of all these minerals is an economic proposition. Coal, Lignite and Iron ore and some other minerals are supposed to be in existence in fairly large quantities.

Tourist traffic is one of the main sources of income both to the State and the people. It is estimated that before the trouble started in Kashmir, about 40,000 people used to visit that place annually, spending about Rs. 1,50,00,000 during their stay of a few months in the Valley. Great efforts are now being made by the State to develop this traffic to the maximum possible extent.

To evolve an integrated plan for the progress and prosperity of the State, the Government set up a Planning Committee. A Five-Year Plan for the development of the State has been prepared. The total expenditure under the Plan is estimated at Rs. 13 crores—7 crores will be met from Central Assistance Programme and 3 crores from the State Revenues.

TRANSPORT

The total mileage of roads maintained by the P.W.D. is about 2,650, out of which 562 miles are metalled, 620 unmetalled and the remaining mileage bridge paths. The Five-Year Plan provides for the construction of 233 miles of new roads and upgrading of 225 miles of existing roads. Jammu is connected with Srinagar by a fine motorable road of 203 miles. Being navigable, the rivers in Kashmir Valley play a great part as means of transport.

The Pathankot-Jammu road, 65 miles long, built in three months at a cost of about Rs. 3,00,00,000, was opened for traffic by the Prime Minister of India, on July 7, 1948. Considering the sort of country in which it was built the road is regarded as a very remarkable feat of engineering. Three important bridges on the road, 2,800 ft., 2,000 ft., and 1,000 ft. long were also declared open on July 7, 1948.

For the 1953-54 budget receipts were estimated at Rs. 479.54 lakhs and expenditure at Rs. 469.01 lakhs.

A sum of Rs. 65.35 lakhs was provided for capital expenditure. Besides this, provision was made for Rs. 204.13 lakhs under the 7-crore part of the Five-Year Plan by debit to funds provided from Central assistance.

The main sources of income are customs,* land revenue, forests, profits of silk reeling (which is a State monopoly), courts, etc., and the main items of expenditure are salaries, public utility works, education, sanitation, irrigation, electricity, etc.

POLITICAL SET-UP

Kashmir acceded to India on October 26, 1947. Simultaneously, to fulfil one of the conditions of the acceptance of accession by the Government of India, the Maharaja invited Sheikh Mohammad Abdullah, President of the All Jammu and Kashmir National Conference, to form an Interim Government, and to carry on the administration of the State. The Interim Government later changed into a full-fledged Cabinet, with Sheikh Abdullah as the first popular Prime Minister.

The Maharaja withdrew from the State and handed over power to his 21-year old son who was to act during his absence as a constitutional ruler. The latter, Yuvraj Karan Singh, formally took over from his father on June 20, 1949.

For the first time in history, the people of Kashmir elected a sovereign Constituent Assembly which met in Srinagar in October-November 1951. The Constituent Assembly had before it four main tasks, (1) to devise a Constitution for the future governance of the country, (2) to decide the future of the ruling dynasty, (3) to decide whether or not compensation should be paid to the landlords whose lands had been transferred to the tillers and (4) to declare its mind on the future affiliations of the State.

On November 20, 1951 was promulgated the Jammu and Kashmir Constitution (Amendment) Act which amends 42 Sections of 78 clauses of the old constitution. By this the State attained complete and unfettered responsible democratic government.

* Now abolished. See below.

The new enactment transferred power from the ruler to the popular Government and gave legal recognition to the principle of full, responsible Government which, in theory only, was enforced by the Maharaja's proclamation of March 5, 1948.

Independence of the judiciary was fortified further by extending the normal tenure in keeping with the law in other parts of India. The Board of Judicial Advisers was retained.

The enactment also amended the oaths of office for Ministers and Judges. Unlike the old oath, under which one had to swear and owe allegiance to the Maharaja, his heirs and successors, the new one specified allegiance to "the Constitution of the State as by law established."

The amended Constitution authorised the Constituent Assembly to convert itself or set up another body to discharge the functions of the State Legislature until the new one was elected. The Government would be collectively responsible to that Assembly which would be unrestricted in its powers. The Legislature will have the right to legislate for all parts of the State, even Azad Kashmir. The Government has been given extra territorial jurisdiction not enjoyed by any other State in India.

The report of the Basic Principles Committee was presented to the Constituent Assembly on June 10, 1952. On June 12, the Assembly adopted the recommendations of the Committee and passed a resolution terminating hereditary rulership in the State and making the office of the Head of the State (Sadar-i-Riyasat) elective. The resolution added:

"The Head of the State shall be a person recognised by the President of the Union on the recommendation of the Legislative Assembly of the State."

The resolution fixed the term of the office of the Sadar-i-Riyasat at five years. On 14th November, 1952, the Legislative Assembly elected Yuvraj Karan Singh as the first Sadar-i-Riyasat. He was sworn in on November 17, 1952.

The constitutional position of Kashmir is now based on the Delhi Agreement between Mr. Nehru and Sheikh Abdullah concluded in 1952 July.

The provisions as set forth by the Drafting Committee were accepted by the Kashmir Constituent Assembly on February 15, 1954.

They were to be brought into force through an order of the President under Article 370 of the Indian Constitution on April 13.

Kashmir is now legally a part of India while retaining certain autonomous rights. The division of powers between the Centre and the State are clearly demarcated and there is no concurrent list. Residuary powers vest with the State. The emergency powers of the President will be exercised only on the advice of the State Government. Though citizens of Kashmir will be citizens of India also, within the State they enjoy a special position in respect of Government service and purchase of immovable property.

The Supreme Court of India will serve as the Appellate Court for Kashmir. It will have the power to interpret the constitution of the State. It will thus have the power to enforce the fundamental rights accepted by the State—rights with safeguards for land reforms and such security measures as the Public Security Act.

As in the rest of India the Centre and not the State will levy income tax and certain excises, and also customs duties.

POWER PROJECTS

Total capacity of power plants installed in the State: 22,400 kva.

Total effective capacity: 179,200 kW

Production during the year 1952-53: 550 mKWH.

Number of units generated: 550,327,300.

Number of units sold by the Government to industries, domestic establishments, etc.: 418,359,155.

Names of power stations now in operation with their capacity within brackets: Mahatma Gandhi Hydro-Electric Station: (Jog Falls—Shimoga Dist.) (12,000 kW); Shimsha Station: (Shimshapura—Mandya Dist.) (17,200 kW); Shivassamudram Station (42,000 kW).

Power projects under execution—their location, etc.:

1. Bhadra project, Chikmagalur Dist., capacity 14,000 kW cost Rs. 20 crores. The project was started in 1948 and is to be completed in 1963. When completed, it will be one of the biggest multi-purpose projects in the country. The Union Government and the Mysore Government have both financed the scheme, but execution of the project may be delayed as it is not included in the Five-Year Plan.

2. Honnemaradu project, Shimoga Dist., capacity 340,000 kW cost Rs. 10 crores. The initial survey has been completed. The State Government will finance the project and no Central aid is expected. The scheme is not included in the Five-Year Plan.

Estimated rise in output: 432,600 kW.

Power projects planned but not executed: Mekedatu project, Mysore Dist., capacity 22,000 kW cost Rs. 8 crores. The scheme has been worked out and is to be taken up immediately the State Government can finance it.

IRRIGATION

Total area irrigated: 963,261 acres (By masonry wells 70,000 acres, by tanks 679,014 acres, by Government Irrigation works 241,217 acres)

Location of larger irrigation works, their capacity, etc.:

1. Vanivilas Reservoir, across the Vedavathi river in Chitaldrug Dist. Its capacity is 30,000 mcf. The dam is 142 feet high and 1,330 feet long. The area of waterspread of the reservoir is about 34 square miles. The speciality of this work is the use of surki mortar in place of cement. The dam is perfectly water-tight and is a work of beauty and skill.

2. Krishnarajasagar, across the river Cauvery in Mysore District. Length of the dam 8,600 feet; height 130 feet above the river bed. Depth of storage 124 feet, capacity 44,000 mcf. The dam is built of stone masonry and surki mortar. One of the biggest irrigation works in India, the scheme is intended to irrigate 125,000 acres of land of which about 90,000 acres have already been developed.

3. Anjanapur Reservoir, across the river Kumudavathi in Shimoga Dist. Height 70 feet; length 4,200 feet; capacity 600 mcf. Twelve thousand acres of land are fed by the reservoir which has possibilities of further extension.

4. Marconahalli Reservoir, across the river Shimsha in Tumkur Dist. The dam is 65 feet high. The speciality of the dam is the introduction of volute siphons (invented by Mr. V. Ganesha Iyer, Retired Superintending Engineer, Mysore) in the body of the masonry dam for the disposal of floods. The extent of irrigation developed so far is 10,000 acres and there is scope for further extension by utilising the seepage water. The capacity of the reservoir is 2,300 mcf.

5. Kanva Reservoir, in Bangalore district. Length 4,700 feet; height 60 feet; capacity 1,000 million cft. Designed to irrigate 5,000 acres of which 3,000 acres have been so far developed. Five hood siphons each of dimensions 17 feet long and eight feet deep as designed by Mr. V. Ganesha Iyer have been installed for the disposal of flood waters.

6. Hirebhasgar Reservoir, across the river Sharavati in Shimoga Dist. Storage capacity 25,000 mcf.; length 1,150 feet; maximum height 100 feet. Water stored in this reservoir is to be utilised only for power generation at the Mahatma Gandhi Hydro-Electric Works at Jog Falls.

Irrigation projects in execution, their location, etc.:

1. Tunga Anicut Project, across Tunga River in Shimoga Dist. Started in 1947, to be completed in 1956. Expected to irrigate 27,000 acres. Cost Rs. 2 crores. Financed by the State Government.

2. Nugu Reservoir in Mysore District. Acreage expected to be irrigated 20,000. Started in 1948, to be completed in 1956. Capacity 3,500 mcf. Cost Rs. 2.2 crores, borne by the State Government.

Estimated rise in output of food after completion: 1½ lakh tons.

Irrigation projects planned but not executed: Kabbini reservoir (Mysore District); Dandavati reservoir (Shimoga Dist.); Extension of the Vishvesvaraya Canal (Mysore Dist.); Homavati reservoir (Hassan Dist.); Jambadahalla reservoir (Chikmagalur Dist.); Pennar-Kumudavati reservoir (Kolar District).

(The above constitutes a skeleton plan of irrigation developments for the ten-year period after the completion of the five-year plan.)

Estimated rise when completed: About one lakh tons of food.

LAND RECLAMATION

Area of land reclaimed by the State tractor organisation: 35,000 acres.

Ratio of reclaimed land to land reclaimable: 1/60

Area developed: 10,796 acres

Number of tractors available: 121. (Also 25 bulldozers.)

Number of families settled: 1,960 families, comprising 8,436 persons (in 1952).

Basis of settlement: Individual farming.

Financial and other help given to colonisers: A total sum of Rs. 2,56,077 was disbursed during 1952 by way of rehabilitation loans, trade, business and industry loans.

Number of lift irrigation wells: 4,460 by power.

Number of diesel oil engine wells: 660.

Area rendered free of malaria, etc. through use of D.D.T.: One third of the State.

Area of State farms: 13 farms: nearly 2,000 acres.

CIVIL SUPPLIES

Rationing has been abolished all over the State.

Monthly requirements of State according to quota: About 115,000 tons of food grains were received by the State Government during 1952.

State's requirements per year: 1,150,000 tons (Wheat: 1 lakh tons; millets: 5 lakh tons; rice: 5 lakh tons; Kerosene: 50 lakhs gallons; cloth: 5,000 bales; yarn: 24,000 bales).

Articles in which the State is deficit: Rice (20,000 tons); Wheat (40,000 tons); Millets (20,000 tons).

Procurement in 1952: Paddy (1,783,262 pallas); Wheat (14 pallas); Raggi (310,184 pallas); Jola; (Jowar) (24,549 pallas); Other grains (18,167 pallas).

CO-OPERATION

Number of Co-operative Societies : 5,186

Total membership : 5.5 lakhs.

Working capital : Rs. 7 crores.

Paid-up capital : Rs. 1.5 crores.

Types of co-operative societies etc. and their number as on 31st December 1952 : Central co-operative banks : 5; Central co-operative societies : 9; Village co-operative societies : 3,454; Urban co-operative societies : 281; Land Mortgage co-operative societies : 80; Agricultural Products Marketing co-operative societies : 84; Housing co-operative societies : 101; Milk co-operative societies : 29; Weavers' co-operative societies : 101; Women's co-operative societies : 40; Employees and Labourers co-operative societies : 196; Other co-operative societies : 806.

Number of central and district co-operative banks : 5.

Provincial Co-operative Bank. The Mysore Provincial Co-operative Apex Bank Ltd., Bangalore.

STATE HELP FOR AGRICULTURE

Manures distributed under State auspices and their quantity : 50,388 tons (from 1919 to 1952) including compost, oil cakes and fertilizers.

Quantity of improved seeds distributed : 7,685 tons.

Agricultural implements distributed or loaned : Tractors : 22; Irrigation pumps : 311.

Monetary or other help given to cultivators.

During 1951-52, 812 wells benefiting an area of 1,624 acres were sunk. Eighteen major irrigation works at a total cost of Rs. 1.03 crores were pushed through, 134 tanks were restored, 55 tanks desilted, two lift irrigation schemes in river valleys were undertaken, 1,700 tons of paddy, 1,802 tons of ammonium sulphate, 959 tons of superphosphate and 3,416 tons of groundnut cake were distributed, 3.7 lakh tons of compost were prepared in urban and rural areas, over Rs. 21 lakhs worth of implements were supplied to cultivators, 10,000 acres tractor ploughed and 1,000 acres bulldozed, 80,000 acres were protected against pest and diseases.

Amount spent for land improvement and loan during 1952-53 : Rs. 253,650; Subsidy grant and loan : Rs. 388,000.

Taqavi loan and land improvement loans were given to 9,687 families excluding 101 Harijan families.

Fallow land distributed among cultivators 239,774 acres.

Taqavi and other loans : Rs. 12,23,506

Number of agricultural experimental farms : About 20.

Plant protection organisation and its operation: The Entomological Section of the Agricultural Department is in charge of the control and eradication of plant pests. Kerosene film treatment against ground beetles, application of the powder of the stem and root bark of the fish poison plant mandala suberosa to prevent damage from pulse beetles, trash heap traps and earthing up for sugarcane borers are a few of the novel methods of pest control evolved by this Section. The Mycology Section is one of the few departments in India which have a spraying organisation to combat disease as large and as well knit as the Mysore Agricultural Department has. The discovery of the organism causing Koleroga of coffee and the working out of its complete life history, the study of Anaheroga of areca and coconut, the study of coffee diseases and the technique of spraying and the discovery of intracellular bodies in the sandal spike diseases are some of the notable contributions by the Department in regard to plant protection.

Targets set for food or cash crops under the Five-Year Plan : Food : Two lakh tons (more). Cotton : 120,000 acres (more) under cotton.

Rise in production : Estimated additional production of food grains owing to intensive food production drive : 1949-50 : 43,448 tons; 1950-51 : 69,828 tons.

Highest yield per acre of different crops : (1952-53 Monsoon Season) : Paddy (4108 25 lb.), Ragl (2093.75 lb.); Jowar (1300 00 lb.), Bajra (1956.25 lb.); Castor (1285.00 lb.); Cotton (863.75 lb.).

Budget grant, for work outlined above : (1953-54)

Establishment of Agricultural College, Hebhal (Rs. 2,59,800), Investigation on the biological control of sugarcane pests (Rs. 53,400), Starting additional Kannada agricultural schools (Rs. 56,400); Propaganda and demonstration (Rs. 71,000), Starting more experimental farms in the State (Rs. 42,900), More demonstration farms in Taluk headquarters (Rs. 7,600), Departmental cultivation of lands at Malavalli, etc. (Rs. 14,300), Reorganisation of department (Rs. 85,100), Tractor and lorry service in State (Rs. 12,30,200), Multiplication and distribution of improved varieties of seeds (Rs. 10,60,200); Manufacture and distribution of rural compost (Rs. 6,50,200); Protective measures against pests and diseases (Rs. 82,300); Subsidy for construction of irrigation wells (Rs. 3,75,000), Miscellaneous (Rs. 6,68,000).

Number of veterinary experimental stations : 23.

Number of veterinary hospitals : 206 (One for every 18,200 animals and one for every 141 sq. miles)

Budget allotment for 1953-54 : Rs. 12,48,000

LAND TENURE

Land tenure system in the State : Mainly Ralyatwari. At some places the Bataya system that of equal division of the crop between the Government and the cultivator - and Inam and Jodi systems (land gifts) are in force.

Number of cultivators living under such system : Nearly 80 per cent under Ralyatwari.

Names of tenancy acts in force : The Mysore Tenancy Act, The Cultivation of Fallow Lands Act.

Important provisions of each act : The Mysore Tenancy Act has the object of fixing fair rents to lands rented out for cultivation. The Cultivation of Fallow Lands Act empowers the Government to force a landlord to cultivate cultivable land or take such land in its own hand for cultivation.

Name of law passed, for non-proprietary rentier class : The whole tenure system has been re-examined by a committee recently appointed by the Government and the recommendations of the committee are before the Government. One of the important recommendations is the abolition of the Inam and Jodi system.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Commonest diseases in the State giving mortality in 1952 within brackets : Malaria (13,295), T.B. (3,202).

Epidemics : Plague (1,122); Smallpox (3,213); Cholera (3,185).

Other diseases and number of patients treated at Government Hospitals : Diseases of Nervous system (147,139), Diseases of digestive system (473,102); Diseases of teeth and gums (78,755); Gonorrhoea (32,221); Syphilis (1,913).

Number of allopathic hospitals : 87.

Number of allopathic dispensaries : 404.

Allopathic institutions : Urban (99), Rural (491).

Number of beds : 5,461

Number of ayurvedic and unani dispensaries : 3,250 (Nearly 75 per cent of these are in rural areas)

Number and type of special hospitals : T.B. Sanatoria : 4; Hospitals and clinics : 6; Mental Hospital : 1; Loper Asylum : 1; Ophthalmic : 1; Epidemic Diseases hospital : 1.

Number of indoor patients treated in hospitals (Government) in 1952 : 150,140.

Number of outdoor patients : 7,385,654.

Number of Government hospitals : 108

Number of doctors : Surgeons : 28; Assistant Surgeons : 140; Medical probationers and doctors : 515.

Number of nurses : 456

Number of compounders : 339.

Medical colleges giving number of students within brackets : Medical College, Mysore : Allopathic (410), Ayurvedic College, Mysore : (130); Unani College, Mysore : (10); Medical School, Bangalore : (466).

Medical Research Institutions : Pathological Laboratory (attached to Victoria Hospital, Bangalore); Cancer Research Institute (Victoria Hospital, Bangalore); Malaria Research Institute, Sakaleshpur; Ramanagaram Nutrition Centre; Central Vaccine Institute.

Strength of Health Officers : About 200.

Budget allotment for 1953-54 : Rs. 42.84 lakhs.

(The State has 502 medical institutions, one for every 59.8 sq. miles. It also has 175 health centres).

Names of research institutes and other notable institutions : Indian Institute of Science, Bangalore ; Central Food Research Institute, Mysore ; Indian Dairy Research Institute, Bangalore ; Sir C. V. Raman's Institute, Bangalore.

Name and location of University : University of Mysore. The University has both Constituent and affiliated colleges.

Grant by State for 1953-54 : Rs. 46,00,000.

Number of adults socially educated in a year : 30,339.

Number of adult education classes : 2,093.

Contribution by State Government : The Adult Education Council is a non-official council and gets a grant of Rs. 5 lakhs.

Degree of literacy in State : 20.6 per cent (30.2 per cent among males and 10.3 per cent among females.)

Total number of institutions in the State : 13,888.

Total number of pupils in the State : 927,133.

Elementary education is compulsory in nine talukas : Bangalore, Chikmagalur, Chitaldrug, Hassan, Kolar, Mandya, Mysore, Shimoga and Tumkur talukas.

Of 121,000 children of 6-10 age group, 86 per cent are attending school. The percentage of enrolment in the whole State is 63 per cent.

Technique of social education : The Adult Education Council, which is a non-official body entrusted with the work is now a well organised group doing planned work every year, with an annual budget of five lakhs of rupees.

In the last year nearly 2,093 adult literacy classes were held, their strength was 42,179. The number of persons made literate was 30,339, new rural libraries started 85, and total number of adult education libraries 2,116.

Social service camps for students, development of folk arts, visual education, bhajans, harikirtans and dramas are some of the activities undertaken in this connection. Classes are held daily and weekly. Most of them are night classes.

Certificates are given after the completion of the course. Literacy, library service and follow-up of literacy, training of village leaders, general education through films and talks, revival of folk arts and crafts, publishing books for adults made literate, organising social service camps and community centres have been items of the work of the Mysore State Adult Education Council. Their Vidyapeetha Scheme for training village leaders has won appreciation of international organisations.

Plans for educational reconstruction or expansion : A 40-man committee appointed by the Government in September 1952 submitted its proposals in February 1953 for the reorientation of the educational system in the State. The Committee has made suggestions for the remodelling of education at all stages, laying down the future lines of policy. These suggestions are under the consideration of the State Government.

Place of language in the educational system in Mysore : The Regional language, Kannada, is compulsory at primary and middle school stages (eight years). It is not compulsory at secondary schools and University stages.

In 1949 Hindi was made a compulsory subject of study in all High Schools, a pass in this language being required for promotion from class to class. But it was not prescribed as a subject for the S.S.L.C. examination as it was considered that this would make the burden of languages too heavy under the existing scheme. The teaching of Hindi in High Schools is continued for three years.

The teaching of English becomes compulsory from the first year of Middle School and onward. It is continued all through the Middle School (four years), the High School (three years), Intermediate (two years) and degree classes, barring Engineering and Medicine. The medium of instruction at the College stage is English. At the High School stage, however, instruction is given both in English and Kannada, the students being given the option to choose the medium of instruction.

There has been no official proposal to replace the English medium at the University stage by the Kannada medium. The Educational Reforms Committee, appointed by the Government, has recommended that English should continue to occupy the same position as heretofore.

Working of Wardha Basic Education : A scheme of Basic Education was launched in 1947 by the establishment of a training centre at Vidyannagar, a village about 14 miles from Bangalore, to provide teachers for basic schools, run along the lines inspired by Gandhiji's Nayi Talim.

The course of study includes principles of basic education, organisation of community life, community and personal cleanliness, production of cloth and food, social education in villages, cultural education, i.e., literature, religion, history and science.

The Institute covers a campus of 81 acres amidst rural surroundings and is residential. So far about 276 teachers have undergone training and about 50 teachers are being trained. The trained teachers are now working in 104 basic schools, which have been started in different parts of the State during the last five years.

INDIAN INSTITUTE OF CULTURE

6, North Public Square Road, Basavanagudi, Bangalore City

Objects : (1) To establish a Centre affording opportunities for cultural and intellectual development, (2) To spread correct ideas on education, especially of adults and of youth, (3) To promote exchange of thoughts among the various States of India and other countries of the world towards establishing true national and international concord and co-operation.

For the furtherance of these objects, the Indian Institute of Culture has had since August 1945 a Cosmopolitan Home, and since the opening of its free public library in July 1947, has had a regular weekly programme of lectures on a wide variety of cultural subjects, alternating with discussion group meetings, at each of which an outstanding recent book is orally reviewed and then discussed or a paper specially sent for the purpose is read and its points considered.

In 1951 a new building was erected in the Institute's grounds, housing the growing free library and offices and providing an auditorium seating 300.

Numerous lectures, papers read and book reviews have appeared in The Aryan Path, the Institute's monthly organ.

Membership is open to all.

President, Council of Management, B. P. Wadia

Honorary Secretary, Dr. L. S. Dorasami, M.Sc., Ph.D., F.A.Sc.

INDIAN INSTITUTE OF SCIENCE

Bangalore 3.

The Institute owes its origin to the munificence of J. N. Tata, whose plan for establishing a Research Institute, was brought to fruition after his death by the generosity of his two sons, Sir Dorabji Tata and Sir Ratanji Tata, supported by the Government of India and the Government of Mysore. The Institute began work in July 1911 with the two-fold object of advanced instruction and research in science and engineering.

The departments of the Institute provide facilities for post-graduate research in Inorganic Chemistry, Physical Chemistry, General Chemistry, Organic Chemistry, Bio-chemistry, Physics, Aeronautical Engineering, Internal Combustion Engineering, Metallurgy, Power Engineering (Electrical, High Voltage, Mechanical, and Civil and Hydraulic Engineering), Electrical Communication Engineering, and Chemical Technology and Chemical Engineering.

There is also provision for post-graduate instruction in Aeronautical Engineering, Internal Combustion Engineering, Metallurgy, Power Engineering (Electrical, Mechanical and Civil and Hydraulic Engineering), Electrical Technology, Electrical Communication Engineering and Chemical Engineering; and for background teaching in Economics and Social Sciences, French and German. The departments are well equipped and have adequate staff.

The library of the Institute contains about 17,625 volumes of current journals and books.

Conferment : Diplomas (D.I.Sc.) are awarded by the Council on the recommendation of the Senate to students who have completed satisfactorily courses of studies approved by the Senate.

Associateships (A.I.Sc.) equivalent to 1st Class M.Sc., degree of a University are awarded by the Council on the recommendation of the Senate to students possessing prescribed minimum qualifications who have devoted a minimum of five consecutive terms entirely to research and have presented a thesis of the work done during the period.

Memberships (M.I.Sc.) equivalent to the Ph.D., degree of a University are awarded by the Council on the recommendation of the Senate to students who are Associates or who hold Diploma of the Institute in Power Engineering, or a 1st Class M.Sc., or M.Sc., by research and who have devoted three terms entirely to research and have submitted thesis of the work approved by the Senate.

Fellowships (F.I.Sc.) equivalent to D.Sc., degree of a University are awarded by the Council on the recommendation of the Senate and with the previous approval of the Visitor to members who have spent three years at the Institute or in actual practice and have done original and valuable research work or made an outstanding contribution to the advancement of scientific or industrial knowledge and to Associates who have spent four years at the Institute or in actual practice and have produced similar work or made similar contribution.

Honorary Fellowships of the Institute may, on the recommendation of the Council, be conferred by the President of India who is the Visitor of the Institute on persons who have attained eminence in the field of science or industry or who have rendered signal service to the Institute.

The scientific work of the Institute is recorded in the Journal of the Indian Institute of Science, published every quarter in January, April, July and October.

The area of the District is 3,137.9 sq. miles and the population is 2,127,061. The average rainfall is 30.95 inches. The District has a forest area of 814.1 sq. miles.

Bangalore is the headquarters. It is 26 sq. miles in area and has a population of 778,977. It is a centre of many State-owned and private industries, such as soap, porcelain insulators, electrical transformers, gas mantles, gas lamps, glassware, pharmaceutical products, vegetable oil products, chrome tanned leather, nakki, gotta and lametta. Some of these industries are being carried on on a cottage industry scale. There are also woollen and cotton and silk mills.

Channarayana is situated to the south-west of Bangalore on the Bangalore-Mysore Railway. It has a population of 24,041. The town is noted for the manufacture of lacquer toys and the drawing of wire for musical instruments. It is also a centre for sericulture in the State. It contains a Government Silk Farm and the Mysore Spun Silk Mills, a Government-aided enterprise. Large quantities of coconuts and betel leaves are produced in the town. Considerable quantities of mangoes are also exported.

Chickballapur is a Taluka Headquarters town, 86 miles north-west of Kolar on the Bangalore-Bellary road. It has a population of 20,219 and is a centre for potatoes, onions, jaggery, and groundnuts. There are three groundnut decorticating factories in the town and 30 rice and flour mills. There are also about 20 power looms and an equal number of handlooms manufacturing silk and cotton fabrics. Twenty wholesale merchants in the town carry on trade with Madras and Ceylon.

Tiptur is a Taluka Headquarters town, 48 miles from Tumkur on the Bangalore-Haripur line. There are 60 wholesale merchants carrying on a busy trade in coconut and copra, with Bombay and Bangalore. 12,000 tons of coconut and copra are annually exported.

PRINTED METAL

The sale of your products depends as much on the appearance of the container as on the quality of its contents. There is no more effective way to advertise your products than by packaging them in a cleverly designed container whose display value is enhanced by neat printing. Such a container builds up big business, reputation, prestige. We make printed tin containers for manufacturers of PAINT, VARNISHES, COSMETICS, CONFECTIONERY, TEA & COFFEE, BOOT POLISH, TYPEWRITER RIBBONS, MEDICINAL, FOOD and PETROLEUM PRODUCTS. You owe it to yourself to package your products in containers that please.

Bhakra Nangal Power Project: The project is a joint concern of Punjab, PEPSU and Rajasthan. It was started in 1949-50 and envisages the construction of Power houses No. I and II on Nangal Canal with two generating units of 24,000 kW. at each site and installation of 4 units at Bhakra Dam. The total firm power available from Bhakra Nangal Project will be 400,000 kW.

The Power House No 1 on Nangal Hydel Channel will be completed during 1954 while the second power house will be completed by the end of 1955. Installation of one unit at Bhakra will be completed by the end of 1959 while the remaining units at Bhakra will be completed as and when required.

Transmission lines and local distribution system are under construction; It is proposed to electrify 50 towns in PEPSU within the next 5 years. The whole project is being financed through loan from the Central Government. The total cost of the electricity project is Rs. 44-50 crores and the liability of the PEPSU will be about Rs. 10-80 crores. All the common works, i.e., construction of power houses and installation of units and construction of transmission lines upto 66 kV. are being done by the Punjab Government on behalf of all the partners. They are also constructing 33 kW. lines on behalf of the PEPSU.

Estimated rise in output after completion of the project will be 400,000 kW.

Total power potential available for PEPSU will be 88,000 kW

IRRIGATION

Total Area Irrigated: About 40 lakh acres

Area irrigated by Masonry wells and Tube-wells: 804,840 acres

Area irrigated by Government Irrigation Works (Canals): Sirhind Canal System 1,900,000 acres; Western Jamuna Canal System 596,000 acres; On Punjab branches 593,000 acres.

The Sirhind Canal which takes off from Ruper Headworks feeds Punjab and PEPSU territory. The total authorised full discharge of Sirhind Canal is 9,040 cusecs. The details of PEPSU area which is irrigated from this project are given below:—

On Patiala branches: 1,900,000 acres.

On Punjab branches: 593,000 acres.

The Bhakra Nangal Project is a multipurpose river valley project

The project envisages the construction of a dam about 680 ft. high at Bhakra on Sutlej river 40 miles north of Ruper and construction of Nangal Dam, about 8 miles below Bhakra Dam. It is proposed to take off Nangal Hydel Channel having an authorised full supply discharge of 12,500 cusecs from Nangal Dam for irrigation of area of the different partners. This project will also enhance supplies in Sirhind Canal from 9,040 cusecs to 12,500 cusecs at Ruper. It is expected that the project will be completed by the end of 1959. Total PEPSU area which will be benefited from Bhakra Nangal Project will be 1,345,000 acres gross. In addition it will also enhance the supplies in old Sirhind Canal system by about 40 per cent. The total discharge available for PEPSU area from the project will be about 4,500 cusecs. The total cost of the Irrigation part of the project is Rs. 111-82 crores and the total liabilities of PEPSU are about Rs. 23-50 crores. The entire project is being financed through loan from the Government of India and will be completed by the end of 1959.

Bein River Project: It is proposed to harness the water of Bein River by taking out channel from the existing barrage on the river near Kapurthala and to irrigate about 40,000 acres of land. The total cost of the project is Rs. 8-88 lakhs, it was to be completed by the end of 1953-54.

Narnaul Bund Project: It is proposed to construct a small earthen dam at the confluence of the two small monsoon streams about 2½ miles south-west of Narnaul. It is a famine-protection scheme and will supply water for rabi sowing and Kharif maturing to an area of 6,700 acres. The total cost of the project is Rs. 6-37 lakhs. The project was to be completed by the end of 1953-54.

Tube-well construction under T.C.A. The existing water allowances on Sirhind Canal system is 1-69 cusecs per thousand acres of C.C.A. which is very low and therefore, most of the areas remain unirrigated. In certain tracts, viz. Dhuri and Pail, the subsoil water level has risen very high and water lodging trouble has started. It is, therefore, proposed to install 300 tube-wells in Dhuri-Malerkotla-Pail tehsils supplementing the canal irrigation. The total area under the scheme will be 2-4 lakhs and about 80 per cent of this will get water for irrigation. This area will be taken off from the Canal system. Total cost of the project is 1-93 crores and it is being financed through loan from the Central Government.

The project has been finalised and a contract has been signed with Messrs. Harold T. Smith Inc. for its execution.

With the completion of Bhakra Dam, about 4,500 cusecs of additional discharge will be available in PEPSU for irrigation purposes. The Bhakra Nangal Project will increase the food production in PEPSU by 2-5 lakh tons and the production of cotton by 1-6 lakh bales.

The increase in foodgrains on account of other projects will be as below:—

Bein River Project: 2,000 tons.

Narnaul Bund Project: 4,000 tons. Also a large increase in sugarcane production

Tube-well Project: 48,000 tons. Also 25,000 tons of cotton.

Classes of Tenure The first figure in the brackets shows the total area and the second figure the cultivated area.

Occupancy Tenants. PEPSU Abolition of Blawadari Ordinance, 2006 Bk. amended by PEPSU Ordinance No. XXXVI of 2006 and PEPSU Act No. IV of 2007.

By this Act, all lands under occupancy tenants are sought to be divided between the landlord and the tenant in the ratio of 1:3. The tenant, however, has the right to purchase the landlord's share after paying the market price of the share or 100 times the land revenue, whichever is less. A new bill seeking to abolish landlords' right against payment of compensation not exceeding 12 times land revenue is under consideration.

Special Tenants: Abolition of Ala-malkiat Rights against compensation not exceeding five times the land revenue is under consideration.

Tenants-at-Will: PEPSU Tenancy (Temporary Provisions) Act, 2008 is in force which ensures tenants against arbitrary ejectments.

New law called Agricultural Lands Bill is under consideration. This gives the tenant right to purchase the land on which they are working against compensation not exceeding 100 times land revenue or Rs. 400 per acre whichever is less. The landlord is authorised to eject tenant upto a limit of 100 acres, if he requires the land for personal cultivation.

Compensation. All compensation exceeding Rs. 250 will be payable by the tenant in six annual instalments to the Government which will be responsible to pay the compensation money to the landlord.

CIVIL SUPPLIES

Names of rationed articles, quantum of each per adult per week: Foodgrains only are rationed informally. The quantum per adult per week is 84 ounces, and 112 ounces in case of manual labour. Wheat and atta are issued in ration.

Commercial Training Institutions :

Number of commercial training institutions : 3 (Industrial 2; Technical 1).

Total enrolment : 304.

Total number of instructors : 23

Total expenditure : Rs. 55,348

Contribution by State Government : Rs. 10,182.

By Private agencies : Rs. 341.

Fees : Rs. 44,825.

Research and other notable Institutions :

Research Institute, Kasauli (administered by Central Government); Lawrence School, Sanawer (administered by Central Government); Yadavendra Public School Patiala (Trust)

University Scheme

No University at present. But a bill was introduced in State Legislature in the November Session of 1952.

Names of educational or research institutions in State to which the Central Government makes a grant : Research Institute at Kasauli which is administered by the Central Government

Grant given by the Central Government in 1952 for education of Backward Classes : Rs. 6,80,000

Elementary education is not compulsory in the State.

Social Education

Number of adults socially educated in a year : 1,043.

Total number of teachers available : 119.

Total number of adults educated since movement was started : 1,783.

Total expenditure : Rs. 8,318.

Contributions from State Government : Rs. 8,318.

In the session beginning from November 1951 to May 1952, 200 adult education centres were opened. Out of this 119 centres functioned successfully. 2,000 adults were on roll in the centres. Out of this, 1,043 were made literate. The duration of the course is for six months.

In the summer season the classes are held after the school hours in the evening while in winter at night. Literacy certificates are awarded to those adults who pass the literacy test conducted by Inspecting Officers. Teachers of Government institutions impart instruction to the adults in Punjabi and Hindi languages.

It is expected that within a period of five years, i.e. 1956-57 illiteracy will be removed from the whole State.

Place of language in the education system : Teaching of both the regional languages viz Punjabi and Hindi is compulsory. The State is divided into two linguistic zones—Punjabi-speaking area and Hindi-speaking area. In the Punjabi-speaking zone, Punjabi is taught in the Primary stage from 1 to IV classes and Hindi is taught as compulsory language from IV to VII. Similarly Hindi is taught as a compulsory language in the primary stage and Punjabi as second compulsory language from V to VIII in the Hindi zone.

English is the medium of instruction at the College stage. As College education in the State is under the control of the Punjab University, any such scheme, as envisages the replacement of English should emanate from that body.

Working of Wardha Basic Education scheme in the State : Scheme in regard to the opening of the Basic type schools has not yet materialized. However proposals have been under the consideration of the State Government for a pretty long time in regard to the opening of a Basic Education Training School and other Basic Type Schools, etc.

Plans for educational reconstruction or expansion : Under the development plan 114 new Primary Schools are being opened. 204 primary schools will be financed out of the General budget. Proposals have been sent for upgrading 16 primary and L. M. Schools and 4 middle schools.

105 posts are to be added to the existing High, Middle, L. Middle and Primary Schools by way of improvement.

Among castes and tribes the most numerous are the Brahmmins, Jats, Mahajans, Chamars, Rajputs, Minas, Gujars, Bhils, Malls and Balais.

GEOGRAPHY

The Aravalli mountains intersect the country from end to end by a line running north-east and south-west. The heights of Mount Abu are close to the south-western extremity of the range, while its north-eastern end may be said to terminate near Khetri almost on the borders of Delhi.

There are two main regions, one to the north-west of the hills and the other to the south-east. On the whole the north-west region is sandy, ill-watered and unproductive; it improves gradually as we move from west to east. In the extreme west it is mere desert, while towards the east it is comparatively fertile and habitable. The only river of any consequence here is the Luni. The great desert forming the whole of the frontier between Rajasthan and Sind is covered by sand-hills on which grows a kind of coarse grass in the dry season and in the rains slightly richer vegetation. The cultivation is everywhere poor and precarious. Along the base of the Aravalli range the land is well cultivated.

The region south-east of the Aravallis is higher, more fertile, and very diversified in character. It contains extensive hill ranges, long stretches of rocky wold and woodland. The region is traversed by many rivers and in some parts there are wide valleys, fertile table-lands and great stretches of excellent soil. The chief rivers are Banas and Chambal.

There are no natural fresh-water lakes in Rajasthan, the only considerable basin being the well-known salt lake at Sambhar. There are, however, numerous artificial sheets of water in the eastern half of the State. The oldest and the most famous are in Mewar, the Dhebar Lake, the Raj Samand and the Pichola Lake at Udaipur city.

Rainfall is very unequally distributed throughout Rajasthan. The summers are very hot; hot winds and dust storms are common. The winters are very cold. The change of temperature between day and night is sudden, excessive and very trying.

MINERALS, MANUFACTURES

The most important mineral in Rajasthan is coal, but it is of inferior quality. It is generally mixed with the Bengal variety before use. Other ores are copper, iron, cobalt but all are present in small quantity. The rocks of Rajasthan are rich in building material. Limestone is abundant. One variety is a fine-grained crystalline marble; another variety, the Jaisalmer marble as it is sometimes called is well adapted for fine carving. Sandstone is plentiful almost everywhere, varying greatly in texture and colour. Fuller's earth occurs in parts of Bikaner and gypsum in Jodhpur. Rajasthan has vast salt resources.

The more important industries are the weaving of muslin, dyeing and printing of cotton cloths, manufacture of carpets, rugs and other woollen fabrics, enamelling, pottery, and work in ivory, lac, brass, steel, stone, etc. Jaipur is pre-eminent for enamelling on gold. The best pottery is also produced in Jaipur. Brass and copper utensils of daily use are manufactured everywhere. Sword blades, daggers, knives are manufactured in Jhalawar.

Among the chief exports are salt, wool, woollen fabrics, raw cotton, oilseeds, opium, ghee, marble and sandstone, hides, printed cloths, camels, cattle, sheep and goats. The main imports include food grains, cotton goods, sugar, tobacco, metals, timber and kerosene oil. The principal trade centres are the capitals of the former States.

AGRICULTURE

Main Food (crops of the State : (a) Kharif Crops : (Rice, Bajra, Jowar and Maize); (b) Rabi Crops : (Wheat, Barley and Gram)

Main cash crops of the State : (a) Oil seeds (Sesamum, Groundnut, Rape and Mustard and Linseed); (b) Cotton; (c) Sugarcane.

Total production of Food (crops : 2,216,000 tons (according to crops cutting surveys conducted in 1952-53) (Bajra 475,000 tons; Jowar 310,000 tons; Maize 246,000 tons; Wheat 559,000 tons; Barley 385,000 tons; Gram 234,000 tons and Rice 7,000 tons).

Production of individual cash crops (as per forecast report 1950-51) : (a) Oil seeds (Sesamum 52,000 tons; Groundnut 13,000 tons; Rape and Mustard 35,000 tons; Linseed 12,000 tons); (b) Cotton 13,000 tons; (c) Sugarcane 16,000 tons.

Total area of Rajasthan : 83,332,288 acres. Total area of cultivated land : 29,957,000 (1950-51).

Total area of cultivable land : 50,263,000 acres (1950-51) (including cultivated area).

Total area cultivated twice : 1,046,198 acres (1950-51).

Total area under Food Crops : 15,654,000 acres. Total area under cash crops : 2,248,000 acres (1950-51).

Area under individual Food Crops : Bajra 8,701,000 acres; Jowar 2,002,000 acres; Maize 790,000 acres; Wheat 1,567,000 acres; Barley 867,000 acres; Gram 1,522,000 acres; Rice 205,000 acres.

Area under individual cash crops in 1950-51 : (a) Oil seeds (Sesamum 1,046,000 acres; Groundnut 90,000 acres; Rape and Mustard 385,000 acres; Linseed 264,000 acres; (b) Cotton 375,000 acres; (c) Sugarcane 48,000 acres; (d) Others 45,000 acres.

Area possibly available for further cultivation through reclamation measures : 11,321,000 acres.

Fruit gardens : 132 (State managed).

Fish : Variety of F.M.H. produced : There are large numbers of tanks, lakes and rivers in which inland fishes are found. The main species are the major carps, pis, Rohu, Naren Marigal, Kalbons, Katla and other varieties, e. g. Puti, Lanchi, Sole, etc. are also found.

Land Reclamation :

Number of tractors available : 506 (according to 1951 livestock census)

STATE HELP FOR AGRICULTURE

Mannures distributed under State auspices and their quantity (1950-51) : Quantity of compost 14,450 tons; Oilcakes 170 md.; Fertilizers 310 tons.

Quantity of improved seeds distributed : 48,970 md. (1950-51).

Monetary or other help given by Government to cultivators : Rs. 3,52,000 were sanctioned to 111 persons for the purchase of pumping sets and Rs. 7,98,000 were sanctioned to 117 persons for the purchase of tractors and implements out of the total grant of Rs. 10 lakhs as lacavi loans.

Number of Agricultural Experimental farms : 20.

Plant Protection Organisation and its Operation : The Plant Protection Organisation has its two fold activities.

(i) Anti-Locust Operations : The present locust cycle commenced in 1949. Nearly 4,130 sq. miles of the cultivated area were infested with locust hoppers. To meet this emergency all the staff of Plant Protection and Entomology Section and District Staff was canalised for this purpose. Locust control equipment in the form of hand dusting machines, power dusters, flame throwers and Pesticides were extensively used in the infested areas. The Anti-Locust Operations were successful and completely saved the Kharif Crops of 1951 and Rabi (crops of 1951-52 and nowhere hoppers were allowed to develop into adult locust swarms.

(ii) Plant Protection Measures. Under these measures, the following specific items were attended to :—

(i) Anti-Rat Campaigns Campaigns against field rats were carried out in Jaipur, Ganganagar, Udaipur, Dungarpur, Bharatpur, Alwar, Tonk, Kotah and Jodhpur Districts. In all about 27,250 acres of cultivated land were cleared of rats by the use of Strychnine Hydrochloride and Zinc-Phosphide baits and H.C.N. Gas fumigation.

(ii) Grasshoppers (Phakha) Special staff was deputed for control of this in Kharif, 1951. 52,000 acres of cropped area and 30,000 acres of uncultivated area were dusted with B.H.C. dust from end of June upto end of September. It is estimated that this might have resulted in the saving of Rs. 51 lakhs worth of crops.

(iii) Control of Insect Pests of Rabi crops. Five per cent B.H.C. dust was dusted in 33 acres of wheat crops, 330 acres of Barley crops and 40 acres of linseed crops in 1951.

(iv) Control Operations against Pests and Diseases of Vegetable and Fruits : About 12,000 citrus trees and 3,000 mango trees were sprayed against the pests and diseases affecting them. Some of the area under vegetable was also sprayed.

(v) Others : For the control of sugarcane Pyralis which forms the sugarcane crops, about 82 acres of sugarcane were dusted. For the control of pink boll-worms, 400 md. of Cotton seed distributed by the Agriculture Department were fumigated by Methyl Bromide.

Targets set for food crops : 35,000 tons in 1952.

Highest yield per acre of different crops for which prizes were offered in competition : Wheat : 52 mds. 22 seers per acre ; Potato : 1,008 md. per acre.

Budget grant for work outlined above : Rs. 2,486,000 (1952-53).

Number of veterinary experimental stations : There is one Pathology Laboratory at Jaipur and one Biological Products Laboratory at Jodhpur.

Number of Veterinary Hospitals : 127 besides 5 Veterinary Hospitals run by District Boards.

Number of surgeons and stockmen: 59 Veterinary Asstt. Surgeons, 90 Compounders, 127 Stockmen and 65 Dressers.

Budget allotment for the Veterinary Department for the year 1953-54: Rs. 12,00,000.

FORESTS

Location of forests (in forest Divisions) and area in each division: Udaipur: 3,279 sq. miles; Chittorgarh: 1,154 sq. miles; Jodhpur: 536.75 sq. miles; Banswara: 1,093 sq. miles; Sirohi: 440 sq. miles; Jaipur: 402 sq. miles; Bharatpur: 934 sq. miles; Tonk: 219 sq. miles; Kotah: 175 sq. miles; Bundi: 1,070 sq. miles; Jhalawar: 2,510 sq. miles; Baran: 717 sq. miles.

Total forest area in State: 13,129 sq. miles.

Other livestock: Donkeys 124,340; Mules: 3,763; Camels: 339,063.

LAND TENURE

Land Tenure Systems in the State:

About 41 Tenures of Jagir Land (Section I of R.L.R. and R.J. Act, 1952).

Laws Governing each of these Tenure Systems: The Bundi State Tenancy Act; The Bikaner Tenancy Act, 1945; The Marwar Tenancy Act, 1949; The Jaipur Tenancy Act, 1945; The Jaipur State Grants Land Tenures Act, 1947; The Rajasthan Protection of Tenants Ordinance; The Rajasthan Revenue Courts (Procedure and Jurisdiction) Act, 1951; The Rajasthan Produce Rent Regulating Act, 1951; The Rajasthan Agricultural Rents Control Act, 1952.

These Tenancy Acts will be repealed when the Rajasthan Tenancy Bill becomes an Act.

Brief Summary of the more important provisions of each of these Tenancy Acts: Different Tenancy Acts of covenanting States which are in force at present, will be repealed when the Rajasthan Tenancy Bill is enacted. This Bill aims at introducing uniform Tenancy Law for the whole of the State and will remove the diversity of conditions prevailing in different parts of Rajasthan in respect of Land Tenures and relations of tenant and landlords.

Law passed for expropriating, non-proprietary rented class (Zamindari, Jagirdari abolition): The Rajasthan Land Reforms and Resumption of Jagirs Act, 1952 has been enacted for the resumption of Jagir Lands, with the exception of jagirs utilised for the maintenance of any place of religious worship or for the performance of religious service and such jagirs, the income of which does not exceed Rs. 5,000. It also contains provisions for allotment of Khudkaat land to Jagirdars and for other land reforms, like grant of Khatedari rights to jagir tenants.

Main provisions of this Law especially about compensation:

Every jagirdar whose jagir land has been resumed has to file within 2 months from the date of resumption, a Statement of claim for compensation in a prescribed form before the Jagir Commissioner. On receipt of the statement of claim the Jagir Commissioner shall determine the amount of compensation. Principles governing the determination of compensation are:—Basic year, Gross Income, Calculation of income from rent, Net income and amount of compensation money. Broadly, the compensation payable to Jagirdar shall be 10 times his net income.

Persons who will be expropriated under the Law: All Jagirdars and their dependants except those who have got income less than Rs. 5,000 from their jagirs.

Area of the land that will be released in consequence: 82,000 sq. miles comprising jagir area in the State.

Proportion of this Land to the total area of the State: About 40 per cent.

Persons to whom this land is to be allotted: The landless peasants for Khudkaat.

This Law has been put into operation with effect from 18th February 1952; but the jagirs have not been resumed due to writ petitions filed by the jagirdars challenging the validity of the Rajasthan Land Reforms and Resumption of Jagir Act, 1952 in the High Court of Judicature, Rajasthan. The case is still sub-judice.

Source of acquisition of compensation money: From the resources of the State with the assistance of the Central Government.

How the tenants are helped to acquire the land so released: Rules regarding allotment of land to landless tenants are under contemplation according to which they will be allotted vacant land on application to the local Revenue authorities.

IRRIGATION

Names of irrigation projects in operation in the respective divisions showing the area irrigated:

Udaipur Division: Madar: 300 acres; Fatch Sagar lake with channels: 500 acres; Sawarop Sagar and Pichols with channels: 500 acres; Bhupal Sagar tank: 6,000 acres, Jal Samand lake: 15,000 acres.

Kankroli Division: Raj Samand: 10,000 acres

Kotah Division: Ummed Sagar tank including, Bangarh canals: 6,000 acres.

Irrigation West Division, Jaipur: Chaparwara: 900 acres.

Jawai Division: Surpura: 845 acres; Jaswant Sagar: 10,471 acres; Surasamand: 7,600 acres.

Matysa Division: Sikar: 41,669 acres; Jaisamand: 3,360 acres; Jey Sagar: 1,799 acres; Mangalsar: 325 acres; Boochara: 2,375 acres; Ajan Bund: 22,950 acres; Pichuna Canal: 10,600 acres; Ramnagar tank and canal: 4,389 acres; Urmila tank and canal: 2,950 acres; Talshai tank and channel: 436 acres.

East Division: Sainthal Sagar: 3,081 acres; J. Ramgarh: 16,274 acres; Madho Sagar: 2,181 acres; Mansarovar: 3,811 acres; Gula Sagar: 5,287 acres; Dhill: 7,000 acres.

Number of irrigation projects in execution, the total area to be irrigated and total cost, in each division: Kankroli Division: 2; 64,000 acres; Rs. 70 lakhs; Jawai Division: 4; 101,500 acres; Rs. 377.3 lakhs; Jaipur East Division: 4; 37,280 acres; Rs. 65.68 lakhs; Jaipur West Division: 1; Matysa Division: 1; 16,000 acres; Rs. 50 lakhs; Kotah Division: 1; 30,000 acres; Rs. 34 lakhs.

These works are to be financed from the loan from the Government of India under the first Five Year Plan and from the grant of Rs. 50 lakhs under F.F.I. Agreement.

Number of other small projects included in the Five Year Plan, area to be irrigated and the cost: 107 schemes; 356,451 acres; Rs. 710.37 lakhs.

Number of minor irrigation works to be completed during 1953-54, area to be irrigated and the cost: 161 works, 75,600 acres; Rs. 30.50 lakhs. (Financed from the first loan of Rs. 30 lakhs from the Government of India.)

POWER PROJECTS

Total capacity of power plant installed in State.	33,119 kW.
Total effective capacity	24,195 kW.
Total production during the year 1952	58,559,306 units.
Number of units supplied to industry	15,886,286 „
Number of units supplied for irrigation purposes and agricultural purposes	9,384,167 „
Number of units supplied for domestic purposes	8,347,876 „

Electric power for Rajasthan from Bhakra Nangal Project will be received at Sri Ganganagar and Ramgarh. Rajasthan is a partner in the electricity part of the Bhakra Nangal Project, the other two partners being Punjab and PEPSU. It is a multi-purpose project.

The electric power will be generated at Nangal Power Houses No. 1 and 2 and Power House at Bhakra Dam. This work will be done on a common pool basis. In Rajasthan, transmission and distribution of the electric energy will be done for catering the load. The works on the generating stations started in 1950. The works for transmission and distribution of electric energy in Rajasthan was expected to commence in 1953-54 and will continue till 1963-64. Major transmission and distribution lines will be completed by 1955-56 and extensions and augmentations of these lines will continue till 1963-64. Total firm power amounting to 105,000 kW. would be available in post-Bhakra stage.

The generation of electrical power will be in three stages. The two power stations with an ultimate capacity of 72,000 kW. will be situated on Nangal Canal taking off from the Sutlej river at a point 8 miles below the proposed Bhakra Dam and ultimately joining the main river.

Electric power from Sri Ganganagar and Rajgarh will be transmitted for distribution to 39 towns and rural areas catering to a load of 10,000 kW. It is expected that load will grow very rapidly once the importance of electric light and power is appreciated.

The main transmission of the electric power will be made on 66 and 33 kV and the distribution voltage will be 11 kV. Length of the new transmission lines will be as follows:

66 kV. lines	295 miles
33 kV. lines	145 miles
11 kV. lines	370 miles
Total	810 miles

The shares of the partners are as follows:—

Punjab	62.4 per cent
PEPSU	22.4 per cent
Rajasthan	15.2 per cent.

It is expected that financial help from the Central Government would be available in the form of loan. In addition to this the Rajasthan Government will finance the project from State funds.

Summary of the total capital cost upto the end of the year 1963-64 of the whole project for Rajasthan is given below:—

Common pool pro-rata share of Rajasthan.	Cost in lakhs of rupees.
Production	Rs. 187.400
Transmission 166.240
Total	Rs. 353.640
Rajasthan
Transmission	Rs. 241.962
Distribution 233.424
Grand Total	Rs. 829.026

Estimated rise in output after completion: It would be possible to cater a load to the extent of 15,000 kW. by the end of the year 1963-64.

Chambal River Scheme: The planning of this scheme is under finalisation. It is a multi-purpose type and will serve about 14,000 sq. miles and a population of 20 millions in Rajasthan and Madhya Bharat. In total 81 localities will be served by this scheme out of which 29 localities fall in Rajasthan.

The project has been divided into three stages. The first stage will have two Dams with one Power Station near the first dam i.e. Gandhisagar Dam, the barrage together with the entire canal system and a part of the transmission system. 60,000 kW. of power will be developed. It is expected that the first stage will be completed by 1957-58. The second and third stages consist of three dams with a Power Station at each and a barrage, with the necessary canal and transmission systems.

The cost of works is as follows: First stage Rs. 33.75 crores; Second stage Rs. 8.05 crores; Third stage Rs. 7.50 crores. Total Rs. 49.30 crores.

This will increase power to 200,000 kW. The Gandhisagar Dam will be situated at a distance of 5 miles downstream of Chaurasgarh Fort where the boundary between Rajasthan and Madhya Bharat runs through the centre of the river. The power potential of the site is 60,000 kW. at 60 per cent load factor.

The Rana Pratap Sagar Dam will be located at a distance of 22 miles downstream of the Gandhisagar Dam. The power potential of the site is 80,000 kW. at 60 per cent load factor.

The Kotah Dam will be the third in series and will be built in the river gorge about 10 miles above Kotah City with a power station at its foot. It will be possible to generate about 60,000 kW. at 60 per cent load factor.

The project will be financed by the Madhya Bharat and Rajasthan Governments.

The load to be catered in Rajasthan by this project:—

	Effective demand in kW.
Stage I	10,700
Stage II	31,000
Stage III	38,500
Total	80,200

CIVIL SUPPLIES

There is no statutory rationing in this State. However, foodstuffs are supplied in certain areas at controlled rates.

As far as wheat is concerned, the quantum of ration is 9 oz. per adult per day. For coarse grain there is no quantitative restriction on issue and this grain is freely issued subject to the availability of stock at a particular place and time.

There is a free market throughout the State and consumers are at liberty to supplement their requirements.

Monthly requirement of State according to the quota. About 6,000 tons per month.

Degree of Control in the State. The control is being gradually relaxed with certain reservations with a view to decontrol. There is no control on movement within the State except at the time of procurement, when dealers are at liberty to move after delivering the State levy fixed at a certain percentage. At present the levy is fixed at 40 per cent on the stock. This percentage varies from year to year, but variations are not very significant.

PHYSICAL FEATURES

Standing boldly out into the Arabian Sea between Kutch and the Gujarat coast, Saurashtra's physical features suggest that it may once have been an island or a group of islands of volcanic origin. The surface of Saurashtra is for the most part undulating with low ranges of hills running in very irregular directions. With the exception of the Thanga and Mandav hills, in the west of Jhalavar, and some unimportant hills in Halar the northern portion of the country is flat. But in the south from the neighbourhood of Gogha, the Gir range runs nearly parallel with the coast and at a distance of about 20 miles from it, along the north of Babariwad and Sorath to the neighbourhood of Girnar. The principal river is the Bhadar which rises in the Mandav hills and, flowing south-west, falls into the sea at Navibandar after a course of about 110 miles, everywhere marked by highly cultivated lands bordering its course. Other rivers in the Union are Mauj, Maohhu, Ozat and Shetrunji, the last remarkable for wild and romantic scenery. There are a number of salt-water creeks. The State has a 600-mile coast line and a number of ports: Bedi Bunder, Navlakhi, Bhavnagar, Porbandar and Sica. Of these the first and chief port in the matter of import traffic from Europe is Navlakhi.

LAND TENURE

Saurashtra is in the forefront among States in respect of agrarian reforms. The most important step in this direction was taken by passing three bills to abolish Zamindari and Barkhali systems.

The three bills are the Saurashtra Land Reforms Act, 1951, the Saurashtra Barkhali Abolition Act, 1951, and the Saurashtra Estate Acquisition Act, 1952. The first two came into force on 1st September 1951 and the third in January 1952.

The Saurashtra Land Reforms Act, 1951 deals with the agricultural land of talukdars, bhagdars, bhayats, cadets and mulgiraalas who were the landholders claiming some kind of proprietary interest in the land. The second deals with agricultural lands of Barkhaldars whose interest is specifically limited to the usufruct of land. The third provides for acquisition by the State of assets other than agricultural land namely waste land, whether cultivable or uncultivable, grass land, ganchar roads, rivers etc.

Special features of the Acts : 1. The representatives of both Giradars and cultivators help the Government officers in the work of implementation. 2. No liability or burden is incurred by the State. 3. Those who were tenants-at-will so far as also those who were superior landholders to become occupants of the State and except to a very small extent in respect of land held originally by Giradars as Gharkhed, there will be no tenants as such. The net result of the implementation is that not only the intermediaries are abolished but also that the old tenancy system is almost abolished.

With a view to preventing fragmentation of holdings the Government have moved a bill in the legislature. This is intended to prevent small fragments of land and thus to ensure the proper size of the holdings necessary for economic and efficient use of land.

The Government aims at prohibiting future tenancies after a certain date and to ensure that the system of exploitation by middlemen does not come into being again in some guise or the other. A bill has been drafted and circulated for public opinion and in a year or two the principle that land must belong to the tiller and that the owner of the land must till the land personally will have been fully implemented. Exceptions will be made in favour of widows, minors, infirm and those serving in the Armed Forces in the country.

Social Education: A Social Education Board has been constituted to implement the Social Education Scheme. An Adult Education Research Demonstration and Training Centre started in February 1951 offers six months training to social workers in the technique of social education work. Education centres have been started with persons trained in the Training Centre as Organisers and a Social Education Council for each centre to advise and help the organisers. 141 literary classes have been organised for a purely literary drive to liquidate illiteracy among the rural population. 175 Adult Education Institutions have been transferred to the control of the Adult Education Board. There is a stationary Visual Education Unit attached to the Adult Education Training Centre.

Basic Education: There are a few basic schools in the State. An institution has recently been started by the Government to train up teachers in the basic system of education and 106 teachers have so far been given a three months course of training. Steps are being taken to constitute a Board of Basic Education. Government have taken up the question of introducing the basic system in a few Departmental Primary Schools to begin with.

PART C STATES

AJMER

Capital : Ajmer.

AJMER enclosed by Rajasthan lies between North Latitude 25°38' and 26°54' and East Longitude 74° and 75°22'. It is bounded on the north by Jodhpur and Kishengarh, on the east by Kishengarh and Jaipur, on the south by Mewar and on the west by Jodhpur. The area of the State is 2,417 sq. miles and the population 693,372.

The estimated Expenditure and Receipts for 1953-54 are Rs. 1,88,76,000 and Rs. 1,88,76,000 respectively, leaving a closing balance of Rs. 3,60,000. The opening balance is Rs. 3,60,000. Rs. 2,22,000 were set apart for relief and rehabilitation. Other allotments were Rs. 1,00,000 for test works in scarcity areas, Rs. 87,000 for the distribution of improved seeds, Rs. 2,17,000 for protection against pests, Rs. 3,06,000 for sinking wells, Rs. 50,200 for converting town waste into manure, Rs. 10,63,500 for Basic education, Rs. 2,60,500 for social education, Rs. 1,10,00,000 have come from Centre for balancing budget, Rs. 7,95,000 for agricultural schemes, Rs. 2,22,000 for displaced persons.

The distinguishing feature of the country is the Aravalli range, the barrier which divides the plains of Marwar from the high tableland of Mewar. It is not one range but a series of parallel ranges. About ten miles from Ajmer the hills disappear but in the vicinity of Beawar they form a compact double range which finally meet at Kukra from which village a confused mass of hills and narrow valleys extend to the farthest extremity of the District. Ajmer Tahsil consists mostly of plain country while Beawar Tahsil is more hilly. The District may, generally be divided into seven main tracts separated by hills.

On the whole rainfall is very precarious and very large areas are under dry cultivation which is of the Catch Crop order. The main crops are maize, millet, barley, cotton, oilseeds, wheat, bajra, jowar, chillies and onions.

There are four cotton textile mills and nine hosiery factories including two well established ones and many spinning and pressing factories. Mills turn out coarse cloth. There is also some quarrying work in mica at some places in the district.

The main transport is by railway and road. The meter gauge line of the Western Railway passes through the district. Ajmer city forms a nucleus of roads which radiate from here in all directions.

Beawar and Kekri towns are big trading centres. The district is a deficit area in the matter of foodgrains and therefore there is not much export trade. The chief imports are wheat, rice, pulses, cotton and woollen piece-goods, kerosene oil, salt, utensils, spices, sugar and medicines.

The following schemes are being run by the State Agricultural Department in connection with the "Grow More Food Campaign":—Well Sinking Scheme; Town Compost Scheme; Distribution of Oilcakes and Chemical Fertilisers; Distribution of Improved seeds; Palmgur Development Scheme; Crop Competition Scheme; Plant Protection Scheme; Publicity of Grow More Food Drive; Crop Cutting Scheme.

ANDAMAN AND NICOBAR ISLANDS

Capital : Port Blair.

The Andamans are a group of islands of various sizes large and small lying in the Bay of Bengal about 780 and 740 miles from Calcutta and Madras respectively. The main part of the group is composed of five large islands, viz., North Andamans, Middle Andamans, South Andamans, Baratang and Rutland Islands generally known as the Great Andamans. Included in the Great Andaman group are also 204 islets, the two principal groups being the Ritchie Archipelago and the Labyrinth Islands. To the south of the Great Andamans is the island of Little Andaman. The extreme length of the Great Andaman Islands is 219 miles and the extreme breadth 32 miles, the total land area being approximately 2,508 sq. miles. These Islands have several very good harbours—Port Blair, Port Cornwallis, Mayabander and Elphinstone Harbour. The headquarters are at Port Blair.

The Nicobar Islands, are situated to the south of Andamans 75 miles from Little Andaman. There are 19 islands, 7 of which are uninhabited. The total area is about 685 sq. miles. The islands are usually divided into three groups (Southern, Central and Northern) the chief island in each being Great Nicobar, Camorta with Nancowry and Car Nicobar. There is a fine land locked harbour at Nancowry between the islands of Camorta and Nancowry.

POPULATION

The total area of Andaman and Nicobar Islands is 3,215 sq. miles and the total population according to 1951 census excluding the aborigines is 30,971.

Some of the islands are not populated at all, some only sparsely while Car Nicobar is densely populated. The total population of the islands of the Andaman Group excluding the aborigines was 18,939 in 1941.

The population of the Nicobar group was 12,009. The original inhabitants of the islands are of a small Negrito type who live in the forests by hunting and fishing. They have no fixed habitation, and do no cultivation; their civilization is about that of the Stone Age. Their numbers are not known as they prefer to avoid all contact with civilization.

The climate can be said to be temperate as the heat during the dry months is bearable because of the cool breeze from the sea. The temperature generally varies from 65° to 95°. The average rainfall is about 130 inches, and rain falls from six to eight months in the year. The islands have no such season as winter. The one great disadvantage is the humidity which varies from 79 per cent to 87 per cent and has an enervating effect.

HISTORY

Very little is known about these islands earlier than the year 1789 when the first attempt to colonise these islands was made by Captain Archibald Blair, R.N. and a colony was established at Port Blair. This colony was later moved to what is now known as Port Cornwallis in North Andamans and after a chequered career covering only 7 years the colony was closed in 1796 due mostly to sickness and trouble from the native inhabitants. The present colony was actually opened in the year 1858 for the accommodation of a large number of prisoners following the uprising in India used to be called the "Great Mutiny".

From 1858 to 1942 the islands were used by the Government of India as a penal settlement for convicts serving life sentences and long terms.

The islands were occupied by the Japanese in March 1942 and re-occupied by the Government of India in October 1945. The Japanese built a small jetty at Malacca and roads in Car Nicobar which they developed as a supply base.

With the re-occupation of these islands the penal settlement was abolished.

Some displaced families from East Bengal are being settled in Andamans. The administration is making all efforts to help these families by giving them land, rehabilitation and taccavi loans. Extra working members of families are given employment in the Labour Force and Public Works Department.

AGRICULTURE, INDUSTRY

In the year 1951-52, 33,090 tons of timber and timber products and 44,738 bags of match splints were shipped to India, and the revenue from the sale of timber and timber products amounted to Rs. 64,45,174. Coconut and rubber are other sources of income.

The islands are slowly being made self-sufficient in paddy and rice, and now grow approximately half their annual requirements. No proper survey of the mineral resources of these islands has yet been undertaken.

Coconuts are next to timber the most important among the produce of the islands and a major item in the diet of the inhabitants. In the Andamans coconuts are mostly confined to the South Andamans. Exports which go to Calcutta and Madras generally are in the form of nuts and copra.

There is plenty of scope for fruit growing. Such fruit as Papaya, Pineapple, Citrus, Bananas, Mangoes, etc. can be easily grown. The question of starting a canning industry has at times been discussed.

The Andaman Islands contain some of the biggest forest estates in the world and therefore as already mentioned the main industry of these Islands is the production of timber. The forests contain many valuable species whose commercial possibilities have yet to be thoroughly investigated. The better known species are Padank, Andaman red wood and Gurjan. Gurjan is in great demand for the manufacture of plywood. Large quantities of soft wood are supplied to match factories.

There is a High School at the Headquarters and several primary classes at outlying villages.

There is a well-equipped hospital at the Headquarters with a separate branch for women and children. There are smaller hospitals and dispensaries at the outlying places. The incidence of malaria is moderate in areas under control and in other areas the disease is kept in check with regular administration of paludrine. Plague, cholera and small-pox are unknown.

ADMINISTRATION

The Andaman Islands are administered by the President acting through a Chief Commissioner and an Advisory Council of 6 Members. The seat of administration is at Port Blair, which is connected with Calcutta and Madras by a mail steamer which calls approximately once every 3 or 4 weeks at Port Blair. The Islands are connected to India by wireless telegraphy. An Assistant Commissioner is stationed at Car Nicobar.

Chief Commissioner, S. N. Maitra
Advisory Council, Bal Krishna Gupta, Ram Krishna, Gulam Mohammad, Lachman Singh, Uma Pershad.

BHOPAL

Capital: Bhopal.

Districts with populations: Raichur (315,358), Sehore (521,116).

Bhopal has an area of about 6,878 sq. miles, a population of 836,474 and an annual revenue of one crore and thirty-three lakhs of rupees. It was formally proclaimed a Chief Commissioner's Province of the Indian Union on June 1, 1949 and made a Part C State on the introduction of Part C States Act, 1951. Since the general elections it has had a responsible ministry and a Chief Commissioner as head of the State.

Bhopal is in central India. It is bounded on the north and west by Madhya Bharat; on the south by the Narmada river; and on the east by the Sagar District of Madhya Pradesh. Most of the State is situated on the Malwa plateau to the north of the Vindhya. The climate of the region is mild and the average rainfall varies from 30 inches to 50 inches.

The State contains many remains of great archaeological interest, including: the famous Sanchi Topes, which date from the second century B.C. and where the relics of two chief disciples of Lord Buddha, Sariputta and Mahamoggallana, were enshrined in a new Vihara in November 1952. Adjoining the topes is the Sanchi station on the Central Railway main line from Bombay to Delhi.

More than two-thirds of the State is arable and the soil is generally very fertile. The principal agricultural product is wheat and the main cash crops are tobacco and sugarcane. The forests are very extensive and valuable. The land system in force is ryotwari by which the cultivator holds the land direct from the Government. There is absolute permanency of tenure so long as the assessment is regularly paid.

The State Government is introducing Bill in the State Assembly seeking to abolish Jagirdari system in the State. 2,00,000 acres of land has already been reclaimed. The State's efforts at mechanical cultivation have begun to bear fruit in that the agricultural production during the year 1953 went up, the yield of wheat alone being 85,000 tons as compared to 57,000 tons in 1952.

Industrially, too, the State has made considerable progress. Among the more important manufacturing concerns in the State are: The New Bhopal Textile Mills, the Strawboard Factory, the Sehore Sugar Factory, the Nerbudda Refrigerated Products Co., the Central India Chemicals Ltd., an oil mill and several ginning and pressing factories. In the sphere of cottage industries, centres have been opened for imparting training in various arts and crafts.

Bhopal is on the Central Railway main line between Bombay and Delhi. The chief means of communication within the State itself are the roads, of which a great many are new.

Since integration the State has made vast strides in education. All manner of educational institutions have been increased four times with simultaneous increase in the number of the teachers and the taught. Liberal grants in respect of scholarships, specially to Harijan and Backward Classes, have been provided.

Facilities in respect of public health are also provided. There are travelling dispensaries in the countryside and a new hospital staffed and equipped on modern lines in the city.

Most of the laws and ordinances passed by the Central Legislature have now been enforced in the State. Services have been reorganised and new scales of pay introduced. The service personnel are wholly governed by the Central Government rules and regulations.

All the principal Acts and Ordinances of the Central Government are made applicable to the State along with such Acts framed by the State Governments as have been found to serve the interests of the State people. The State presently stands in the full tide of responsible Government. The Congress swept the polls during the last general elections and gained a majority with 25 seats as against five of the opposition in a House of 30.

The 1953-54 budget estimates were Opening Balance Rs. 1,40,000, receipts Rs. 2,45,97,000 and expenditure Rs. 2,45,52,000, thus leaving surplus of Rs. 4,45,000. The receipts include a grant-in-aid from the Central Government of Rs. 1,12,00,000. A new tax in the form of Agricultural Income Tax was imposed by the State Legislative Assembly which will yield to the State Government a sum of Rs. 3,00,000 per annum.

Under Capital expenditure was included a provision of Rs. 1,22,000 for capital outlay on buildings, Rs. 11,95,000 for capital outlay on electricity schemes and Rs. 33,40,000 for the purchase of food grains. On the Five-Year Plan, the State Government had to spend Rs. 3,98,00,000. The Central Government allotted Rs. 3½ crores for tractorization of land.

COORG

Area: 1,586 sq. miles; Population: 229,405; Capital: Mercara; Strength of Legislative Assembly: 24.

A State in South India bounded along its entire western frontier by the mountain chain of the Western Ghats which separates it from the Madras Districts of Malabar and South Kanara. The Western Ghats curve somewhat inland and thus also serve to some extent as the northern and southern boundaries. In the north Coorg is partially separated from the forest highlands of Mysore State by the rivers of Kumaradhara and Hemavathi, and on the east the State merges into the general tableland of Mysore State, the boundaries being marked by the river Cavery which is known as the Ganges of South India and a famous place of pilgrimage. Coorg is a hilly country with a rainfall of on an average from 80 to 120 inches with evergreen, deciduous and semi-deciduous forests.

Coorg was annexed by the then British Government in 1834, for some time it remained as a separate entity, governed by the Government of India, through a Chief Commissioner. It was given a Legislative Council in 1924 consisting of 20 members (15 elected members and 5 nominated members of whom 4 were officials and one non-official to represent the communities known as Holeyas, Kurubas, Madigas and Yeravas) with the Chief Commissioner as its President. The number of elected seats was reduced to 13 in 1949 as a result of the abolition of two seats set apart for Europeans, thus bringing the total number of seats to 18.

Coorg continues to be a separate State under the Constitution of India and is termed as a Part 'C' State. Under the Government of Part 'C' States Act, 1951 (Central Act XLIX of 1951), Coorg has been given a Legislative Assembly consisting of 24 members made up of 18 general seats, 3 seats for Scheduled Castes and 3 seats for Scheduled Tribes, with power to elect its own Speaker and Deputy Speaker. Under the same Act a popular Ministry has also been set up to aid and advise the Chief Commissioner. Coorg has also been allotted one seat in the House of the People of the Parliament of India and one seat in the Council of States combined with Ajmer.

The State forms a single district covering an area of 1,586 square miles and has a population according to the 1951 census of 229,405. The population is made up of Coorgs, Dowdugals, Lingayats, Brahmans, Muslims, Christians and (Harijans). Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. Kannada is the chief language; Kodagu (Coorg language) is a dialect of old Kannada.

Budget estimate of revenue for 1953-54 was Rs. 1,03,85,000, expenditure for 1953-54 Rs. 1,40,95,000.

Paddy, coffee, orange, pepper and cardamom are the chief agricultural produce. There is no large scale industry. Transport consists mainly of buses, lorries and bullock carts. The chief items of trade are coffee, orange, pepper, cardamom and rice.

A college was opened in June 1949.

The total length of the State roads is 387 miles.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

(For list of members see under General Elections.)

HIMACHAL PRADESH

Area: 10,451 sq. miles. Population: 983,367; Capital: Simla, Strength of Legislative Assembly: 36

The new State of Himachal Pradesh comprises 21 former Punjab Hill States and their 9 tributaries. The 21 States are Baghal, Baghat, Balsam, Bushahr, Bhujji, Bija, Chamba, Dargoti, Dhani, Jubbal, Keonthal, Kumarsain, Kumar, Kuthar, Mahlog, Mandi, Mangal, Sangan, Simmur, Suket and Tharoch.

The 9 tributaries are Delath, Dhadi, Ghund, Khanell, Koti, Madhan, Ratesh, Rawingarh and Theog.

The State came into being on April 15, 1948, the consolidation has been achieved with the full agreement and support of the Rulers and the people.

Himachal Pradesh lies between North Latitude 30° 30' and 33° 10' and East Longitude 75° 55' and 79° 50'. It is bounded on the north by the Jammu and Kashmir State, on the south by Tehri-Garhwal and Dehra Dun Districts of Uttar Pradesh and the Ambala District of Punjab, on the west by Ambala, Hoshiarpur and Kangra. On the east the boundaries are undefined.

The State is divided into four administrative districts, Mahasu, Simmur, Mandi and Chamba.

Mahasu District has a population of (1951) 330,614 and is divided into two sub-divisions, Rampur and Jubbal. The Rampur sub-division contains the Tehsils of Rampur, Rohru, Chini, and the Jubbal sub-division contains the Tehsils of Jubbal, Chaupal, Theog, Junga, Arki and Solan and the sub-Tehsils of Kumarsain, Kasumptet, Sunni and Kotkhai.

Simmur District has a population of (1951) 106,077 and is divided into four Tehsils, Nahan, Pachhad, Raikma and Paonta.

Mandi District has a population of (1951) 310,626 and contains the Tehsils of Sadar (Mandi), Karsog, Sundernagar, Jogindernagar, Sarkaghat, Chachlot and the sub-Tehsil of Dehar.

Chamba District has a population of (1951) 176,050 and is divided into the Tehsils of Chamba, Chura and Bhattiyat.

ECONOMY

The main agricultural wealth of the State consists in potatoes and fruits such as apple, peach, almond, nuts, pomegranate. Salt is another important item, while forests yield timber, fire-wood and charcoal. Handicrafts which include Pashmina shawls, wool of fine quality, resin, herbs, musk and skins are a third source of income.

Himachal Pradesh forests supply the largest quantities of coniferous timber in Northern India. They are the main source of revenue in the State, the estimated annual revenue being Rs. 70,41,000. The forests are also useful in ensuring the safety of the catchment areas of the Jumna, Sutlej, Beas, Ravi and Chenab Rivers. On the protection of these catchment areas depends the steady and constant flow of water in these rivers, and the success of irrigation and engineering works in the plains. For purposes of forests utilization the State has been divided into twelve territorial forest divisions, viz., Chamba, Churaha, Mandi, Nauchan, Suket, Jubbal, Simla, Solan, Nahan, Rajgarh, Upper and Lower Bushahr.

Potato is the chief cash crop. The State has established itself as a vital source of potatoes, especially seed potatoes for the plains of India. It exports nearly 5½ lakh maunds of potatoes annually out of which over 3½ lakh maunds are directly utilised as seed potatoes.

For 1953-54, budget estimates provide for revenue receipts of 174.5 lakhs and expenditure Rs. 290.1 lakhs, thus leaving a deficit of Rs. 111.15 lakhs.

GOVERNMENT

When the State was first formed it was administered from the Centre. It had an Advisory Council of 9 members constituted to advise the Chief Commissioner in the discharge of his functions. Of these 9 members, 3 were the representatives of the Rulers of the former States which have been integrated in the Himachal Pradesh and 6 were popular representatives.

After the general elections the Advisory Council was abolished and a responsible ministry was set up to advise the Lieutenant-Governor.

In a legislature of 36 members the Congress has 28 seats.

KUTCH

Capital: Bhuj

Kutch was integrated with the Indian Republic as a Chief Commissioner's State on June 1, 1948.

The State has a land area of 10,724 sq. miles. The population is 567,606 (1951 census).

The State is bounded on the north and the north-west by Sind (Pakistan); on the east by North Gujarat, on the south by Saurashtra, and on the west and south-west by the Indian Ocean.

The capital of the State is Bhuj, founded in 1549.

There is a fair proportion of good cultivable land in Kutch, the principal crops being bajra, wheat, barley and cotton. Irrigation is also well developed with 46 reservoirs irrigating a land area of about 75,000 acres. Of the 11 irrigation dams under the first Five-Year Plan, six will be ready shortly and the remaining are under various stages of completion. This will increase the area of irrigated land by 67,800 acres. It is expected that by the end of 1955-56, the total area of irrigated land would be increased by 1,00,519 acres of land raising the production of foodgrains by 30,000 tons and fodder by 50,000 tons. Work on 10 new tanks started during 1954.

The State is rich in gypsum, clays and limestone, and has large deposits of lignite, alum, marble and ochres.

The main occupation of the people apart from agriculture and cattle rearing are embroidery and silver work, which are well-known for their beauty.

Kutchis are an enterprising and sea-faring people. Over six lakhs of Kutchis are distributed in principal cities of India and over 10,000 are abroad.

The currency of the State which in the past was reckoned in Koties was demonetised on April 26, 1949 when Indian currency was introduced.

The main items of export are salt, cotton, wool, castor seeds, bones, hides, skins and fish. The main items of import are foodgrains, oil seeds, cloth, condiments, etc.

The land revenue system has been changed from crop sharing to adhoe (Vigot), thus providing a rational basis for Government revenue. The question of taxation of alienated land and thus gradually abolishing the Jagirdari system is under the consideration of the Government of India.

New weights and measures under the Bombay Weights and Measures Act, 1932 were introduced in October 1950.

Efforts are being made for the expansion of education in the State. There are eight High Schools with 2,600 students, 13 middle schools with 2,090 students, 294 primary schools with 21,500 students, and 355 unrecognised primary schools for boys and 135 for girls. There are also an Art School, a training school for teachers, a school for the blind and an agriculture school and about 40 adult education centres. The total number of students in all these schools is about 53,000. From this year an Intermediate Arts and Science College with 150 students, has been started. Primary and secondary education is free. The State has a programme for opening five new schools every year. It is proposed to open a Technical School this year.

Free medical relief is available in Kutch. There are 6 hospitals, 15 dispensaries and 2 maternity homes run by the Government. There are 7 private hospitals and 31 dispensaries. There is also one T.B. Sanatorium run by private efforts and will soon be taken over by the Government. A T.B. Clinic is run by private practitioners at Mandvi. Two mobile dispensaries have been started for medical relief to village people and two more will be added shortly. Under the Five-Year Plan a General Hospital at Bhuj, an Eye Hospital at Mandvi, a Mental Hospital at Bhuj and five mobile dispensaries are envisaged. B.C.G. Vaccination programme is being carried out. A Public Health Department has been opened. A provision of Rs. 10 lakhs has been accepted for public health activities in the State. The scheme consists of anti-malaria measures, distribution of multi-vitamin tablets, opening of milk and fruit centres for children, publicity and propaganda.

The chief means of communication is by sea. Goods are carried by country craft, the chief import and export centres being Mandvi, Tuna and Kandla. The State has a modern port at Kandla with a natural harbour. The Government of India have decided to develop Kandla as a major port and the minor ports of Mandvi, Mundra, Jakhn, Koteswar and Lakhpur. The metre gauge railway between Kandla and Dresa was declared open by President Dr. Rajendra Prasad in October 1952, thus linking Kutch with the hinterland of North India and Rajasthan.

296 villages, each having a population of over 500 are served by the Kutch State Motor Service on 45 different routes covering an area of 1,218 sq miles in 8,249 sq miles of habitable area in Kutch.

The estimated revenue for the year 1953-54 was Rs. 37,48,000 and revenue expenditure Rs. 1,57,50,000.

Kutch is a Part C State administered by a Chief Commissioner assisted by a Council of two Advisers inaugurated on 27th July 1952. Kutch has no Legislative Assembly of its own. It is represented in the Indian Parliament by two members in the House of the People and one member in the Council of States. The latter is elected by an Electoral College consisting of 30 members under the Representation of Peoples Act. Steps are being taken to bring the administration of the State in line with other States. Most of the departments have recently been re-organised and the scales of pay revised on the Bombay lines. Suitable rules for recruitment to services are under formation.

The electoral college formed after the general election has a strength of 30. Out of this 28 members belong to the Congress.

President, Chief Commissioner.

MANIPUR

Area 8,628 sq miles, Population 577,635, Capital Imphal; Strength of Electoral College 30.

Manipur bounded on the east and south by Burma and on the north and west by the Naga Hills and Cachar District of Assam, is a highly strategic State on the eastern frontier of India. Two land routes from Burma pass through its territory. It was formally proclaimed a Chief Commissioner's Province of the Indian Union on the 15th of October, 1949, and it is now a Part C State.

In the Electoral College formed after the General Elections there are 10 Congress members, All Manipur National Union 2, Praja Shanti Party 3, Kuki National Union 2, Achumba Pamba Congress 2, Communists 2, Mao Maran Union 2, Socialist Party one, Gandhi Sevak Sabha one, Manipur Zeliangrong Union 2, Mizo Union one, Independents one. The total strength of the College is 30.

It was reported later that the strength of the Congress party had increased to 13.

The State has a population of 577,635 (1951 census) and an area of 8,628 square miles. The density of the population is 67. Seven hundred square miles of the area form a central valley, 2,600 feet above sea-level, which is shut in on all sides by extensive hill tracts covering the rest of the State with hill stations as high as 6,000 feet above sea-level. The climate varies from temperate in the valley to cold in the high stations in the hills. The rainfall on the average is 65 inches in the year.

The main population is "Meiteis" inhabiting the valley with some 40 tribes and sub-tribes known by the generic names of Nagas and Kukis. Though a number of different dialects are spoken in the State, Manipuri and English are the official languages. The people are carefree and healthy, with a passion for religious festivals involving community dances in which both sexes join.

There are about 1,783 refugees.

The soil is fertile. Rice is the principal crop of which Manipur exports a fair quantity. Handloom weaving is a popular industry throughout the State and Manipuri cloth of various picturesque and indigenous designs, is in demand throughout India and even outside.

The administrative machinery under the former State Government was archaic and ineffective and has therefore been reorganised.

The Budget figures for Income and Expenditure for 1953-54 are Rs. 34,66,000 and Rs. 1,05,44,200 respectively.

The Planning Commission have tentatively accepted a ceiling of Rs. 15 crores for the following Development schemes in Manipur under the Five-Year Plan. They are Forest Development scheme, Medical Development scheme, Agricultural Development scheme, Veterinary and Animal Husbandry Development scheme, Education Development scheme and Communication Development scheme. Over and above the aforesaid schemes, the following schemes are also contemplated to be taken up under the Five-Year Plan, namely Hydro-Electric Supply scheme, Water Supply scheme for the town of Imphal and rural water supply scheme. Most of the schemes are now in progress.

TRIPURA

Tripura is one of the oldest Hindu States in India. It is bounded on the north by Sylhet and Cachar Districts, on the west by Sylhet, Tipperah and Noakhali Districts, on the south by the Chittagong and Noakhali Districts and on the east by Lushai and Chittagong Hill tracts. The major portion of the State is hilly and full of jungles.

The area of the State is 4,032 sq. miles, and the population according to the 1951 census 639,029. The increase over 1941 was 24.56 per cent. The number of refugees was 101,200. Hence the net increase is only 4.84 per cent. Today the density is 158 while in 1941 it was 124.

The agricultural wealth of the State consists of paddy, jute, cotton, tea and fruit such as pineapple, jackfruit, etc., while forests yield timber, firewood and charcoal. Paddy is the main source of revenue.

The State is divided into ten administrative Divisions—Sadar, Khowai, Kailashahar, Dharmanagar, Sonamura, Udaypur, Belonia, Sabroom, Kamalpur and Amarapur.

Sadar Division has a population of 223,416 (1951) and is divided into ten Tahsils—Sadar, Purnanagar, Bamutia, Mohanpur, Shma, Ishenchandranagar, Kamalagar, Takarjala, Bishahar, Charlam.

Khowai Division has a population of 55,560 and is divided into three Tahsils—Khowai, Kalyanpur and Asharambari.

Kailashahar Division has a population of 75,266 and is divided into three Tahsils—Kailashahar, Fatikroy and Kanchanpur.

Dharmanagar Division has a population of 65,903 and is divided into four Tahsils—Dharmanagar, Brojendranagar, Kurl and Longal.

Sonamura Division has a population of 44,544 and is divided into five Tahsils—Sonamura, Khatla, Bakhanagar, Dhanpur and Mantinagar.

* Provisional totals. Final totals for Bhuj city 30,985; and for Mandvi 29,305.

Udaypur Division has a population of 58,577 and is divided into two Tahsils—Radhakishorepore and Saigarah.

Belonia Division has a population of 40,209 and is divided into seven Tahsils—Belonia, Rajnagar, Radhanagar, Purnarajbari, Sidhinaragar, Hrishyamukh and Muhuripur.

Sabroom Division has a population of 23,680 and is divided into five Tahsils—Sabroom, Manu, Amilghat, Samarendranagar and Gorakapa.

Kamulpur Division has a population of 30,373 and is divided into two Tahsils—Kamulpur and Kulai.

Amarpur Division has a population of 21,602 and is divided into three Tahsils—Birganj, Omphi and Dumboornagar.

The Chief Commissioner who is the head of the State, is assisted by a Council of three Advisers and three Secretaries, each in charge of several Departments.

There is also a District Magistrate, and for each of the Divisions an S.D.O. On the judicial side there is a Judicial Commissioner's Court which is the highest court in the State. There is also a District Court, and in seven out of the ten Divisions a Munsif Court.

The Electoral College has a total strength of 30. Out of this the Congress won 9 seats, Communists 12, Ganatantrik Sangh 3 and Independents 6.

VINDHYA PRADESH

Capital: Rewa.

Vindhya Pradesh lies between 20° 30' and 26° 15' N. latitude and 78° 15' and 82° 50' E. longitude. It now includes 25 Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand States of which Rewa is the biggest. The States besides Rewa are: Ajalgarh, Baraundha, Bijawar, Chhatarpur, Charkhari, Datia, Maihar, Nagod, Orchha, Panna (Salute States) and Alipura, Bhalsunda, Garrauli, Gaurihar, Jaso, Kamta Rajaula, Khanladhana, Kothi, Nalgawan-Babal, Pahra, Paldeo, Sohawal, Tarson (Non-salute States).

Originally Vindhya Pradesh was composed of 35 States of which the following 10 were transferred to Uttar Pradesh on 25th January 1950: Samthar, Sarila, Jigni, Bihat, Banka Pahari, Baoni, Beri, Dhurwal, Tori Fatehpur and Bijna.

Vindhya Pradesh lies between Uttar Pradesh in the north and east and Madhya Pradesh in the south. On the west lies Madhya Bharat.

The population of the State is 3,574,690 according to the 1951 census, and the area 23,604 square miles. Hindus form an overwhelming majority of the population. The languages spoken are Hindi and dialects called Baghelkhandi and Bundelkhandi. The main occupation of the people is agriculture and forestry. The capital of the State is Rewa.

There are 8 districts sub-divided into 26 Tahsils. Formerly Rewa, Satna, Shahdol and Sidhi districts formed Baghelkhand Division, while Bundelkhand Division comprised the districts of Datia, Tikamgarh, Chhatarpur and Panna, each Division being under a Commissioner but now all the districts are under a Commissioner with Headquarters at Nowgong.

The following table gives the population of each of the districts according to the 1951 census:

Name of District	Population according to 1951 census
Rewa	633,706
Satna	555,603
Sidhi	484,302
Shahdol	650,757
Panna	258,703
Chhatarpur	481,140
Tikamgarh	366,165
Datia	164,314

The soil is poor and bears only average crops. Wheat, Gram, Barley, Linseed, etc., are grown in the spring and Rice, Maize, Saman, Kodon, Cotton, Bajra, etc., in the autumn. Irrigation is mainly by bands and wells.

MINERALS

Vindhya Pradesh has large mineral resources. The State is richly endowed with coal in Sidhi and Shahdol districts, and building stone and limestone in Satna district. Large deposits of Corundum are found in the Sidhi District. The diamonds of Panna are well known. Other minerals and raw materials of economic importance are iron ore, copper ore, lead ore, yellow ochre, fireclay, and bauxite.

Mines of sillimanite, quartz and felspar, barytes, glass-sand and manganese ore are also found in the State. There are good prospects for the manufacture of cement, glass, paper, aluminium, heavy chemicals and synthetic petrol.

Seven collieries are at present working in the State. A few of them are electrified and are worked on up-to-date lines.

Eighteen lime manufacturing companies all in Satna district produce rich lime which is supplied throughout India and thousands of workers are engaged in the industry.

Up-to-date machines have been installed in the diamond works of Messrs Panna Diamond Mining Syndicate. It is capable of handling 250 tons of ore in an eight-hour day.

FORESTS

There are extensive forests which produce excellent timber. Enough bamboos and bagal grass are also available for making paper pulp. Tender leaves for making khils are also found in abundance. There is a shellac factory at Umaria in Shahdol District.

The jungles in the south-east are famous for their big games. Tigers are found in considerable numbers, as also bears, panthers and wild buffaloes while Sambhar, Chikara and Raj abound.

COMMUNICATIONS

The State is not well served by railways and communication is mostly by road. Satna (32 miles) is the railway station for Rewa, the capital of the State, and is situated on the Central Railway. Another section of the Central Railway between Manikpur and Jhansi passes through a few villages in the former Bundelkhand Division. The Katni-Bilaspur section of the Eastern Railway passes through the southern district (Shahdol) for a distance of 138 miles.

There are not many metalled roads, and parts in the interior are sometimes cut off from one another during the monsoon. All the district towns are connected by road.

ARCHAEOLOGY

There are a number of places of archaeological interest in the State, chief among them being the Khajuraho and Orchha temples, the Bandhogarh Fort, Chandreha temple, Nanda caves, Bir Singh Palace, Datia, Jahangir Mahal with a flower garden at Orchha, the source of the Narbada River at Amarkantak, and the Jain temples at Sonagir, Bharhut, Silahera and Ahar. There are numerous waterfalls the most picturesque among them being the Chachal and Keoti in the old Rewa State.

EDUCATION

There is one Post-Graduate College which also conducts Law Classes at Rewa, one Degree College at Chhatarpur, two Intermediate Colleges at Tikamgarh and Satna, 33 High Schools, 199 A. V. M. Schools, and about 2,008 Primary Schools, three Teachers' Training Schools, a Technical Institute, a Polytechnic, an Agricultural Institute and a Leather Training Institute. In addition there are 12 Night Schools. The approximate number of students in the educational institutions is 1 lakh.

For 1953-54 budget estimated receipts including Central Govt. grant were Rs 4,39,60,400 and expenditure Rs. 4,39,40,400 thus leaving a surplus of Rs. 11,000.

Gandhi Memorial Hospital equipped with up-to-date instruments with an investment of about 30 lakhs has been opened at Rewa.

A separate Department for the welfare of Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and other Backward Classes has been started for the amelioration of the conditions of these classes. A separate Department for Information and Publicity too is functioning.

POLITICAL SET-UP

Vindhya Pradesh became a Centrally administered area under a Chief Commissioner on January 1, 1950 and is now listed as a Part C State under the new Constitution and is being governed by a Lieutenant-Governor since March, 1952.

In accordance with the provisions of Government Part C States Act, 1951, a Vindhya Pradesh Legislature consisting of 60 members has been formed.

There is a Judicial Commissioner's Court presided over by a Judicial Commissioner and assisted by one Additional Judicial Commissioner.

DELHI

Area : 578 sq. miles ; Pop. 1,744,072 ; Hindus : 1,467,854 ; Sikhs : 137,098 ; Muslims : 99,501

Under the Constitution of India, Delhi is a Part 'C' State, responsibility for the administration of which, vests with the President. The President exercises control over the State through a Chief Commissioner appointed by him.

However, in accordance with the provisions of the Government of Part 'C' States Act, 1951, the State has a Legislative Assembly consisting of 48 members representing 36 single member constituencies and 6 double member constituencies. The Legislative Assembly has power to make laws in respect of the whole of the State or any part thereof with regard to all or any matter enumerated in the State List or Concurrent List in the VII Schedule to the Constitution, other than the following matters :—

(a) Public Order ; (b) Police including railway police ; (c) the Constitution and powers of municipal corporations and other local authorities, of improvement trusts and of water supply, drainage, electricity, transport and other public utility authorities in Delhi or New Delhi ; (d) lands and buildings vested in or in the possession of the Union which are situated in Delhi or New Delhi including all rights on or over such lands and buildings, the collection of rents therefrom and the transfer and alienation thereof ; (e) offences against laws with respect to any of the matters mentioned in the foregoing clauses ; (f) jurisdiction and powers of all courts, with respect to any of the said matters ; and (g) fees in respect of any of the said matters other than fees taken in any court.

Provided further that nothing shall derogate from the powers conferred on Parliament by the Constitution to make laws with respect to any matter for the State or any part thereof.

There is a Council of Ministers with the Chief Minister at the head to aid and advise the Chief Commissioner in the exercise of his functions in relation to matters with respect to which the Legislative Assembly has power to make law except in so far as he is required by any law to exercise any judicial or quasi-judicial functions.

The responsibility for the discharge of other functions of Government with respect to which the Legislative Assembly has no powers to make laws, vests in the Chief Commissioner, acting through the permanent Civil Services.

The State has one seat in the Council of States, and four seats in the House of the People. Of the latter, one seat is reserved for the Scheduled Castes.

In the Assembly of 48 members the Congress has 39 seats, Jan Sangh 4, Independents 2, Socialists 2, Hindu Mahasabha 1.

GREATER DELHI

Delhi State is really the size of a district. The majority of its population lives in the urban areas of Delhi with its suburbs, New Delhi and Shahdara.

The State is divided into a number of Municipal units (see below). The integration of the urban units into a Corporation was the subject of an enquiry in 1947.

A Corporation Act is due to come before Parliament according to which all the existing local bodies except those of New Delhi are to be merged into a Corporation.

The Greater Delhi area comprises the following administrative units :—(1) New Delhi Municipal Committee, (2) Delhi Municipal Committee, (3) Civil Lines Notified Area, (4) Red Fort Notified Area, (5) Delhi Cantonment, (6) West Delhi Notified Area, (7) Municipal Committee, Shahdara, (8) Notified Area Committee, Najafgarh, (9) Notified Area Committee Narela, (10) Notified Area Committee, Mahrauli, and (11) the rural area.

New Delhi is an inflated officers' colony. The density of the population which is thin consists largely of Government officials. The density is only 45 persons per acre, as against 500 or more in Old Delhi. Apart from the lack of transport facilities, there are not enough post offices, schools or colleges, hospitals, libraries or recreation grounds.

This is in striking contrast to Old Delhi which is amply provided with urban amenities though in a haphazard manner.

In order to accommodate an inflated population, the municipal authorities, with the help of the Central Government, embarked on the construction of numerous residential colonies in the immediate neighbourhood of Old and New Delhi. Most of these have their own shops, schools, hospitals and police stations.

The following is a list of refugee housing schemes which have either been completed or are nearing completion :—

(1) Rajendar Nagar (N.D.N.E. Area) ; (2) Patel Nagar (Shadijpur Extension) ; (3) Malkaganj ; (4) Nizamuddin Village ; (5) Nizamuddin Extension ; (6) Jungpura Village Extension ; (7) Kalkaji ; (8) Kingsway (Camp Mud houses, Hudson Lines, Outram Lines, Relds Barracks) ; (9) Band-stand Area ; (10) Lajpat Nagar ; (11) Sheikh Sarai and (12) Azadpur.

The main railway station is the junction at Old Delhi, from where radiate the railway lines to the Punjab, U. P., Bombay, Calcutta and Madras. The headquarters of the Northern Railway are located here.

INDUSTRY

The main industries are : cotton mills ; hand and powerloom weaving ; hosiery ; pottery ; flour mills ; vegetable oil mills and expellers ; paints and varnishes ; rubber goods ; imitation jewellery ; copper and brass utensils ; wire netting ; sola hats ; leather goods, and tanning industry.

Traders from neighbouring States regularly visit Delhi to make their annual purchases which include besides textiles, hardware, hosiery, utensils and stoneware.

There is also a very flourishing grain market, serving local needs.

As in all towns, different parts of Delhi specialize in different trades. The area round about Chandni Chowk for instance is the centre for textiles and general merchandise. The trade in copper and brass utensils is located in Chawri Bazar, which in addition has a market for hardware. Khari Bawli is the granary of Delhi with the adjoining streets specializing in condiments, spices, pickles, dry fruits, etc. Lal-Kuan Bazar is noted for building material, while Sadar Bazar deals in wholesale hosiery, glass and china-ware and general merchandise. Silver-ware is retailed in Dariba Kalan, while the bullion market is localized in Chandni Chowk.

All the important banks are located in Chandni Chowk.

Almost all these banks have their branches in Connaught Place which is New Delhi's chief shopping centre.

Tourist traffic has grown into a regular new trade. Almost all the Indian and foreign air companies have offices in New Delhi.

AGRICULTURE

Total land : 369,920 acres ; area under forests : 45 acres ; area not available for cultivation : 79,658 acres ; other uncultivated land excluding fallow land : 50,187 acres ; fallow land : 11,282 acres ; net area sown : 224,537 ; total irrigated area : 68,350 acres.

The following is a crop-wise break up of the area under food and cash crops :

Wheat, 51,000 acres ; Bajra, 55,000 acres ; Jawar, 27,000 acres ; Maize, 3,000 acres ; Barley, 14,000 acres ; Grams, 90,000 acres ; Sugarcane, 2,000 acres ; Rape and Mustard seed, 4,000 acres ; Cotton, 1,000 acres ; Tobacco, 1,000 acres.

Till recently, Delhi had a large number of gardens where fruit such as bananas, pears, mangoes, pomegranate, lokats, figs, papais, ester-fruit and plums were grown.

The pressure of population and anti-malaria drives resulted in clearing the land of these gardens.

Delhi now imports most of its fruits. But on large areas—a total of 4,000 acres—in and around the city vegetables are still grown.

The total number of holdings : 41,900.

The area held in occupancy rights amounts to 17,700 acres or one-thirteenth part of cultivated area, tenants at will hold about 71,000 acres.

It is estimated that there is one milch animal for every three or four persons. The average yield of a cow and buffalo comes to 2 seers and 4.2 seers respectively.

The annual average daily production of milk is estimated at 4,285 maunds.

There are about 20 poultry farms. It is believed about 140,000 eggs are daily imported into Delhi at an annual cost of Rs. 45 lakhs. A five-year scheme is in operation which aims at making Delhi self-sufficient in eggs.

The local consumption of fish is estimated at 150 maunds a day. Fish is at present imported.

The Community Projects scheme covers 105 villages. A sum of Rs. 20 lakhs has been allocated for a period of 3 years. Out of this 25 per cent will be contributed by the State Government and 75 per cent by the Centre.

TRANSPORT

Delhi occupies a pivotal point in the net-work of national railways, highways and airways.

It is one of the biggest railway junctions in the country handling about 23 mail, 28 express trains besides several goods and passenger trains every day.

All the principal inter-State roads of significance converge on Delhi.

It is also linked with important cities and foreign countries by air through its two air ports, Wellington and Palam.

There are in Delhi 30,000 motor vehicles, 600 cycle-rickshaws, over 150,000 bicycles, 5,000 tongas, 10,000 motor cycles, 1,500 carts.

HEALTH

Birth-rate : 29.4, death-rate : 9.61; Infant mortality : 89.93.

There are 31 hospitals providing indoor beds for over 2,000 patients. The average daily attendance is about 3,200.

Some leading hospitals are :

Mrs. Girdhari Lal Maternity Hospital, Circular Road, outside Ajmeri Gate; Hindu Rao Civil Hospital, the Ridge, Sabzi Mandi; Infectious Diseases Hospital, Kingsway; Irwin Hospital, Circular Road; Jeewan General Hospital, Panchkuin Road; Lady Hardinge Hospital, Panchkuin Road; St. Stephen's Missionary Maternity Hospital, Tis Hazari; Safdarjang Annexe Hospital, New Delhi; Shroff Charity Eye Hospital, Daryaganj; Silver Jubilee T.B. Hospital, Kingsway; Victoria Zenana Hospital, Machhliwalan, Daryaganj; Willingdon Hospital, Irwin Road.

Money allotted under the Five-Year Plan for medical development schemes : Rs. 142.41 lakhs.

I.A.R.I., New Delhi.

The college was established by the Government of India in April 1947 and provides a well planned training in Scientific Agriculture leading to the B.Sc. (Hons.) Agriculture degree of the Delhi University. It has been integrated with the I.A.R.I. since July, 1951.

Admission is open to students from Centrally administered areas; students of States having no Agricultural College; students from other States if seats are available; and Trainees deputed by Governments of other countries provided they fulfil the qualifications laid down for admission.

CENTRAL INSTITUTE OF EDUCATION

The Institute was founded on the 19th December 1947 as an all-India institution under the Central Ministry of Education, offering training particularly of an advanced nature to teachers and other educational personnel and for conducting researches in educational problems. It is affiliated to the University of Delhi for B.Ed., M.Ed. and Ph.D. degrees. Attached to it is a psychology wing with a well-equipped laboratory for conducting researches in psychology and education. There is also an experimental basic school, a nursery school and a child guidance centre. The Institute has its own hostels for men and women students. It is situated at 33, Probyn Road, Delhi-9 in its own newly constructed spacious building having ample library and laboratory facilities.

COLLEGE OF NURSING

The College of Nursing is located at 12, Jaswant Singh Road, New Delhi and was established by the Government of India in July, 1946 for the purpose of developing a more highly qualified leadership for the Nursing Profession in this country. It is hoped to give as fine a course in Nursing as can be had in foreign countries and make them suitable to Indian conditions. The College draws students from States throughout India. There is a 4-year course leading to the B.Sc. (Hons.) degree in Nursing. The College also provides a nine and a half months' course in Nursing Administration and teaching in Schools of nursing open to qualified nurses with experience and ability to fit them for senior and responsible positions and constructive work in hospital nursing services and education. This course leads to a certificate from the Government of India which is recognized by the All India Nursing Council.

DELHI COLLEGE

Delhi College is the oldest college in Delhi having been established in 1828. Since September 1947, it has been reorganised as a non-communal and a co-educational college affiliated with the Delhi University. It has arrangements for teaching all Science & Arts subjects upto the M.A., M.Sc., standard.

The College building is centrally situated at the junction of Old Delhi and New Delhi at Ajmeri Gate, on premises of its own.

DELHI POLYTECHNIC

The Delhi Polytechnic was started in 1941 by the Government of India with the object of providing technical and other training to different categories of personnel in order to enable them to take supervisory and higher posts in Industry and Commerce.

The senior full time day courses are mainly of 3 years' duration (5 years' Architecture and Arts) followed by one year's practical training leading to Polytechnic Diplomas or to the Diplomas of the

All-India Council for Technical Education in India. Similarly the evening courses, which are also of about 3 years' duration lead to the Polytechnic Certificate of All-India Board Certificates.

Senior departments include those of Engineering (Electrical and Mechanical), Applied Science, Chemical Technology, Commerce, Architecture, Art and Textile Technology.

Attached to the Polytechnic is a Technical High School in which, in addition to the usual high school subjects, Elementary Engineering, Science, Drawing and Workshop Practice are taught in the last 3 years.

DELHI SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS

This is an all-India institution which was established by the Delhi University and the Delhi School of Economics Society to concentrate on economic research in addition to undertaking some post-graduate teaching and guidance of research as in the University Department of Economics. The school is housed in the University's Faculty building situated on Probyn Road in the Delhi University Area.

Director: Dr. V. K. R. V. Rao, M.A., Ph.D. (Cantab.).

DELHI UNIVERSITY FACULTY OF LAW

The Law Faculty is housed in the Princes' Pavilion in the grounds of the Old Viceregal Lodge, Civil Lines, Delhi, and is situated in a picturesque site surrounded by trees, flower beds and green lawns. Extensive additions have been made to the building to cope with the increase in the number of the students and the staff. Recently a building named 'Maurice Bhawan' has been constructed for the Law Union. It has been built and equipped at a cost of Rs. 35,000. The building has one big hall, an office room, a store room and a small library room. The Faculty provides courses both for practice of the legal profession and also to encourage the non-professional study of Law as a cultural subject. It prepares students for the LL.B., B.C.L. and LL.M. Degrees, and also for the Certificate of Proficiency Examination. It has a well-equipped library containing a large number of reports and standard text-books (Indian, English and American); it also subscribes to a large number of journals including English and American. The Faculty has arrangements for the residence of its students in the two University Halls. Its present strength is 900 students, and 23 teachers, including the Dean.

HANS RAJ COLLEGE

The College was started in 1948, by the D.A.V. College Managing Committee and is housed in the airy and spacious rooms of a newly constructed building near Paharganj Police Station. The chief aim of the college is to inculcate among the students, the spirit of service and good citizenship and to develop qualities of leadership. The College which is affiliated with the University of Delhi imparts instruction in Science, and Arts to students preparing for preparatory B.A. (Pass and Hons.), B.Sc. (Pass and Hons.), and M.A. Examinations.

HINDU COLLEGE

This is a first grade constituent college of the Delhi University. It is situated on the Imperial Avenue within the University Campus. It imparts instruction to students upto the M. A. standard and registers candidates for the Ph.D. degree. It admits students to the Faculty of Science upto M.Sc. standard including the pre-medical course. THE INDIAN COUNCIL OF MEDICAL RESEARCH

"P" Block, Raisina Road, P.R. 494, New Delhi.

The Indian Council of Medical Research was formerly known as the Indian Research Fund Association and was constituted in 1911 by the Government of India with a sum of Rs 5,00,000 set aside as an endowment for the prosecution and assistance of research, the propagation of knowledge and experimental measures generally in connection with the causation, mode of spread and prevention of communicable diseases.

The control and management of the Council is vested in a Governing Body, the President of which is the Hon'ble Health Minister of the Government of India. This body is assisted by a Scientific Advisory Board of which the Chairman is the Director-General of Health Services.

The Council annually publishes a technical report describing the research work done by the various enquiries carried out under the auspices of the Council during each calendar year. This report is obtainable from the office of the Secretary, Indian Council of Medical Research, New Delhi. The Council publishes the Indian Journal of Medical Research and its Memoirs and the Indian Journal of Malariology. In addition a number of special reports dealing with important subjects of medical research are also published from time to time. So far, over twenty-six such reports have been published.

The Council maintains the Nutrition Research Laboratories at Coonoor, which is the premier institution in India entirely devoted to research in nutrition and allied sciences.

Besides financing a large number of enquiries, the Council has set up nutrition research units at the Seth G. S. Medical College, Bombay, and University College of Science and Technology, Calcutta, a Clinical Research and Neuropathological Unit at the Tata Memorial Hospital, Bombay, a Clinical Research Unit at the School of Tropical Medicine, Calcutta, a Polio Research Unit at the Grant Medical College, Bombay, a Liver Research Unit at the S. N. Medical College, Agra, and an Industrial Health Research Unit at the All-India Institute of Hygiene and Public Health, Calcutta. A Virus Research Centre has also recently been set up by the Council at Poona in collaboration with the Rockefeller Foundation of the U.S.A.

In order to foster medical research in the country and to encourage young medical and science graduates to take to research work the Council annually awards Research Fellowships tenable for two years of the value of Rs 250 p.m., with a contingent grant of Rs 500 per annum for each fellowship.

The Council maintains a library at the Central Research Institute, Kasauli. The Council has also established a Micro-film Service and Photostat Unit at the Institute. A Micro-film Service Unit has also been established at the Tata Memorial Hospital, Bombay, under the auspices of the Council.

INDIAN COUNCIL OF WORLD AFFAIRS

President: Dr. Hriday Nath Kunzru.

Vice-Presidents: Dr. Zakir Hussain; Acharya Narendra Deva; Shri Ram; C. B. Srinivasan.

Treasurer: Yodh Raj.

Secretary-General: Dr. A. Appadorai.

The Indian Council of World Affairs is a private, non-partisan, academic and research organization. It was founded in 1943 and its primary object is promoting the study of Indian and international questions so as to develop a body of informed opinion on world affairs and India's relation thereto through study, research, discussion, lectures, exchange of ideas and information, etc. with other bodies in India and abroad engaged in similar activities.

Membership activities of the Council are built around general meetings and discussion groups both at the headquarters of the Council at Delhi as well as its 24 branch centres.

A Research Board plans and supervises the Council's publication programme: the publication of a quarterly, India Quarterly; a monthly, Foreign Affairs Reports; occasional publications such as monographs and a series of biennial volumes entitled India In World Affairs surveying India's role in international affairs year after year.

The Council maintains the largest specialized library in India on international affairs, consisting of some 14,000 volumes and 400 periodicals.

The Council has organized three important International Conferences. It organized the First Asian Relations Conference in March-April, 1947; in December 1949, the Council, in co-operation with the American Institute of Pacific Relations, organized the India-America Conference to discuss problems of Indo-American Relations; and in October 1950, the Council acted as host to the Eleventh Institute of Pacific Relations Conference at Lucknow.

The Council is constructing at New Delhi, its own headquarters building, called Sapru House, in memory of its first President, the Rt. Hon. Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru.

As on 31st December 1950, the Council had 24 branches in most of the leading cities of India and 1,980 members composed of 11 Patrons, 81 Life members, 146 corporate members and 1,742 ordinary members.

INDIAN RED CROSS SOCIETY

20, Talkatora Road, New Delhi.

President: Dr. Rajendra Prasad (President of the Republic of India).

Chairman, Managing Body: Rajkumari Amrit Kaur.

Vice-Chairman: Shri Usha Nath Sen.

Secretary-General: Sardar Balwant Singh Puri.

Constitution:—The President of the Republic of India is the President of the Society. The Managing Body consists of a Chairman and 25 members, of whom 12 are the Vice-Presidents, 8 selected by the Society at the Annual General Meeting from among the members of the Society, and 5 nominated by the President.

Junior Red Cross:—Junior Red Cross which was started in 1926 is an integral part of the Indian Red Cross Society and is its youth section.

Nursing Service:—The Society is maintaining a roll of nurses for emergency service in the country.

Medical After-Care Fund:—With a view to granting relief for medical treatment and cognate purposes to the sick Indian ex-Servicemen, who participated in the Second World War, the Indian Forces Medical After-Care Fund was instituted at the headquarters towards the end of 1941. The scope of the Fund was extended in 1949 so as to include the ex-servicemen of World War I. Assistance from the Fund is invoked by an increasing number of deserving cases. The total number of applications dealt with till the end of 1952 was 3,655. During 1952, six hundred and sixteen fresh applications were received from ex-servicemen suffering from tuberculosis, leprosy, mental and other diseases, and a sum of Rs. 1,96,263 was given in grants to 448 new and 596 old cases raising the total of disbursements from the fund during the last 11 years to Rs. 10,38,005. A sum of Rs. 10,000 was received from the Armed Forces Reconstruction Fund in 1952 for providing medical after-care to the ex-service personnel of the Jammu and Kashmir operations.

Bureau of Maternity and Child Welfare:—The Maternity and Child Welfare Bureau of the Society was established in 1931.

The Bureau administers the Lady Chelmsford League Fund for maternity and child welfare, the Victoria Memorial Scholarships Fund for the training of dais, and the Army Child Welfare Funds. The Bureau also acts as a Central office for information on all aspects of maternal and child health and offers technical assistance to the branches of the Indian Red Cross Society that maintain maternity and child welfare services in their States.

Relief Activities:—Emergency relief forms an important aspect of Red Cross work in India and it comprises two categories: assistance with cash grants, medical and other supplies and provision of trained field workers for first aid, ambulance service, nursing and incidental duties for sudden emergencies.

Health Education:—Popular health education is another important activity. Health lectures, film shows, demonstrations of slides, etc. are regularly organised under Red Cross auspices. Two quarterly Journals are published, namely, the Indian Red Cross Journal and the Indian Junior.

Hospitals.—The Society runs a Red Cross Home in Bangalore well-equipped for 75 patients for giving expert medical aid and nursing care to permanently disabled ex-servicemen. It also provides various amenities and comforts to patients in all military hospitals in India and to Field Medical Units of Jammu and Kashmir Forces.

Finances.—The investments of the Society at the end of 1952 stood at Rs. 2,21,22,000 and the floating and fixed deposits at Rs. 54,171. From the total income of Rs. 6,84,105 derived from investments of the Society, a sum of Rs. 1,98,000 is distributed under the Act to the State Branches in India and those in Pakistan in proportion to their contributions to the Central "OUR DAY" Fund raised in the First World War.

NATIONAL EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

As a means of ensuring the maximum utilisation of available manpower and supplying employers with the right type of workers, the Government of India is running an employment organization. This organisation consists of a network of employment exchanges in the Republic of India and a large number of technical, vocational and apprenticeship training centres.

The objects of the organization are :—(1) to place applicants in suitable employment ; (2) to increase the mobility of labour both territorial and occupational ; (3) to substitute a free, impartial and scientific system of recruitment for the one through jobbers and mistries which was condemned by the Whitley Commission on labour about two decades ago ; (4) to assist in organizing training and retraining courses ; (5) to provide the necessary machinery and suitable data for the adoption of social security measures by the State ; and ultimately (6) to promote full employment for the manpower available in the country.

The organization is under the administrative charge of the Directorate-General of Resettlement and Employment which exercises powers of control and supervision over the eleven Regional or State Offices.

By the end of December 1952, the Employment Exchanges had registered 7,250,802 persons of whom 905,415 were displaced persons, and placed in employment 1,900,138 of whom 200,949 were displaced persons.

At the end of 1952 there were 131 Employment Exchanges operating in India, in addition to a number of sub-offices. At some centres decentralisation schemes for industrial workers were organised through the agency of the Employment Exchange Service.

As an integral part of the employment organisation, the Directorate-General of Resettlement and Employment is running technical and vocational training institutes/centres where training is imparted in more than 60 technical and vocational trades. At the end of December 1952 there were 34 technical, 16 combined and 11 vocational training institutes/centres (including 4 for training of women). In these institutions 10,512 persons including 2,513 displaced persons and 426 women were under training. In addition to above 195 displaced persons were undergoing apprenticeship training in 206 industrial undertakings in Uttar Pradesh and West Bengal.

With a view to ensuring a steady supply of trained instructors for running technical and vocational training centres, both Government and private, a central institute for training instructors has been set up at Koni near Bilaspur in Madhya Pradesh. By the end of December 1952 it had turned out 874 instructor-trainees and there were another 118 under training.

CLUBS

CHELMSFORD CLUB

When the Chelmsford Club was first started it was a residential socio-political Delhi-Simla Club whose object was to promote good-will between Indians and Europeans. It has since been permanently shifted to New Delhi. The Club was later reorganized as a purely non-residential social club. It has its own building on Raisina Road in New Delhi. Games and amenities include tennis, squash, swimming, billiards, ping-pong, badminton, and weekly dances, catering and bar.

DEFENCE SERVICES CLUB

The Defence Services Club is housed in the National Stadium Building, New Delhi and is open only to members of the Defence Services.

DELHI FLYING CLUB

(Civil Aerodrome)

DELHI GYMKHANA CLUB

Delhi Gymkhana Club is a residential club for nationals as well as aliens. It has its own building on Race Course Road and provides the usual club amenities.

GOLF CLUB

(Wellesley Road)

Delhi Golf Club, situated on Wellesley Road, is a private Club open to golfing and non-golfing members. Non-residents of Delhi are welcome to use the Club for a limited time as Casual Members on the payment of Green-fees or by the purchase of weekly or fortnightly passes. A professional is available for tuition; clubs may be hired and balls etc. purchased. Casual members can obtain refreshments after purchasing coupons.

ROSHANARA CLUB

The Club was founded by R. E. Grant Govan, in 1922 with a few Indian and European friends in Delhi with a view to having a club where Europeans and Indians could freely meet one another. It was formally inaugurated by Lord Reading on 9th December 1922.

The activities of the Club include cricket, tennis, hockey, billiards and cards. Weekly Guest Nights, Dinners and Dances are held as well as cocktail dances.

Life membership donation is Rs. 2,500; entrance fee, Rs. 200; annual subscription, Rs. 15; monthly subscription, Rs. 15. Service officers are exempted from Ballot and entrance fee.

INDIAN STANDARDS INSTITUTION

19, UNIVERSITY ROAD, CIVIL LINES, DELHI-8.

The ISI was brought into existence by the Government of India Resolution No. 1-Std (4) 45 dated 3rd Sept. 1946. The main object is to co-ordinate the standardization activities of various laboratories and institutions and to introduce industrial standards on a national basis.

The aims and objects of the Institution include the co-ordination of efforts of Producers and Consumers for the improvement of materials, products, appliances, processes and methods; introduction of codes of practice, provision or arrangement for facilities for examination and testing of commodities, processes and practices, and planning and direction of related investigations and research.

The affairs of the Institution are administered by a General Council, which is representative of various Ministries of the Government of India, the Governments of States, the professional societies of technologists and scientists, the chambers of commerce and industry and other allied interests.

The technical work of preparing standards, specifications, codes of practice, etc., is carried out under the authority of the four division councils, namely, (a) Engineering, (b) Textiles, (c) Chemicals and (d) Buildings, and a food grain storage section.

The income of the Institution is derived from (a) Government grants, (b) contributions from industry and other interested public bodies, (c) subscriptions from members, and (d) sale of Indian Standards, Specifications, etc.

Agon ropes have a greater number of even twisted yarns of fine counts. These give the product added toughness and strength.

The strands are homogeneous. The rope therefore is free from stretching and swelling.

Agon ropes are available in three and four plies which are of uniform thickness. This makes continuous working of engine smooth and efficient.

Agon ropes are greased with anti-fraying compound which gives strength and durability to the rope.

FOREIGN POSSESSIONS IN INDIA

FRANCE and Portugal are now the only remaining European powers with territorial interests in India after the withdrawal of the British.

FRENCH SETTLEMENTS

Area: 200 sq. miles; Pop: 323,295 (1941); Capital: Pondicherry; Commissioner of Republic: M. A. Menard.

The French establishments in India are:

(1) On the Coromandel Coast: (a) Pondicherry, the capital, together with the adjoining territory, divided into 8 communes, (b) Karikal and the dependent districts divided into 6 communes;

(2) On the coast of Orissa: Yanam, with the dependent villages; the lodge of Masulipatam and the garden Francepeth;

(3) On the Malabar Coast: Mahé with the adjoining territory, and the lodge of Calicut.

The French possessions are ruled by a Commissioner of the Republic, appointed directly by the French Government, and is guided by the French India Representative Assembly. The Assembly has not much powers and its decisions can be overruled by the Commissioner.

Chaudernagore in West Bengal is the first French India possession to become de jure a part of the Indian Union after the treaty for its cession, signed in Paris in 1951 by the representatives of the two Governments. The Treaty was ratified by the French Assembly on April 11, 1952.

Negotiations in regard to the transfer of other French Indian possessions in south India have not yet reached a conclusive stage despite repeated efforts of the Indian Government to expedite a settlement.*

On a suggestion of the French Government, the International Court of Justice appointed three neutral observers, two European and one Asian, to study conditions in the French Settlements in India and report back to the Court on the question of the feasibility of holding a referendum.

The observers' mission was to report whether conditions existed for a fair and free plebiscite in the French settlements. According to the Indian Government, the team reported that these conditions did not yet exist.

COMMERCE AND INDUSTRIES

Domestic commerce is insignificant as the area is too small. The chief crops are rice, groundnuts, peas, lentils, vetches, onions and other vegetables, betel, indigo, sugarcane, bananas and other fruits, coconuts and oleaginous grams. The major portion of these products is consumed in the districts themselves the only markets being the towns of Pondicherry, Karikal, Yanam, Mahé.

The chief exports are oil-seeds which are sent from the ports of Pondicherry and Karikal. The imports are mainly manufactured goods, textiles and luxury articles from France and the countries of Europe.

There are at Pondicherry 3 cotton mills. The cotton mills have in all about 2,000 looms and 86,000 spindles giving employment to some 7,000 people. Besides these there is one oil factory, several oil presses for groundnuts and one ice factory.

The only bank is La Banque D'Indochine, which caters for the needs of merchants and traders in the locality.

The Customs Union which was established as a result of negotiations with the Government of India in 1941 expired in 1948 and has so far not been renewed.

A railway line connects Pondicherry with Villupuram, a junction on the Southern Railway.

At Pondicherry alone, there are at present, besides the Law School, and the Medical College, one undenominational college for higher education, one secondary school, 5 public institutions for higher primary education, four schools preparing students for English examinations, fifteen public schools for boys, eighteen public schools for girls and twenty-nine co-educational, all imparting primary education.

PONDICHERRY

Area: 115 sq. miles; Population: 235,000 (estimate)

Pondicherry is the chief of the French settlements in India and its capital is the seat of the Government. The city is situated in the district of South Arcot in Madras State, about 89 miles from Madras.

There is no harbour, but only a roadstead which is the best on the entire coast. Ships lie at a distance from the shore and contact with land is maintained by means of the usual manula boats peculiar to this part of South India.

KARIKAL

Karikal is situated in the Tanjore District, and consists of a single tract of territory stretching along the east coast between Tranquebar and Nagore. It is at a distance of 90 miles from Pondicherry. It covers an area of 53 sq. miles and is divided into 6 communes containing 110 villages. The establishment has a population of 60,555, according to the 1941 census. Karikal is the terminus of a line from Paralim on the Tanjore District Railway.

YANAM

The town is situated in the delta of the Godavari covering an area of 6 miles and is an enclave of the District of Godavari in Andhra State. The soil is fertile, and supports a population of 5,711.

MAHÉ

The territory of Mahé on the west coast consists of the town of Mahé on the left bank of the river of the same name; and the isolated district of Nalutara on the right bank containing the 4 villages of Chambara, Chalkara, Palour and Pandaquel. It lies within the District of Malabar in Madras State, and covers an area of 23 sq. miles.

The present population is estimated at 22,000. Rice is grown where water is plentiful.

ADMINISTRATIVE PERSONNEL

Commissioner of Republic: M. A. Menard.
General Secretary: M. C. J. Camouilly.
Chief Secretary: M. J. Bellat.
Chief Justice: M. Ch. Caillier.
Chief of Education Department: M. Sivaradjam.
Chief of Public Works Department: Pierre Coll.
Chief of Political Affairs Office: K. Loganadin.
Chief of Economic Affairs: Pierre Kresser.
Administrator of Mahé: M. Pascal.
Administrator of Karikal: Rene Boucheny.

PORTUGUESE SETTLEMENTS

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICIALS

Governor-General, General Paulo Benard Guedes.
Commander-in-Chief (Comandante Militar), Colonel Alexandre dos Santos Mayer.
Elected Members of the Governor's Council (Conselho do Governo), Vitolia Vinum Sinal Dempo; Dr. José Luis Marcos de Silva Pereira; Adv. Antonio Avelar Barreto; Vassudeva Atmarama Porobo Dessai Desporobo.
Governor of Daman, Capt. Paulino de Magalhães Correia.

Governor of Diu, Capt. Paiva Couceiro.

H. E. the Patriarch of East Indies, D. Jose da Costa Nunes.

Indian Consul-General in Nova-Goa, Vincent H. Coelho.

Vice-Consul for Goa, G. A. Prabhu.

Supt., Indian Union Customs Office, Marmugao Harbour, G. M. Mureshwar.

The Portuguese settlements in India are three: Goa, Daman, Diu.

All the three settlements are situated within the State of Bombay. Goa is on the Konkani Coast; Daman, along with the small territory of Pragana-Nagar-Avelly lies on the Gujarat coast at the entrance to the Gulf of Cambay; and Diu is a tiny islet and along with the isolated spots, Gogola and Simbor lies on the southern fringe of the Saurashtra peninsula.

GOVERNMENT

The Governor-General is the head of the administration and is stationed in the capital (Cidade de Goa formerly known as Nova-Goa and also Panjim).

Associated in the task of government is the Conselho do Governo possessing restricted legislative and advisory powers. The Governor-General is its ex-officio president. Five members are elected by means of a very exclusive franchise, three to represent the Vilhas Conquistadas, one the Novas Conquistadas and one the districts of Daman and Diu. Five others are nominated to represent the minorities, agriculture, commerce and the press.

Daman and Diu have each a District Governor.

In each district there is a District Council for the supervision of the various municipalities and other local bodies in its jurisdiction. For administrative purposes the district is divided into Concelhos, each Concelho being in the charge of an official styled the Administrador, and for judicial purposes it is divided into circuits or Comarcas each having its own court of original jurisdiction.

An appeal lies from the decisions of these courts to the Tribunal de Relacao or High Court sitting in the capital and side by side with the latter there is also a Tribunal Administrativo to dispense justice under droit administratif.

A striking feature of the rural administration is the continuance of the ancient Indian institution of the village community which has disappeared elsewhere in India. In places where the resistance to Portuguese domination has continued almost to our own day, as in the southern communes of Goa, Assolna, Cuncolim and Velim, the village communities were suppressed and their estates confiscated by the Government.

The village community is an autonomous institution, socialist in its organization under which land is held in common by the original settlers of the village here called the Gaunkaras, thus preventing concentration of land in the hands of a few and promoting a rough equality, while preventing the domination by privileged few. The management is vested in a committee elected by the constituents.

The advent of Dr. Oliveira Salazar to power and the establishment of his Estado Novo has led to increasing centralization in the administration of Portuguese India. All measures of importance must be initiated by and carry the sanction of the home government in Lisbon. The Governor's Council, Conselho do Governo which assists him, was shorn of what little legislative powers it formerly possessed. There are no elected municipalities and local boards in the villages. Each municipality is in charge of an administrative committee nominated by the Governor-General, who also appoints the presidents of all charitable and cultural associations in the country.

* A conference between the Government of India and the French Government started in Paris on May 15, 1954 to settle the future of the French possessions in India.

A stringent censorship controls the freedom of the press, and every article, book or pamphlet has to be submitted to the board of censors before it appears in print. Infringements of the press laws are severely dealt with and newspapers are required to keep security deposits with the Government before being licensed for publication.

Freedom of association is likewise controlled. No public meeting or assembly, be its purpose ever so innocuous, may be convened without previous permission of the authorities, and every intended talk and speech must bear the censor's visa.

COMMERCE AND INDUSTRIES

The chief agricultural products of Goa are rice, coconuts, cashew-nuts, betel-nuts, mangoes, and sugar-cane. Of these only cashew-nuts, betel-nuts, coconuts and mangoes are exported in any considerable quantities, the rice grown not being sufficient for local consumption. Other exports include copra, bamboos, salt, salt-fish and manganese and iron ore. The only industries worthy of note are soap manufacture, tile manufacture, sugar and tinned food products and jaggery. The imports consist of rice, textiles and other manufactured goods, an unrestricted supply of which is just now available owing to the uneven situation created by the currency export regulations in force in the Indian Union, there being no such regulations in Portuguese India.

For the last four years, the iron and the manganese mining industry has made rapid headway and Goa now is in a position to export one million tons of iron ore and 150,000 tons of manganese ore. These two industries bring in a sum of Rs. 5 crores in American dollars.

Businessmen and industrialists from all over India have been attracted to Goa and a lot of Indian capital has been invested because of the high returns which these mines are yielding.

Most of the trade of Portuguese India is with the Indian Union, Pakistan, Portugal, Portuguese African colonies and the countries of Europe.

There are no banks operating in Portuguese territory with the exception of the Banco Nacional Ultramarino which has offices in the major towns. No Indian bank can open branches in Goa as the Banco Nacional has a monopoly. The Indian Government compelled the Portuguese Bank to close its branch in Bombay because Indian banks were not allowed to trade in Goa.

A railway line maintained and run by the West of India Portuguese Guaranteed Railway Company, once a subsidiary of the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway, joins the port of Mormugao with the junction of Londa on the Southern Railway. It fulfils a very important role by providing an outlet to the sea for the products of this part of the Mahratta country.

Mormugao, which is the chief port, is also one of the major ports on the west coast of India and is open to ocean-going vessels of every size from all parts of the world.

EDUCATION AND CULTURE

Primary education is free and compulsory in schools maintained by the State of which there is at least one in every village. There are at present some 200 primary schools controlled and administered by a Board of Primary Education, Conselho da Instrucao Primaria with offices in the capital.

In Cidade de Goa there is a Lyceum for the study of Portuguese, a Normal School, and a Medical School.

A Theological Seminary trains young men for the priesthood at Rachol.

Over and above these, there are a number of English teaching High Schools run by private enterprise and by religious orders preparing students for the S.S.C. examination of the Bombay Government and the Entrance Examination of the University of Bombay.

The Biblioteca Nacional houses what is perhaps one of the best libraries of rare books and manuscripts on the west coast of India while the Arquivo contain an inexhaustible wealth of hitherto unexplored historical material.

DAMAN

Daman in Gujarat includes the two isolated enclaves of Dasa and Fragan-Nagar-Avely, lying to the south-east and crossed by the Daman-Ganga river.

The entire territory has a total area of 62 square miles and a population of some 60,000 inhabitants, mostly of Gujarati extraction.

It is easily reached from Bombay by the Western Railway, being at a distance of 4½ hours' journey.

There are some very interesting historical relics here such as the old fort and a few surviving churches reminiscent of the old times.

DIU

About 150 miles to the north-west of Daman lies the tiny islet of Diu off the southern coast of Saurashtra. It is a small town separated from the mainland by a narrow arm of the sea. Dependent on it and surrounded by the territory of Junagadh is the enclave of Gogola and also the island and fort of Pani Cota in the bay of Simbar.

Diu is reached from Bombay by the Western Railway via Viramgam and Delwada. Access by sea is easier and more rapid but there is no harbour. There is an excellent roadstead where ships can safely anchor in two fathoms of water.

Area: 413 sq. miles. The population is estimated at 10,731.

PRO-MERGER MOVEMENT

A movement for the merger of foreign possessions in India without a referendum particularly in the French settlements started in March 1954. On the 18th of that month resolutions were passed demanding immediate merger in eight municipalities of Pondicherry. Some days later similar resolutions were passed by the six municipalities of Karikal. The resolutions obtained the full support of the French Indian Councillors (Ministers) and the President of the Representative Assembly.

The municipalities that passed these resolutions comprise nearly 90 per cent of the population. Telegrams were sent to the President of the French Republic, members of the French Cabinet, and Presidents of the National Assembly and the Senate.

Mass demonstrations occurred, followed by counter-measures by the French authorities, and trespass into Indian territory by the French police. In the western areas of Pondicherry—Nettapakkam and parts of Bahour—the pro-merger parties obtained effective power.

Three measures were adopted by the Indian Government to prevent trespass: 1. A total ban on the passage of French police across Indian territory to any part of the French possessions, 2. A ban on petrol supplies from India to French possessions, 3. Introduction of a permit system to regulate traffic to and from Pondicherry and Karikal.

The Indian Government proposed an immediate de facto transfer of French possessions, leaving constitutional and other matters to be settled later. The French reply was that under the French constitution no transfer of French territory was possible without the consent of the people, though a sort of 'Condominium' might be acceptable.

The arrest and deportation of a medical practitioner in Goa led to agitation and consequent repression by the Portuguese authorities. The Government of India delivered a diplomatic protest note in which the Government said that they could not remain a silent spectator to the repression of the Goan people. The protest was rejected by the Portuguese authorities.

GOA

Capital: Cidade de Goa (Panjim). Area 1,062 sq. miles. Pop. 544,450 (estimate).

A compact block of territory belonging to the Portuguese on the west coast of India. Goa lies between 14°53' and 15°48' north latitude and 73°45' and 74°24' east longitude. The territory of Goa is bounded on the north by the river Terekhol, on the east by the Western Ghats, on the south by North Kanara and on the west by the Arabian Sea. The extreme length from north to south is 62 miles, the greatest breadth from east to west 40 miles. The area is 1,062 sq. miles.

The whole country is hilly, especially in the eastern portion, the predominating physical feature being the Western Ghats. There are several conspicuous isolated peaks, the highest of which is Sonsogad, which exceeds 4,000 feet in height.

Goa is intersected by several rivers running westward from the Ghats and six of them, which are all navigable, are of great importance. They are from north to south, the Terekhol (10 miles), Chapora (18 miles), Mandovi (38 miles), Zuari (39 miles), Sal (15 miles) and Talpona (7 miles).

Though Konkani is the spoken language of all Goans, Marathi is the literary language of the Hindus. Portuguese is also widely used.

GOVERNMENT

Portuguese India is ruled by a Governor-General, and assisting him in the administration are the Home and Political, Finance, Customs, Education, Military, Naval, Agriculture, Health and Public Works Secretariats. There are also three special and autonomous departments, viz., Posts & Telegraphs, Survey Department and the Fiscal Department of the W.I.P. Railway. Working in collaboration with the Governor-General is the Council (Conselho do Governo), with legislative and advisory powers. The Council consists, in addition to the Governor-General, of an ex-officio President, four officials, five elected members and five members nominated by the Governor-General to represent agriculture, commerce, the Press, minorities and other interests.

There is a High Court at Cidade de Goa with five Judges and one Attorney-General, and Courts of Justice at Panjim, Margao, Mapuca, Bicholim, Quepem and Daman, and Municipal Courts of Justice at Vasco-da-Gama, Ponda, Dlu and Nagaravali.

There is an Indian Consulate-General in Goa to look after the interests of Indian subjects in Goa and other parts of Portuguese India. A vice-consulate has been opened at Vasco.

The important towns in the territory of Goa are Panjim, Old Goa, Vasco da Gama, Margao, Mapuca, Valpol, Sanvordem, Bicholim, Ponda, Sanguem, Sanquelim, Pernem, Quepem and Canacona. The two most important harbours are Mormugao and Cidade de Goa. There are smaller ports at the mouths of rivers, viz., Chapora, Betul and Talpona.

Mormugao is accessible at all times of the year and is therefore the harbour of the greatest commercial importance in the whole territory. It is the terminus of the West of India Portuguese Guaranteed Railway (W.I.P.) running to the coast from the eastern portions of the territory and linked with the Indian railway system at Castle Rock. It is a natural outlet to the sea for the whole area served by the Southern Railway and provides the shortest route both for passenger and goods traffic to the sea. The port is provided with light houses, buoys and all other necessary marks. The port has also a fine breakwater and its quay-wall exceeds a height of 1,000 ft. The harbour can accommodate six large ocean-going steamers at a time. There are a number of electric cranes for loading and unloading purposes, in addition to one 30-ton steam crane, specially erected for dealing with heavy lifts. There are also suitable covered godowns owned by the Railway Company and the Port Trust which are used for storing seed cargo, minerals, etc. The godown rent is comparatively cheap with the result that shipments of oilseeds are effected on a larger scale from Mormugao than ever before.

The extension of the port of Mormugao has now been taken in hand.

Cidade de Goa, the capital of Goa and a fine port, lies at the mouth of the Mandovi river, and includes Panjim and Ribandar. It is the present capital of Goa territory and the seat of the Governor-General. Panjim is the most beautiful city in the whole of Goa, and has been undergoing many remarkable improvements in recent years, notable amongst which is the provision of electricity. There is a regular coastal steamer service between Panjim and Bombay during the summer months, and motor service between Panjim and Belgaum. A regular service of steam launches and motor boats managed by the Goa Government runs between Panjim and Betim-Verem and other important places on river banks.

The city possesses up-to-date hotels such as Mira Mar and Hotel Republica managed by Europeans, and Madhavashrama, Gujarat Hindu Lodge, etc., managed by Hindus.

Vasco da Gama is the chief town of Mormugao District and also a railway, air and wireless station. It is a halting place for Tata's Bombay-Trivandrum Air Service and has a fine aerodrome on the headland adjacent to Mormugao harbour. There is regular air service between Bombay and Goa.

There are also very big oil installations of the Standard-Vacuum Oil Company of New York, the Burmah-Shell Oil Storage and Distributing Company (India) Ltd., and the Caltex (India) Ltd. in the town. The railway station is the most important on the whole of the W.I.P. Railway and the town contains railway workshops, engine sheds and an electric power house. Mormugao harbour is only two miles away from the city.

Margao is a flourishing city in the Salsette District and a great trading centre. Recent amenities are: a municipal garden, library, cricket ground.

Mapuca is situated in the heart of the Bardez District and is the District's chief town. It has a large trade with all the villages in Bardez, Pernem and Bicholim Districts. The market which is very crowded on Fridays, is situated at the foot of a hill.

Valpol is a small town at the centre of the Satari District and an important military station in Portuguese India. The town also contains an observatory.

Sanvordem in Quepem Taluka is sixteen miles away from Margao and is a well known commercial place. Most of Goan mineral produce is stored at this station before it is shipped to the United Kingdom and Continental Ports via Mormugao Harbour. There are two big rice mills which are able to supply rice to adjacent towns and there is also a tile factory. The place has a small harbour, and a regular steam launch service runs between Sanvordem and Cidade de Goa touching all the smaller interior ports. A crowded fair is held every Sunday, which enables the villagers to get their weekly provisions.

COMMUNICATIONS

A railway line connects Mormugao harbour with the Southern Railway. Its length from Mormugao harbour to Castle Rock above the Ghats, where it joins the Indian Union railway system is fifty-one miles, of which forty-nine miles are in Portuguese territory. The Railway is under the management of the Southern Railway, and the bulk of the trade of Mormugao Port consists of what is carried by this railway. The West of India Portuguese Guaranteed Railway (W.I.P. Railway) has recently been yielding handsome profits sufficient not only to pay the guaranteed rate of interest but also to leave a surplus which is paid regularly into the Lisbon Treasury.

There are steam launch services from D. Paula to Mormugao and Vasco da Gama, Panjim to Sanvordem, Panjim to Betim-Verem, Panjim to Piliago-Volvol, and from Panjim to Aldona.

The telegraphs in Portuguese Territories are worked as a separate system from that of India.

There is a proposal to link principal cities by telephone.

The Goa Government has also started an experimental Radio Station which conducts its weekly programmes with the help of local artists.

AGRICULTURE, MINERALS

A little over one-third of the entire territory of Goa is under cultivation. The fertility of the soil varies considerably with quality, situation and water supply. The staple produce of the country is rice, of which there are two good harvests, but the quantity produced is barely sufficient to meet the needs of the population for two-thirds of the year. Next to rice, the most important agricultural pursuit is the cultivation of coconut palms. Hilly places and inferior soils are set apart for the cultivation of cereals. Fruit and vegetables of several kinds are also cultivated. Goa mangoes are very delicious and are in great demand in Bombay and other Indian markets. Large quantities are exported to Europe every year from Bombay Port. The mango season in Goa falls in April and May, although some of the varieties are available in June also. Of all the varieties the best ones are "Malcorada" and "Alphonso" which have excellent flavour and taste. Other important varieties of Goa Mangoes are "Xavier", "Fernandina", "Colaco", "Malgusa", "Costa", "Patri" and "Monserrate". The mango harvest begins with "Malcorada" and ends with "Monserrate".

Some agricultural farms have recently been established.

The forests of Goa, located in the Novas Conquistas, cover an area of 116 square miles, and yield some revenue to the Government by the local sale of building material and the export of firewood.

Iron is found in some parts of the territory, but has not been regularly mined in spite of heavy demand from Continental ports. High Grade manganese ore also exists in Sanguem District. Till lately only a few mines were working, the ore being exported to the Continental and United Kingdom ports. At present there is a heavy demand for high grade manganese ore and more than 95 mines are worked on the initiative of Indian business men.

A company has started mining operations with a capital of Rs. 2 crores. Exports of ore have increased.

The export figures of both, the manganese and iron ore are going up. The export of these commodities to hard currency areas have greatly favoured the local Government to obtain Dollars in exchange which is mostly utilised in imports of Foodstuffs.

INDUSTRIES

There is not much industry worth speaking of though Government encouragement is not lacking. Some industries which have recently been established are soap, sugar, candle, confectionery and ice.

Goa's trade is chiefly a transit trade from the Indian Union. It comprises iron ores, scrap iron, pig iron, groundnut seeds, linseed, cotton seed, castor seed, cotton, oilcakes, salt, mangoes, betel nuts, dry fish and cashew nuts. The last are the most important among the produce exported. Two notable imports are tiles and timber. The need in tiles of the whole southern Maratha country is supplied via the port of Marmugao. These come in large quantities from Mangalore and are re-exported. Some tiles are manufactured at Sanvordem in Goa territory, but the territory as a whole is dependent chiefly on imports from outside. In the same way though Goa has some forest timber has to be imported from North Kanara and Dharwar Districts. The forests of Goa are yet to be properly exploited. A match factory on modern lines has been started in Havell, Ponda District of Goa.

EDUCATION

There is a big demand for English education in Goa as a result of which it has as many as 20 High Schools recognized by the Bombay University. These High Schools impart education on the same lines as in Bombay State. The Portuguese Primary Schools which are scattered all over the territory are well attended as every student has compulsorily to pass the first primary examination before joining an English school. There are over 250 Marathi Schools financed from private funds.

Three new technical schools have been started.

General Secretary: V. G. Deshpande, M.P.

Organising Secretary: B. Guna.

Offices Secretary: Narendranath Das.

Treasurer: M. Digvijay Nath.

Total membership of party: 2,25,000.

Strength in the House of the People: 4.

Strength in the Council of States: 1.

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The aim of the Hindu Mahasabha is the protection and promotion of all that contributes to the advancement, strength and glory of Hindu Rashtra, Hindu culture and Hindu polity, and as a means to that end, to achieve Hindu Raj and re-establish the integrity of the State of Bharat by constitutional means.

Besides the establishment of 'Akhanda Hindustan' the aims and objects of the Hindu Mahasabha are defined as follows:

The establishment of a really democratic State in Hindustan, based on the culture and tradition of the land;

The organisation and consolidation of all sections of the people into one organised whole;

The creation of a new social order in which all nationals will enjoy equal rights and opportunities and share equal responsibilities;

The assurance to each national of the dignity of human values and full freedom of thought, expression, association and worship;

The revival and promotion of the ancient Indian motto of plain living and high thinking, and the glorious ideals of Aryan womanhood;

Adoption of (Sanskrit-Nishta) Hindi as the national language and Devanagari as the national script of India;

Making of Hindustan politically, economically and materially strong and self-reliant;

Removal of all forms of social inequalities and disabilities;

(9) Reclamation of all those who have left the Hindu fold and welcoming of others into the community;

Ending of gross inequalities in the distribution of wealth, assurance of a decent standard of living to each national, and securing for workers and peasants their rightful share in the economy of the country.

Industrialisation of the country as rapidly as possible;

Promotion of cow protection and abolition of cow slaughter;

Cultivation of friendly relations with other nations with a view to maintaining international peace and progress.

The present Constitution of India is borrowed from the Constitutions of America, England, France and other Western countries and is not suited to the genius of the people. The Hindu Mahasabha would undertake the task of amending the Constitution so that it may be in consonance with the tradition and culture of the land and make Bharat a truly democratic Hindu State.

The Hindu Mahasabha wants to discourage all separatist tendencies and hence would amend the Constitution so that Bharat may be a well-knit homogeneous State with a strong centre and not a loose combination of autonomous States. Bharat itself would be a State and the units would be provinces and not States.

The Hindu Mahasabha believes in the policy of formation of provinces on a linguistic basis and the readjustment of boundaries of the existing provinces wherever necessary, with due regard to the problems of defence and security, the area, population and economic stability of the province concerned and the rehabilitation of the refugees.

The distinction between States as Parts 'A', 'B' and 'C' would be removed and all parts of India would enjoy the fullest democratic rights without any distinction.

The Hindu Mahasabha proposes to come out of the Commonwealth in order to make Bharat a really free nation. It will enter into treaty relations with the United Kingdom and other countries for mutual help and co-operation.

India's foreign policy will be guided by the principle of enlightened self-interest and reciprocity.

The Hindu Mahasabha will adopt the policy of reciprocity towards Pakistan.

The Hindu Mahasabha will endeavour to build up a strong defence in the present disturbed condition of the international situation and with this object in view, will develop the country as a first rate military power in order to make its voice felt in the United Nations Organisation.

The Hindu Mahasabha will make military education compulsory for all young men between the ages of 18 and 25, who are physically fit and special attention will be paid to develop industries connected with war machines and materials of all types.

The Hindu Mahasabha will relax the rigours of the Arms Act and issue licences liberally to the inhabitants in border areas.

The Hindu Mahasabha recognises the sanctity of private property and guarantees its possession and inheritance to its owners.

All key industries such as electricity, railway, coal and steel mines and industries dealing with war materials and weapons will be owned and controlled by the State. The remaining industries will remain open for private enterprise. In running these industries the Mahasabha assures all investors full facilities to start new industries with State aid and partial exemption from taxation in the initial stages.

The Hindu Mahasabha will follow a policy of progressive decentralisation as it is convinced that controls, without guaranteeing adequate supply of controlled commodities to the public, have only a nuisance value and also often actually lead to blackmarketing and corruption. Definite schemes will be formulated for improving the supply of food, cloth and other necessities.

The Hindu Mahasabha will give priority to rehabilitation of refugees and would even levy a special tax, if necessary, for the purpose. The Hindu Mahasabha guarantees compensation to all evacuees who have lost their property in Pakistan and will settle the problem of evacuees' properties at Government level speedily. The Hindu Mahasabha also declares that the refugees will become full-fledged citizens of Bharat. The Hindu Mahasabha will take effective steps to recover abducted women from Pakistan.

In the State Assemblies Elections the Forward Bloc secured 8,53,810 votes.

In the House of People election the Forward Bloc secured 9,88,272 votes.

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The philosophy, aims and objects are broadly as follows:

Scrapping the present constitution, convening a new Constituent Assembly based on adult franchise to frame a new constitution.

All authority would rest with the toiling masses.

The new constitution would provide for: freedom of speech, worship, association, press, land to the tillers; nationalization of industry without compensation; right to recall representatives; right to initiative and referendum; abolition of Upper Houses; formation of States on a linguistic basis; abolition of class, B and C States; stoppage of Princes' privy purses; secession from the Commonwealth; guarantee of right to work, leisure, education, medical and old age provision.

Import and export trade will be Government monopoly.

Confiscation of British capital.

* The particulars given in this chapter are largely—though not invariably—based on returns sent in by the parties themselves.

Progressive and planned socialization of industries; decentralization of private enterprise when necessary.

Reorganization of cottage industries on a co-operative basis.

Gradual replacement of indirect taxation by direct taxation.

Effort to secure full and immediate realization of sterling balances.

No new foreign debt should be incurred; old debts will be paid off on realization of the sterling balances.

No foreign capital will be accepted for national development. The economy will be based on self-sufficiency.

In the transition to socialism—living wage, forty-two hour week, right to strike, insurance against unemployment, sickness, old age, equal pay for equal work, maternity benefit for four months with full pay.

Fixation of maximum and minimum income in the ratio of 10:1.

Systems of landlordism and intermediaries will be abolished without compensation.

Redistribution of land, with a ceiling of 25 acres; landlords and intermediaries to a maximum of 50 acres.

Present revenue system will be replaced by graduated agricultural income-tax.

Insurance for kisans; formation of co-operative societies.

Fixation of maximum and minimum prices for essential commodities.

Primary and secondary education free and compulsory; higher education cheap enough for all deserving students.

Organization of a system of national health. Abolition of all armed licences and military training of all adults.

Withdrawal of Kashmir case from the U.N.O.; plebiscite after Pakistan forces are withdrawn and the Azad volunteers disarmed; forcible eviction of raiders if Pakistan disagrees.

The annulment of partition and a reunion on a national and cultural basis with territorial autonomy.

Rehabilitation of I.N.A. personnel. Separation of judiciary and executive.

Friendly relations with Russia and China.

BHARAT KRISHIKAR LOK PARTY

(78, North Avenue, New Delhi).

President: N. G. Ranga.

Vice-Presidents: Dadubhai Amin, V. Ramakrishna, Chowdhry Surajmal, Thakur Deshraj, G. Latchanna.

The party has 5 members in the Council of States, 2 in the House of the People, 26 in the State Legislatures (13 in the Andhra Assembly).

In the general election it polled 11,26,288 votes.

The aims and objects are:

To protect the interests of 40 million Harijans, 20 million backward classes, 20 million Scheduled Tribes, 10 million handloom weavers, and of all agriculturists—the under-developed sub-merged classes—from exploitation by industrial and professional groups.

A tiller who has cultivated a piece of land for a prescribed number of years without help from the landlord should be recognized as owner.

Distribution of wasteland.

Promotion of the co-operative movement.

Promotion of cottage industries.

Fixation of a remunerative price for agricultural produce.

Universal elementary education.

Prevention of cow slaughter.

Mixed economy—private enterprise, public corporation, State enterprise.

Co-partnership in industry.

Elimination of the present disparities in wealth and income.

Progressive de-control.

Removal or amendment of Prohibition.

Statutory Development Boards for undeveloped areas.

Reorganization of States on a linguistic basis.

One-third of the number of officers in the Defence Forces should be recruited from the ranks of soldiers.

Co-operation with the Bharat Seva Sangh and help in implementing the Sarvodaya programme.

Co-operative housing schemes in villages.

Reduction of the tax burden on the rural population relatively to urban, and diversion of a larger proportion of the State's expenditure to improving conditions in rural areas.

More recruitment for public services from rural areas specially in those services meant to serve rural areas; and starting of schools, classes in rural areas to prepare candidates, and give them free schooling, lodging and boarding.

Decentralization of power and association of councils of kisans at all levels of administration so that kisan or kulakar leaders can take over responsibility for running the State.

COMMUNIST PARTY OF INDIA

(Opposite Irwin Hospital, New Delhi).

Politbureau : Ajoy Ghosh ; K. M. S. Nambodiripad ; C. Rajeshwar Rao, S. A. Dange, P. Kamsamurty, P. Sundarayya, Dr. Z. A. Ahmed, Harikishan Singh Surjeet.

General Secretary, Ajoy Ghosh.

Membership of party in country, about 60,000
Members in the House of the People, 27.

Members in the Council of States, 12.

Total number in State Assemblies, over 200

Number of votes in General Election, about 6 million.

The party emerged as the strongest group after the Congress in Madras, Hyderabad, Travancore-Cochin, and West Bengal. The seats secured by it and its allies in the United and People's Fronts in the various State Assemblies were as follows : Madras (61); Hyderabad (42); Travancore-Cochin (32); W. Bengal (28); Orissa (7), Punjab (6); PEPSU (3); Mysore, Bombay, Assam, 1 each.

In the elections to the electoral college in Tripura, a small Chief Commissioner's State, the Communists, with the Independents' support, secured an absolute majority gaining 16 of the 30 seats.

The Party failed to secure any seats in Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Madhya Bharat, Rajasthan, Saurashtra, and Uttar Pradesh Assemblies, though it had put up a total of 110 candidates in these States.

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The basic aim of the Party as defined in the preamble to the Constitution is 'the organisation of the toiling masses in the struggle for the victorious anti-imperialist and agrarian revolution for complete national independence, for the establishment of a people's democratic state led by the working class, for the realization of the dictatorship of the proletariat, and the building up of socialism according to the teachings of Marxism-Leninism'.

The aims are described in more concrete terms in the draft programme of the Communist Party issued in April under the name of the Politburo. The Politburo also decided "to radically re-orientate its tactical line in view of recent discussions among its members."

It calls for the confiscation and nationalisation of all foreign capital, complete withdrawal from the British Commonwealth of Nations and a united front with "peace-loving countries and friendship with them", having first brought about a "cessation of tiratation between world Power blocs and leanings towards the United States of America". It also harks back to a programme of what was once called "100 per cent. Swadeshi".

The Party does not press for the immediate establishment of socialism "in view of the backwardness of the economic development of the country", but only a "coalition of all democratic anti-feudal anti-imperialist forces in the country".

On the question of India's lingua franca and national unity, the statement says : "In the name of a united country, the language of one province, namely Hindi, was declared an obligatory State language for all nationalities and States to the detriment of their own national language. Vast areas and millions of people of one nationality are compelled to live under the rule of bureaucrats and governments dominated by another nationality."

As for the practical tasks which would face the "new People's Democratic Government", the programme lists the following in the field of State structure :

"1. The sovereignty of the people, i.e., the concentration of power in the country in the hands of the people. The supreme power in the State must be vested entirely in the people's representatives who will be elected by the people and be subject to recall at any time upon a demand by the majority of electors, and who shall constitute a single popular assembly, a single legislative chamber.

"2. The restriction of the rights of the President of the Republic, in virtue of which the President and persons authorised by him will be deprived of the right to promulgate laws, which have not been passed by the legislature. The President shall be elected by the legislature.

"3. Universal, equal and direct suffrage for all male and female citizens of India who have attained the age of eighteen years in all elections to the Legislative Assembly and to the various local government bodies, secret ballot, the right of every voter to be elected to any representative institution, payment to people's representatives, proportional representation of political parties in all elections.

"4. Local Government on a wide scale and with wide powers through People's Committees. The abolition of all local and provincial authorities appointed from above (e.g., governors, magistrates, commissioners, etc.).

"5. Inviolability of person and domicile; unhampered freedom of conscience, speech, press, assembly, strike and combination; freedom of movement and occupation.

"6. Equal rights for all citizens irrespective of religion, caste, sex, race or nationality; equal pay for equal work, irrespective of sex.

"7. The right of all nationalities to self-determination. The Republic of India will unite the peoples of the various nationalities of India not by force but by their voluntary consent to the creation of a common State.

"8. Reconstitution of the present artificial provinces or States with the dissolution of princely States into national States according to the principle of common language. The tribal area or areas where the population is of specific composition and is distinguished by specific social conditions or constitutes a national minority will have complete regional autonomy and regional governments.

"9. Introduction of progressive income-tax in industry, agriculture and trade and maximum relief in taxation for workers, peasants and artisans.

"10. Right of the people to receive instruction in their own national language in schools, the use of the national language in all public and State institutions. The use of Hindi as an all-India State language will not be obligatory.

"11. The right of all persons to sue any official before a People's Court.

"12. Separation of the State from all religious institutions. The State to be a secular State.

"13. Free and compulsory primary education for the children of both sexes upto the age of fourteen.

"14. Replacement of the police by militia. Elimination of the mercenary army and other punitive forces and the establishment of a national army, navy and airforce for the defence of India, closely linked with the people.

"15. The establishment of a people's health service with a wide network of medical centres and hospitals all over the country, designed to liquidate centres of cholera, malaria, and other epidemic diseases in the country."

The programme next touches upon the rural problem which is "of primary importance to the life of the country". In order to remove the evils at the root of agricultural and cultural backwardness, it will be necessary, according to the draft programme :

1. To hand over landlords' land without compensation to the peasants and to legalise this reform in the form of a special land law.

2. To ensure long-term and cheap credit for the peasants to enable them to purchase agricultural implements and seeds. To ensure long-term and cheap credit to small artisans to enable them to purchase raw materials, etc.

3. To ensure Government assistance to the peasants in the improvement of old and the building of new irrigation systems.

4. To cancel debts of peasants and small artisans to money-lenders.

5. To ensure adequate wages and living condition to agricultural labourers.

In order to break through the vicious circle of the low purchasing power of the peasants and workers, who for that very reason provide a very poor market for the country's industrial output the programme suggests that it will be necessary :

1. To provide for the protection of the national industry against the competition of foreign goods in the country by promulgating appropriate laws;

2. To develop the national industry and to prepare conditions for the industrialisation of the country without sparing any efforts and resources of the State to achieve this end;

3. To improve radically the living and working conditions of workers by fixing a living wage, application of the eight-hour day and forty-four hour week in all industries and trades, introduction of a six-hour day in underground mines and other trades injurious to health, social insurance at the expense of the State and capitalist against every kind of disability and unemployment, by the establishment of labour exchanges working in association with the Trade Unions, by the establishment of industrial courts, by the recognition of the Trade Unions and the right to collective bargaining;

6. To introduce effective control of prices of goods of mass consumption.

There should be a Government of Peoples' Democracy—a Government of all democratic parties, groups and individuals representing workers, peasants, middle classes and the national bourgeoisie, the bourgeoisie that stands for genuine industrialisation of the country and for the freedom and independence of India."

Such a Government, would break with the British Empire, expel British officers from armed forces, confiscate and nationalise all British capital; cancel all peasants' debts and transfer all lands of landlords and Princes, without payment, to the tillers; develop national industries with the aid of confiscated foreign capital and by enlisting co-operation of private industrialists; guarantee living wage to workers and recognise their right of collective bargaining; create a national army closely linked with the people, abolish the police force and form a people's militia; for national States by abolishing Princely States, reconstruct present States along linguistic frontiers and create a united

India by the voluntary consent of nationalities and tribal peoples; protect the rights and interests of minorities; eliminate social and economic disabilities due to sex and caste; introduce free and compulsory primary education and a people's health service; rehabilitate refugees; establish trade and economic relations with all countries on the basis of equality; fight for a Pact of Peace between the Great Powers, for banning of atom bombs and withdrawal of all foreign troops from all countries and establish a pact of friendship between Pakistan, Ceylon and India.

The new State will have all the organs from the lowest to the highest on elected basis; these elected organs will have the supreme power.

Strength in the House of the People, 27.

Strength in the Council of States, 8.

Total strength in State Legislatures, 209.

Has the largest number of members in Madras.

Total number of votes polled in General Elections:

House of the People, 17,352,950.

State Assemblies, 15,397,913.

AIMS AND OBJECTS

The Party believes the reconstruction of the country can best be achieved on the basis of an equalitarian social order free from political and economic exploitation and wedded to personal, freedom.

The yearnings of the people for clean and efficient administration and expanding and equitable economy can be realised only through decentralisation in administration and economy.

Local initiative and local control must, therefore, be the pivot of our administration and economy.

Village or a group of small villages should be the unit of both administration and economy. Inside the village there has to be full democratic functioning.

To vitalise rural economy, land must belong to the tiller of the soil. It must be redistributed in economic holdings.

The Party will foster and encourage co-operative farming and distribution.

Economic development should be effected mainly with the help of local resources in men, material and skill.

To this end the Party advocates decentralisation of industry.

It also envisages the development of a new technology based on small machines operated by power, capable of distribution in small units.

Such a technology not only harmonises with the economic and social conditions in our country, but would create circumstances which would eliminate bureaucratic control.

As regards key industries, foreign trade and the sectors of economy where capital tends to accumulate and power concentrate the policy of the Party will be one of nationalisation.

To enable democratic checks and participation, nationalisation will generally be worked out through autonomous corporations in whose control and conduct the workers, technicians, consumers and other allied interests are represented.

The Party stands for a free trade union movement, that is, trade unionism free from the control of government, employers and political parties.

Fuller realisation of civil liberties is one of the major objectives of the Party.

The spirit of austerity and of swadeshi, so far as goods manufactured by decentralised industries are concerned, will be fostered.

The principle of swadeshi can be extended to centralised private enterprise on the basis of fair price and standard of goods. Both public finance and foreign trade will be so reorganised as to work out the above policy.

Economic equality and social mobility with democratic functioning are the ultimate guiding principles.

In foreign policy, the party favours a policy of neutrality and non-involvement and co-operation with like-minded forces in other countries.

In defence the policy will be one of maintaining minimum armed forces and building up of a popular militia.

General Secretary, Jogesh Chandra Chatterjee.

Central Executive Committee, Jogesh Chandra Chatterjee, N. Sreekantan Nair, M.P., Tridib Kumar Chaudhuri, M.P., Keshub Prasad Sharma, Pratul Chaudhuri, S. Bhattacharjee, R. Roy, S. V. R. Acharlar, Mukhan Paul, Balrur Sharma, C. Baby John, V. Mahadeshkar.

AIMS AND OBJECTS

R.S.P. is a Marxist-Leninist Workers' and Peasants' Party

It unreservedly accepts the doctrinal aspects of communism as propounded by Marx, Engels and Lenin, differs from the 'Stalinist' or official Communist interpretation of Leninism in terms of Socialism in one country alone. It holds that the International Communist movement directed by Cominform places the exigencies of the foreign policies of the Soviet Union above the interests of the historical demand of the mass movements in those countries.

With regard to India it advocates the policy of complete and radical socialist transformation of the economy of the country, scrapping of the present constitution of India which places all power in the hands of capitalists and landlords and the establishment of a toiling peoples' government representing workers, peasants and lower middle classes but excluding capitalist elements altogether.

It differs sharply from the present policy of the C.P.I. in desisting co-operation with any section of the capitalists which the communists seem to advocate in the name of Peoples' Democracy.

The party also wants the abolition of all forms of landlordism and all intermediate rights between the State and the tillers of the soil and advocates a programme of radical land redistribution.

It similarly wants the immediate nationalisation of all basic and key industries, a highly progressive income tax and estates duty and a policy of rapid industrialisation and planned economy.

It regards the present foreign policy of the Nehru Government as a satellite policy, following in the wake of U.S. imperialism and British Commonwealth from which it wants India to secede.

It opposes Gandhism and Praja Socialism as varieties of social reformism.

Party membership is rigidly selective and is dependent on ideological training and practical work under the guidance of the Party.

Total membership of Party in country, 17,395, with 4.5 lakhs in controlled Trade Unions (United Trades Union Congress) and 6 lakhs in Peasant Organisations (United Kisan Sabha).

THE SIKHS

Broadly speaking there are three groups among the Sikhs. One group forming the main body of the Central Akali Dal is led by Master Tara Singh with Sardar Hukum Singh, a member of Parliament as President. It is in favour of maintaining the separate identity of the Sikh community.

The second group is represented by the Panthic Durbar led by the Maharaja of Patiala. This group favours discarding the separate identity of the Sikhs. In February 1949 the Working Committee of the Durbar held a meeting in Patiala at which it decided not to have a political programme and not to fight elections as a party.

In addition to the Panthic Durbar there is also a large body of Sikhs who follow the Congress or conform to the Congress outlook and think that the Sikh should not have a separate organization. The strength of this section of Sikhs cannot be definitely stated as it fluctuates with the changing fortunes in the Punjab.

The Sikh point of view as such is underlined by two memoranda which are worth quoting. The first is a four-page memorandum presented by Sikh members of the Minorities Advisory Committee of the now defunct Constituent Assembly to the sub-committee which was specifically set up to consider the Sikh case.

This memorandum can be regarded as the most authoritative statement of the demands made by the Sikhs from time to time since independence. The following demands were set out in the memorandum:

1. To avoid becoming a permanent minority equality of representation must be secured in the Punjab or the boundaries of the State must be so redrawn that the resulting province contains a majority of 'Punjabi-speaking people.'

2. There must be adequate weightage in the Indian Parliament. When the Anglo-Indians, for instance, are given six seats the Sikhs must have proportionate representation.

3. In U.P. and Delhi cognizance must be taken of recent migrations. For instance, in U.P. there would be about 500,000 Sikhs and in Delhi about 100,000.

4. In the Punjab and Central Cabinets there must be a convention which assigns a certain number of seats to Sikhs. One seat must be assured in the Central Cabinet, while in the Punjab Cabinet if the present boundaries are retained one half of the seats must be allotted to Sikhs.

5. In all committees, commissions and delegations there must be one Sikh.

The theory on which the claims are sought to be justified is that as in undivided Punjab the Sikhs are opposed to communal majority rule. In fact, the opposition is even stronger today because the proportion of Sikhs in the Indian Punjab has increased on account of the partition. Other grounds for justification are Sikh suffering in the cause of undivided India, Sikh contribution to the defence of the country and distribution of the community on the strategic borders of India.

The creation of a Punjabi-speaking State is justified on the linguistic principle which is recognized by the Congress. The new State it is claimed, can be formed by cutting off the Districts of Rohtak, Gurgaon and the Tehsils of Bhiwani and Hansi in the Hissar District.

To make the area more compact the Punjab States could merge with the new province. The Sikhs finally, remind the Congress of its promise to them that the Congress will not be a party to any solution of the communal problem that does not satisfy the Sikhs.

About the same time as Sikh members of the Constituent Assembly handed in their memorandum four Sikh scholars issued a lengthy statement discussing the question of what the Sikhs really wanted.

'Only a little imaginative sympathy is needed,' the statement said, 'to realize the great and unprecedented sufferings of the Sikhs in the recent terrible happenings in the Punjab.' After describing the sufferings the statement added, '.... Almost 40 per cent of the entire Sikh community can be described as refugees in some form or other.'

The statement then goes on to say that being a self-reliant and sturdy people all that the Sikhs need is opportunity—opportunity to create, construct and thus carve out their prosperity as they did in the old Punjab.

Among the most urgently-needed relief were the following. 1. An announcement that the question of the Gurudwaras left behind in Pakistan was being taken up by the Government of India with the Pakistan Government. The Nankana Sahib Gurudwara should be created a free city like the Vatican. The other Gurudwaras in Pakistan should be administered by the Nankana Sahib authorities. An equivalent of the land attached to the Nankana Sahib and other Sikh shrines in Pakistan should be allotted to the S.G.P.C. in the Punjab thus giving the Sikhs an opportunity to re-establish their educational and social life; 2. As the worst sufferers among land-holders they should be given a generous share in the new colony areas in Hissar and Karnal Districts to make up for their losses in the colony areas of Pakistan; 3. All Sikh refugees no matter where they come from West Punjab, N.W.F.P., Bahawalpur or Sind should be accommodated in the Punjab. This will provide a homeland for Sikhs in India; 4. In their rehabilitation policy Government should make no distinction between landlords and tenants; 5. To provide houses, work on new townships should be taken in hand immediately, and the site of the new capital of the Punjab should be announced without delay.

GENERAL ELECTIONS 1952.*

THE first general elections under the new constitution were divided into three stages. First, there were the elections to the House of the People and the State Legislative Assemblies. After an interval there took place the elections to the upper Houses, the Council of States at the centre and the Legislative Councils in the States. Finally there were the elections of the President of the Union and the Vice-President.

The elections were thus spread over a period of about six months. They started in October (Oct. 25) 1951 and ended in May, 1952.

Here are a few facts pertaining to the constitution (For details see under Constitution):

President—Elected by the elected members of Parliament and the State Legislative Assemblies.

Vice-President—Elected by members of both Houses of Parliament at a joint session.

Council of States—Elected by elected members of State Legislative Assemblies and Electoral Colleges; some nominated by President.

House of the People—Elected on adult suffrage.

State Legislative Council—Elected partly by members of local bodies, graduates, members of State Assembly, and partly nominated by Governor.

State Legislative Assembly—Elected on adult suffrage.

Here are a few more election facts which give some idea of the scale on which the elections were organized:

Here is a list of other approved symbols: spade and stoker, flaming torch, star, cultivator winnowing grain, lamp, bow and arrow, railway engine, cycle, cart, boat, flower, pitcher, ladder, scales, cock, camel.

Many Part B and C States had never experienced an election before.

Everywhere the general elections were different from all previous elections in the following respects: 1. adult suffrage, 2. no communal electorates, 3. all-India scale of the elections, 4. allotment of symbols to candidates, 5. voting by dropping ballot paper in box, 6. canvassing near polling booths forbidden, 7. no election meeting on day of election or on day previous to election, 8. heavy punishment for attempting to create disturbance at meeting, 9. stamping part of voter's body with indelible ink to prevent voter from voting more than once.

A SURVEY

The enthusiasm and discipline displayed by the electorate was extra-ordinary; the State administrations conducted the polls in an able manner.

The present delimitation procedure was "too lengthy and cumbersome" and "unscientific in parts"; modifications for the future would be necessary.

The fact that the delimitation proposals as well as the electoral rolls were based on the 1941 census figures, which were now completely out of date, was itself a major deficiency which would be remedied by working on the latest census returns.

There might also have to be some slight revision in the number of seats allotted to the different State Assemblies.

The electoral rolls would be under constant revision and the omission of some 28 lakh women from the rolls—mostly in Rajasthan and Bihar—on account of the non-disclosure of their names, would be made good.

In some States more women exercised their franchise than men.

Polling was very peaceful and in only six polling stations out of a total of 2,25,000 in the entire country, had polling to be adjourned on account of disturbances. Even the crime-graph had shown a marked drop during the period.

A feature of the elections was that as many as 20 ex-Rulers of princely States were elected to State Assemblies and four to the House of the People. Seven of these were from Madhya Pradesh, five from Orissa and two from Rajasthan. Six Rulers were elected on the Congress ticket and seven were officially labelled independents. Two belonged to the Ram Rajya Parishad and one was a nominee of the Ganatantra Parishad.

Repolling had to be ordered in 348 polling stations, 66 for Parliament and 282 for the Assemblies.

The total number of adjourned polls, including six due to violence, was 62—33 for Parliament and 29 for Assemblies.

Candidates who lost their deposits contributed over Rs. 22 lakhs to the public exchequer.

There were about five candidates for every Assembly or Parliamentary seat on an average, compared to the previous average of three candidates to a seat.

The conduct of these elections during three and half months kept a staff of nearly 5,60,000, some of them specially trained but mostly drawn from teachers, Government servants, employees of local authorities and other public institutions, engaged in manning 2,25,000 polling booths, and then counting over 103.592 million votes in the Assembly elections and over 107.578 millions in the Parliamentary elections.

Villages displayed greater keenness and enthusiasm in the elections than the more "sophisticated" towns. While in villages, polling on the whole reached 60 per cent of the electorate, in towns it was only 40 per cent.

Keenness was most marked among the old, infirm, blind and sick persons, almost a hundred per cent of whom in many cases came out to exercise their franchise. The psychological explanation for this was that these people, frustrated for years, had seized the chance to feel equal with others.

The density of polling varied from 30 per cent in the mountainous parts of Himachal Pradesh, where communications are difficult to over 70 per cent in the highly literate State of Travancore-Cochin.

But in most of the States it was round about 50 per cent.

PARTY POSITION

India's first adult suffrage General Elections passed into history as the world's biggest General Election because: The choosers were 176 million men and women—the world's largest electorate; they chose from among 17,000 candidates representing nearly 75 political parties; and the chosen were 3,293 members to fill 22 State Assemblies and 489 seats to the House of the People.

The electorate voted the Congress Party to power with absolute majority in 18 out of 22 States and also at the Centre. The party was also returned as the biggest single party but short of absolute majority in four State Assemblies.

The General Elections commenced towards the end of October 1951 as already mentioned, in the two mountainous sub-districts of the Himalayan State of Himachal Pradesh. The scene then moved over to the coastal State of Travancore-Cochin at the southern tip in November, and slowly worked towards a climax in January when the bulk of voters went to polls.

Of the representatives selected for the 22 State Assemblies, 2,247 were Congressmen, 121 Socialists, 147 came from the Communist Party and its allies, 77 belonged to the Kisan Masdoor Praja Party, 33 were Jan Sangh nominees, 12 represented the Scheduled Castes Federation, and independents numbered 326.

Successful candidates of other parties annexed 237 seats. These included Jharkhand in Bihar (32), Janata in Bihar (11), Lok Sewak Sangh in Bihar (7), Forward Bloc (Marxist) (18), Ganatantra Parishad (31), Krishahar Lok Party (23), Akalis (33), Peasants and Workers' Party (24), Tamilnad Toilers' Party (19), United Socialist Organisation (8), Muslim League (5), Communist Party of Madras (6), Travancore Tamilnad Congress (8), and Independent Anti-Merger Group in Coorg (9).

Congress Party

The Congress Party, voted to power at the Centre and in 18 States, scored its greatest victories in Uttar Pradesh, the home State of the Prime Minister, and Saurashtra, where it captured 90 per cent of the Assembly seats.

In Bombay, Madhya Pradesh, Bhopal and Delhi it secured over 80 per cent of the Assembly seats. In other States its strength varied from 53 per cent to 77 per cent except in Rajasthan, where it succeeded in securing a bare workable majority winning 81 of the 160 seats.

* Unless otherwise stated Madras throughout this section includes Andhra.

§ Now called Lok Sabha.

†† Now merged into the Praja Socialist Party.

Of the 103,592 million votes cast in Assembly elections, the Congress which won 2,248 of the 3,283 seats it contested, secured 41.96 per cent.

In the four States of Madras, Travancore-Cochin, PEPSU and Orissa, the Party was returned as the largest single party though not in absolute majority.

In Orissa, the Party was three short of an absolute majority.

The challenge to the Congress in the southern States of Madras and Travancore-Cochin came from the Communists and their allies and the K.M.P. Party.

But in the north-western border State of Rajasthan, formed by the integration of ten former Princely States of Rajputana and in the eastern State of Orissa, enlarged in area by the merger of 24 former States, the challenge came from the former Rulers, big landlords and allied forces.

In PEPSU the main rival of the Congress was the Shiromani Akali Dal, an organisation of the Sikhs, which captured 19 of the 60 seats in the Assembly as against 25 won by the Congress.

In Orissa, the Ganatantra Parishad, led by the Maharaja of Patna, secured 31 seats, its successes being more marked in Bolangir and Kalahandi Districts, former State areas, and the Koraput District, comprising former Jeypur State.

In Raja-Than jagirdars and former Rulers contesting either as Independents or on the tickets of Jan Sangh, Ram Rajya Parishad and Hindu Mahasabha upset the calculations of the Congress Party and together secured 62 seats.

In Madras the Congress obtained just over 40 per cent of the seats polling 34.6 per cent of the total of 19,229 million votes cast.

Six of the Ministers, including the Chief Minister, failed to find favour with the electorate in the State which provided some of the biggest election surprises.

Leaders of other parties were equally luckless in Madras.

In Travancore-Cochin, the Party obtained just over 40 per cent of 108 Assembly seats with the aid of 35.1 per cent of the total of 3,403 million votes cast.

Communist Party

Next to the Congress the Communist Party and its allies secured the largest number of seats in the Assembly elections. They gained 181 seats out of 587 seats they contested, and their nominees obtained 6.04 per cent of the total votes cast.

The party had notable success in Travancore-Cochin, Madras, Hyderabad and in the Part C State of Tripura on the Burma border.

Contesting mostly as Independents, Communists in Travancore-Cochin combined with the Revolutionary Socialist Party and the Kerala Socialist Party to form the United Front of Leftists and secured 32 seats.

In the States of Madras, the Communists won 61 seats in the Assembly.

In Hyderabad contesting on the ticket of the Peoples' Democratic Front, they annexed 42 seats and in West Bengal 28 seats.

In the elections to the Electoral College in Tripura, the small Chief Commissioner's State the Communists and Independents contesting with the support of the party secured an absolute majority gaining 16 of the 30 seats.

The Communist Party failed completely in Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Madhya Bharat, Rajasthan, Saurashtra and Uttar Pradesh, where it drew completely blank though it put up 110 candidates in these States.

Other Parties

The Socialist Party* which contested the largest number of seats after the Congress was generally luckless with the electorate.

Of the 1,793 candidates who contested the Assembly elections on the party ticket, only 126 were returned. The Party candidates, however, polled 9.62 per cent of the total votes cast in the Assembly elections.

The largest block of the Socialists returned was in Bihar, home State of their leader Mr. Jayaprakash Narayan, where they won 23 of the 284 seats they contested for the 330-member Assembly.

The other States where they secured a fair number of returns were Uttar Pradesh (18), Madras (13), Travancore-Cochin (1), Vindhya Pradesh and Hyderabad (11 each), Orissa (10) and Bombay (9).

The worst defeats for the party came from West Bengal, the Punjab and PEPSU where they failed to secure any seat.

In West Bengal, the party set up 79 candidates, 45 of whom lost their deposits. In the Punjab and PEPSU they had 31 and 17 candidates respectively.

Of other all-India parties in the election field, the Kisan Mazdoor Praja Party* of Acharya Kripalani, obtained 78 of the 945 seats they contested. The votes polled by the Party's candidates run to 4.91 per cent of the total votes polled.

This party's main successes came from Madras (35), West Bengal (15), and Mysore (8).

The returns in Madras were just over 27 per cent of the 83 seats the Party contested, but its leader, Mr. T. Prakasam, a former Chief Minister of Madras could not get elected to the Assembly.

The gains in Bengal were nearly 12 per cent of the seats contested.

The Jan Sangh founded by the late Shyama Prasad Mookerjee obtained only 35 seats of the 732 it contested.

The Party got 2.73 per cent of the total poll. Nine of its successes came from West Bengal and eight from Rajasthan.

But the party suffered a complete rout in the Punjab, which was considered one of its strongholds, and none of the 65 candidates it put up topped the polls in any Assembly seat.

The Ram Rajya Parishad and the Hindu Mahasabha fared no better, the Sabha winning 20 of the 206 seats it contested and the Parishad 32 of the 304 it contested.

In terms of votes, the Parishad secured 1.17 per cent and the Sabha 0.82 per cent of the total poll.

The Scheduled Castes Federation, which under the leadership of Dr. B. R. Ambedkar, a former Law Minister of the Government of India, on its own and in some places in alliance with other parties contested 73 seats but got just a dozen. But it secured 1.63 per cent of the total poll.

The Peasants' and Workers' Party, which obtained 26 seats in Bombay, Hyderabad and Madhya Pradesh, got 1.04 per cent of the votes while Independents got 20.17 per cent. of the total poll.

Other parties, mostly regional, together polled 8.32 per cent. of the total votes. Invalid votes accounted for nearly 1.08 per cent of the total poll.

Two hundred and eighty-seven Independents out of 5,661 who contested were returned to the 22 State Assemblies, which is the largest number after the Congress Party.

The Madras electorate returned the largest number—83, while in Rajasthan Independents returned number 35.

Every other State Assembly had among its members a few Independents whose number varied from two in Vindhya Pradesh and Saurashtra to 19 in the Punjab except in Coorg, where none of the 10 independent candidates, who contested two seats, found favour with the electorate.

SOME GENERAL FEATURES

The total number of deposits forfeited was 9,067, the money realized being Rs. 22,80,350.

Sixty-six women contested the elections to Parliament, and 216 to State Assemblies and Electoral Colleges. Of these 19 were elected to the House of the People, 14 to the Council of States, and 82 to the various State Assemblies and Electoral Colleges.

Ten members were returned unopposed to the House of the People; the number of straight contests was 43; the number of triangular contests 82; the rest (348) involved more than three candidates.

The following account is based on an analysis made by the All-India Congress Committee:

Total number of elections declared void by Tribunals upto July 1953	103
Number of by-elections to the House of the People	15
Number of by-elections to State Assemblies and Electoral Colleges	97

In all 15 by-elections were held to the House of the People. The Congress, contesting 14 of them, retained seven out of 11 it had won during the General Elections.

The other seats were won by the Praja Socialist Party (5), the Hindu Mahasabha (1), the Forward Bloc (1) and Independent (1).

The votes polled by the Congress in the by-elections to the House of the People worked out to 45.4 per cent. as against 48.9 per cent. in those constituencies in the General Elections.

Dr. Rajendra Prasad was elected President on May 6, 1952. The election started on May 2, and the results were declared on May 6. Dr. Prasad was sworn in as President on May 13.

The votes polled by the candidates for the Presidency were as follows: Dr. Rajendra Prasad, 2,896; Prof. K. T. Shah, 561; Mr. L. G. Thattai, 13; Mr. Chaudhri Hari Ram, 11; Mr. K. K. Chatterji, 5; total valid votes cast 3,486; invalid votes 73. The total electorate was 4,067.

In order to secure as large a degree of uniformity as possible in the scale of representation of the different States in the Presidential election, the Constitution lays down a formula for assigning weights to the votes cast by individual members on the basis of the populations of the States they represent.

Each vote cast by any one of the 689 members of Parliament has, under this formula, to be multiplied by 494, while the 3,358 votes cast by members of the State Legislatures have to be

AN ANALYSIS OF BY-ELECTIONS

Of the votes polled by the other parties, those of the Praja Socialist Party showed a rise from 21.1 per cent to 33.7 per cent.

The percentage of total votes polled by Hindu Mahasabha, the Jan Sangh and the Ram Rajya Parishad fell from 5.5 to 3.2, the percentage polled by the Independents from 16.5 to 8, and other parties from 7.5 to 5.8.

The four seats lost by the Congress were: two in Bihar, one in Madhya Pradesh and one in Madras.

There were 97 by-elections to the State Assemblies. Of these the Congress won 50 as against 49 it held after the General Elections in those constituencies.

The other seats were won by the P.S.P. (21) and other parties, including Independents (26).

PRESIDENT AND VICE-PRESIDENT

multiplied by different weights ranging from 145 and 104 in the case of Madras and Bombay respectively, to 31 for Delhi and seven in respect of Coorg.

With the assignment of these values the voting would be as follows: Dr. Rajendra Prasad, 507,400 votes out of a possible total of 690,557. The votes secured by the other candidates: Prof. K. T. Shah, 92,827; Mr. L. G. Thattai, 2,672; Mr. Chaudhri Hari Ram, 1,954; and Mr. K. K. Chatterji, 533. The number of invalid votes was 10,527.

Five hundred and thirty-nine out of the 689 members of Parliament voted for Dr. Prasad and 83 for Prof. Shah.

A State-wise analysis of voting shows that Dr. Prasad secured a majority of votes in all the States. Only in one State, PEPSU, was the voting equally divided between Dr. Prasad and Prof. K. T. Shah, both receiving 26 votes each.

Mysore (1): T. Channiah (SC) (Mulbagal-Srinivasapur).

Of the 97 seats, the Congress contested 87. It retained 31 old seats and gained 19 new ones—three from the P.S.P., four from the Communists, one from the Jan Sangh, one from the Hindu Mahasabha, seven from Independents and three from Janata (Bihar).

Eighteen seats, which the Congress lost in the by-elections were annexed by the P.S.P. (9), Communists (2), Jan Sangh (2), Hindu Mahasabha (1) and Independents (4).

The percentage of votes polled by the Congress in the State Assembly by-elections rose from 37.1 to 47.

Of the other parties, the Communists showed a sizeable increase—from 8.5 to 13.5 per cent. The percentage polled by the P.S.P. rose from 18.1 to 18.2, that of Jan Sangh, Hindu Mahasabha and Ram Rajya Parishad fell from 4.1 to 3.7, Independents from 23.8 to 12.6 and other parties, including regional parties from 8.1 to 7.

In Madras, Dr. Prasad secured 197 votes against 141 cast for Prof. Shah. In Travancore-Cochin, the corresponding figures are 55 and 36, in Hyderabad 96 and 48, in West Bengal 149 and 47, in Orissa 68 and 46, in Bombay 266 and 24 and in Delhi 40 and 3.

All the 62 votes in Kashmir and the entire 22 votes in Coorg were cast in favour of Dr. Prasad.

Two detenus voted by postal ballot.

The results declared are on the basis of first preference votes, as Dr. Prasad secured an absolute majority at the first count.

Dr. Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan was elected Vice-President without a contest on April 28, 1952 as he was the only candidate. He was sworn in as Vice-President on May 13.

The new Government of India Cabinet was also sworn in on the same day.

HOUSE OF THE PEOPLE* GENERAL ELECTION

House of the People* ..	489
Congress ..	362
Majority over others ..	235
Total votes cast ..	10,598 million
Invalid ..	205,200 (one per cent)

The Communists and allied parties won 28 seats, Socialists 12, K.M.P.P. 9, Jan Sangh 3, Hindu Mahasabha 4, Ram Rajya Parishad 3, Peasants' and Workers' Party 1, Scheduled Castes' Federation 2, Ganatantra Parishad 5 and Independents 41.

Of the remaining seats, the Jharkhand of Bihar, led by Mr. Jaipal Singh, M.P., won 3, Lok Sewak Sangh, another organisation from Bihar 2, Akali Dal 2, Tamilnad Toliers' Party of Madras 4, Commonweal Party of Madras 3, the Revolutionary Socialist Party 2, the Krishikar Lok Party of Prof. N. G. Ranga, the Forward Bloc and the Muslim League one member each.

The Indian Electorate chose its 489 representatives from among 1,871 candidates. There was contest for only for 470 seats, ten members—seven Congressmen, two Independents and one K.M.P.P. candidate having been returned unopposed to the House.

Parliamentary elections were held simultaneously with Assembly and Electoral college elections in 20 States.

A striking feature of the elections was the defeat of some of the top men of all political parties, including the Congress, as also that of some well-known unattached Parliamentarians.

Besides the Congress President, Mr. Nehru, the only other head of an all-India political organisation who was successful was the late Dr. Shyama Prasad Mookerjee, President of the Jan Sangh.

The list of "casualties" included Mr. Asoka Mehta, General Secretary of the former Socialist Party and Mr. Kamaladevi Chattopadhyaya, another prominent Socialist leader, Dr. B. R. Ambedkar a former Law Minister of the Government of India and leader of the Scheduled Castes' Federation, Prof. N. G. Ranga, President of the Krishikar Lok Party, Acharya Kripalani, then chief of the K.M.P.P., Mr. S. A. Dange, Communist leader from Bombay, Dr. N. B. Khare, President of the All-India Hindu Mahasabha, Mrs. Prabhavati Raju, President of the Ram Rajya Parishad, Mr. K. M. Jedge, then leader of the Peasants' and Workers' Party.

Among prominent Congressmen who lost in the elections were Mr. K. Santhanam, Minister of State for Railways, who has since been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of Vindhya Pradesh, Mr. M. Thirumal Rao, Deputy Minister for Food and Mr. Raj Bahadur, Deputy Minister for Communications.

The first two lost to Communists in Madras, while Mr. Raj Bahadur was defeated by an Independent in Rajasthan.

All other members of the then Central Government—all the eleven members of the Cabinet, four Ministers of State and six Deputy Ministers who contested the elections—were returned to the House.

Outside the Ministerial fold a notable Congress defeat was that of Mr. Khandubhai Desai, then President of the I.N.T.U.C who lost to an Independent in Bombay State.

Among candidates who contested as Independents, the outstanding defeats were those of Pandit Hirday Nath Kunzru, an elder member of the present Parliament and Mr. H. V. Kamath.

Mr. Nehru was elected from his home district of Allahabad. The Congress President polled 238,571 or roughly 64 per cent of the votes cast for the general seat in his constituency.

But the highest poll recorded in Parliamentary elections was 309,162 votes obtained by the communist, Mr. Ravi Narayana Reddi, which was about 78.6 per cent of the total votes cast for the general seat in the Nalgonda constituency in Hyderabad.

Among notable newcomers on the Congress ticket were: Mrs. Vijayalaxmi Pandit and Mr. V. V. Giri.

The new House also includes Mr. Harindranath Chattopadhyaya, poet, and Dr. Meghnad

Saha, a scientist, who was the only successful nominee of the United Socialist Organisation.

The Congress Party was composed of 291 members from 9 Part A States, 56 from Part B States and 1 from Part C States.

The Party had cent per cent success in Saurashtra where it won all the 60 seats and from Kutch where it got all the three seats.

The Congress scored heavily in seven other States—Uttar Pradesh, where it won 81 of the 88 seats, the Punjab 16 out of 18, Bombay 40 out of 45, Assam 11 out of 12, Madhya Bharat 9 out of 11, Mysore 10 out of 11 and Madhya Pradesh 27 out of 29.

Its main reverses came from Madras where it secured only 35 of the 75 seats, from Travancore-Cochin where it won only half of 12 seats, from Rajasthan where only nine Congressmen were returned and eleven seats lost, and from PEPUS which voted for only two Congressmen though the Party made a bid for all the five seats.

In the border State of Tripura, Congressmen lost both the House of the People seats to Communists.

The Socialist Party, which contested the largest number of seats next to the Congress—namely 254—secured only a dozen seats. Its candidates polled nearly 10.50 per cent of the total votes. From the nine Part A States which filled in 302 seats, the party won only nine, while from the seven Part B States its only success came from Hyderabad. The other two successes were recorded in Part C States.

The Party drew blank in West Bengal, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, the Punjab, Travancore-Cochin, Bombay and Madhya Bharat where it had put up in all 81 candidates.

The Communists and their allies form the largest single opposition block in the House with their 23 members. Seventy of them contested the elections and polled 4.45 per cent of the total votes cast, and just as in the Assembly elections, their success came mainly from Madras, Travancore-Cochin, West Bengal, Hyderabad and Tripura, which together returned 23 members.

The K.M.P.P. which made a bid for 146 seats won only 9 seats. Its nominees scored 5.81 per cent of the total votes cast.

Only three of the 93 Jan Sangh candidates were successful, the party nominees obtaining 3.05 per cent of the total poll.

The Hindu Mahasabha successes were four out of 31 seats it contested, and the Ram Rajya Parishad won three of the 61 contested. In terms of votes Hindu Mahasabha nominees accounted for 0.91 per cent of the votes and the R.R.P. 1.98 per cent.

The All-India Scheduled Castes Federation was successful in only two of the 34 constituencies where it put up its candidates. They obtained 2.30 per cent of the total votes. The party's general secretary, Mr. P. N. Rajbhoj, as also Mr. S. S. More, General Secretary of the All-India Peasants' and Workers' Party, who contested from the same double member constituency in Sholapur in Bombay State were successful.

The 16 candidates of the Peasants' and Workers' Party of whom two were elected, obtained 0.98 per cent of the total poll.

524 Independent candidates who contested the elections had 15.90 per cent of the votes cast in their favour but only 41 of them were returned to the House. Fifteen of these successful candidates came from Madras, six from Rajasthan, three from Bombay, and two each from Madhya Pradesh and Orissa.

The number of candidates put up by other parties in the field was 166 of whom 24 were successful. Between them these 166 candidates obtained 6.30 per cent of the total poll.

The Scheduled Castes Federation contested 37, including 12 General seats, and won only one. Its total poll was 4.6 per cent. The successful Federation candidate won by an absolute majority.

The Communists and Joint Front secured none of the 24 seats they contested and polled less than 2 per cent. of the total votes cast.

The Independents numbered 425, out of whom only 18 including a Ruler, were successful. The Independents polled 15.7 per cent. of the total votes cast.

The Kisan Mazdoor Praja Party, the Ram Rajya Parishad, the Hindu Mahasabha, the Jan Sangh and the Forward Bloc had in all 109 candidates, all of whom were defeated. The poll of all these Parties together was 4.9 per cent.

Of the 56 Reserved seats—29 for Scheduled Tribes and 27 for Scheduled Castes—4 went, one each, to the Scheduled Castes Federation, the Workers' and Peasants' Party, the Lok Paksh and an Independent. The remaining seats were secured by the Congress.

There were in all 1,243 candidates—an average of four per seat—and 543 of them, i. e., about 40 per cent. lost their security deposits.

 Tamilnad 'Toolers' Party set up 31 candidates, won 19 seats, polled 783,346 votes, forfeited 4 deposits. Commonweal Party set up 12 candidates, won 6 seats, polled 195,598 votes, forfeited one deposit. Justice Party set up 9 candidates, won one seat, polled 82,231 votes, forfeited 4 deposits. Republican Party set up 6 candidates, did not win any seats, polled 48,233 votes, forfeited 2 deposits. Madras Muslim League set up 12 candidates, won 5 seats, polled 181,950 votes, forfeited 3 deposits.

The Congress Party had 152 seats in the 375-member Assembly, or 36 short of an absolute majority.

The Congress, which swept the polls in the previous elections securing more than 77 per cent. of the seats, now secured just over 40 per cent. of the seats in the new enlarged House. The Party polled 34.6 per cent. of a total of 19,974,801 votes cast in the State out of an electorate of 26,958,006.

The Communists, the second largest single Party, polled 12 per cent. of the total votes.

A striking feature of the elections was the defeat of several prominent leaders not only of the Congress but of all parties.

A region-wise analysis of election returns shows that Congress captured 82 per cent. of the seats from South Kanara, 50.5 per cent. from Tamilnad, 26.7 per cent. from Andhra and 13.8 per cent. from Malabar.

The Communists had their best returns in Andhra, particularly in Guntur and Krishna. They captured 27.5 per cent. of the total seats from Andhra, 24.1 per cent. from Malabar, 6.8 per cent. from Tamilnad and none from South Kanara.

The Party's nominees including Mr. Anandan Nambiyar, Mr. Nagi Reddi and Mr. P. Kana-murthi secured notable victories over prominent leaders.

Andhra also returned the largest number of K.M.P.P. candidates. Of 35 seats secured by the Party, 20 were from this area. The Party obtained 10.1 per cent. of the total votes polled in the State.

Tamilnad returned 7 K.M.P.P. candidates, Malabar 6 and South Kanara 2.

The K.M.P. Party secured maximum support from Malabar where it won 20.7 per cent. of the seats in the region. The Party obtained 18.2 per cent. in South Kanara, 13.4 per cent. in Andhra and 3.7 per cent. in Tamilnad.

Socialists entered the Madras Assembly for the first time with 13 members led by Dr. K. B. Menon who was elected from a Malabar constituency. Next to the Congress, the Socialists contested the largest number of seats but secured only 6.7 per cent. of the total votes polled.

Socialists had their best returns in Malabar where they secured 13.8 per cent. of the seats. They got 4.2 per cent. in Andhra and 1.6 per cent. in Tamilnad, and nothing in South Kanara.

The Krishikar Lok Party of Mr. N. G. Ranga had all its 15 wins including the two unopposed returns in Andhra where alone it set up candidates. It polled a little less than 3 per cent. of votes cast in the State.

The Forward Bloc and the Scheduled Castes Federation contested six and 89 seats respectively. They together polled 2 per cent. of the total votes cast.

The Forward Bloc leader Mr. U. Muthuramalinga Thevar, won both the Parliamentary and Assembly seats which he contested.

Mr. P. T. Rajan, Leader of the Justice Party which was in power during the diarchy rule was the only member of the Party in the State Assembly.

The Moplah-dominated areas of Malabar District returned five Muslim Leaguers to the State Assembly and one to the House of the People. They got less than one per cent. of the total votes polled.

Among the State Parties, the Tamilnad Toolers' Party and the Commonweal Party, formed with the avowed object of safeguarding the interests of backward classes, secured 19 and 6 seats respectively from Tamilnad region. They together polled 5.7 per cent. of the votes cast.

Independents obtained 23.4 per cent. of the total votes polled. Mr. Sivashanmugham Pillai, Speaker of the Assembly, and the Raja of Chettinad, Mr. M. A. Muthiah Chettiar, an Opposition Leader in the then sitting House, were among the prominent Independents re-elected to the Assembly. Congress did not set up candidates to oppose them.

Excluding the three unopposed returns, the remaining 372 seats in the State Assembly were contested by about 1,700 candidates, an average of four for a constituency.

* At the time of the general elections Andhra was not separated from Madras. The strength of the Madras Assembly is now 230.

The ruling party of the State, the Congress was returned to power very much reduced in strength.

The Ganatantra Parishad was the main Opposition party in the Assembly with its strength of 31.

Among the four of the Independent People's Party were two leading figures, Pandit Nilakant Das and Pandit Godavarish Misra.

The election showed the hold of the Ganatantra Parishad under the leadership of the Maharaja of Patna in the Bolangir district where it captured all the nine seats to the Assembly and the two seats to the House of People. In Kalahandi, a district neighbouring Bolangir it obtained four out of the seven seats. The Parishad upset the Congress Party's calculations by capturing seven out of eleven seats in Koraput district.

The Congress could not obtain a single seat out of five in Keonjhar district. In Phulbani district they secured one out of the four seats. The only district where Congress obtained full support was Balasore in which it captured 11 out of the 12 seats. The twelfth seat went to a dissident Congressman.

The great success achieved by ex-Rulers and zamindars or members of their families was a feature of the elections.

In all there were fifteen of them, four belonging to the Congress Party, three to the Ganatantra Parishad and the rest were returned as Independents. In almost all the 15 constituencies, they obtained overwhelming majorities.

This was stated to be mainly owing to the personalities, who hitherto having remained secluded and unapproachable to the masses, went to the electorate personally, some ably assisted by their wives, and met the electorate in their huts in the villages. This approach touched the sentiment of the people.

Out of the 140 seats, 50 belong to the former States' areas. Only 14 of those 50 seats went in favour of the Congress and 21 to the Ganatantra Parishad.

The Ganatantra Parishad, in fact, had its main strength drawn from the States' areas.

Another feature of its composition was that the Scheduled Tribe and Scheduled Caste members were in a majority with 16 out of its total strength of 31.

The elections in the Punjab provided many surprises, of which the major one was the exit of Dr. Gopichand Bhargava, the dominant figure in the State's turbulent politics since partition in 1947.

Another surprise was the failure of the Jan Sangh with 68 candidates to secure a single seat in the State, where it took its first organisational shape and where it was considered to be very strong.

The elections also marked the total eclipse of the Socialist Party, the Scheduled Castes Federation and the Depressed Classes League, a provincial party led by the former Punjab Minister, Mr. Prithvi Singh Azad.

Elections were held for 125 seats as one seat had been won by the Congress earlier without opposition.

The Congress got 38.25 per cent of the 4,974,234 votes polled in the State Assembly elections.

The Independents polled 20.18 per cent. of the votes.

The Akalis, who with their slogan of a Punjabi-speaking province once looked formidable, secured 13.3 per cent. of the votes polled.

Their leader, Sardar Umrao Singh, lost to the State Congress chief, Sardar Pratap Singh Kairon, from an Amritsar constituency on the Indo-Pakistan border but only by a margin of a little over 1,000 votes.

The Socialist Party got 4.2 per cent. of the votes.

With only .5 per cent. more votes, the Communists won four seats with 17 forfeitures. Three of their successful candidates were detained and the fourth was on parole.

The other Leftists were the Lal Communists and the Forward Bloc, who got two seats each with 18 and 36 candidates, respectively.

The Forward Bloc got 1.43 per cent. of the votes. The other Leftists combined polled 1.1 per cent. of the votes.

The Jan Sangh polled 5.33 per cent. of the votes.

The Zamindara League got two seats of the 32 contested. Its leaders, Chaudhri Suraj Mal and Chaudhri Tika Ram, the last-mentioned of whom was Revenue Minister in undivided Punjab, however, lost in the fight. The League secured 7.74 per cent. of the votes cast.

The All-India Scheduled Castes Federation polled 2.6 per cent. of the votes.

The Depressed Classes League polled .9 per cent. of the votes.

Other parties in the field were the Refugee Board and the Krishikar Lok Party which had put up one candidate each. Their combined votes formed only .22 per cent. of the total cast.

* Punjab Zamindara League put up 32 candidates, won 2 seats, polled 383,126 votes, forfeited 5 deposits. Lal Communist Party put up 18 candidates, won 2 seats, polled 94,992 votes, forfeited 11 deposits. Depressed Classes League put up 17 candidates, did not win any seats, polled 75,078 votes, forfeited 13 deposits. Bharat Lok Congress put up 8 candidates, did not win any seats, polled 11,898 votes, forfeited 8 deposits.

* About a third of the members were due to retire in April 1954. But the names had not reached us when the book went to press.

Congress seceders and the Socialists did not do well, while Independents did not fare any better.

The parties wedded to the extreme Right—the Jan Sangh, the Hindu Mahasabha, the Ram Rajya Parishad and the U.P. Rajya Party (zamindars)—also were trounced and the Communists and the K.M.P.P. completely routed.

The defeat of Acharya Narendra Dev, the Socialist leader, and Mr. Triloki Singh of the Opposition in the former Assembly, was the biggest surprise of the elections.

The Congress, which contested 429 seats for the 430-member State Legislative Assembly (the nomination paper of its candidate for the remaining one seat having been rejected), got 49 per cent. of the votes polled.

Of the 39 seats conceded by the Congress, 19 went to the Socialists, who secured 11.71 per cent. of the votes cast; two went to the Jan Sangh, which secured 6.6 per cent.; one went to the K.M.P.P., which secured five per cent.; one to the Hindu Mahasabha, which secured 1.2 per cent.; two to the U.P. Praja Party (the State Party of zamindars), which got 2.1 per cent.; one to the U.P. Revolutionary Socialist Party which polled less than one per cent.; and 14 seats to Independent candidates who secured 19.6 per cent. of the total votes cast.

Among the Independents were 282 dissident Congressmen, who sought election in defiance of their Party's mandate, but none of them could secure the verdict of the electorate in his favour.

The Communists, the Revolutionary Socialist Party (official group), the Bolsheviks, the Forward Bloc (Rukar Group), the Scheduled Castes Federation and the Ram Rajya Parishad did not get a single seat, though, among themselves, they polled five per cent. of the votes cast.

Although handicapped by the absence of their leader, Acharya Narendra Dev, and their sitting M.L.A., Raja Ram Shastri, both of whom lost after a tough fight the Socialists formed the main opposition in the Assembly. They had the satisfaction of having defeated the State I.N.T.U.C. chief, Mr. K. N. Pande, who was the only prominent Congressman to lose.

Uttar Pradesh was probably the only State which returned all the Ministers, Parliamentary Secretaries and other prominent Congress leaders with a large majority.

The Himalayan districts did not vote solidly with the Congress. Of the 16 seats which these districts have, three went to Independents and two to the Socialists. Economically, these districts are some of the poorest and, socially, among the most backward. All the three seats in the Tehri Garhwal District went to Independents.

All the Muslim candidates set up by the Congress were returned to the Assembly, including two women candidates. None of the Muslims set up by Opposition parties, except Mr. Nihaluddin (Socialist), sitting M.L.A., and Raja Saadaat Ali Khan of Nanpara (Independent) succeeded.

Only 37 women entered the contest, though they form 47 per cent. of the electorate. Eleven of them all Congress nominees, including one from a reserved seat, got elected.

An appreciable portion of the total election expenses in Uttar Pradesh was expected to be realised from the deposits forfeited, amounting roughly to over Rs. 3,50,000.

* Hyderabad State Praja Sabha ; United Scheduled Caste Federation ; Hyderabad State Depressed Class Association ; Republican Party ; Independent League.

The Congress emerged as the largest single Party in the Hyderabad State Assembly with an absolute majority over all others.

Ten Muslims were returned to the Assembly. Of these eight belonged to the Congress Party, one to the P.D.F. and one was an Independent. The 175-member House had eight women, five of them being Congress, 1 P.D.F., 1 S.C.F. and 1 Independent.

The Congress suffered some major reverses at the hands of the People's Democratic Front (Communists) in Telengana, Peasants and Workers (pro-Communists) in Marathwada and Independents (rebel Congressmen) in Karnatak regions.

In Telengana, which consists of the eight "disturbed" districts of the State, out of the 93 seats it contested, the Congress won only 38. It lost all the 14 seats in Nalgonda to the Communists and annexed only 2 each in Karimnagar and Warangal. Six prominent Congressmen, including the two General Secretaries of the Congress, were defeated. Two prominent Nationalist Muslims who stood on Congress ticket were also defeated.

The Congress polled roughly 41 per cent of the total votes polled. Six Congress candidates forfeited their deposits.

Almost all the prominent members of the Socialist Party, including Mr. Mahadev Singh and Mr. Y. S. Rao were defeated.

The People's Democratic Front (Communists) which was a coalition of four Leftist Parties concentrated its attention on Telengana.

The Front was the second largest Party in the Assembly. It obtained, about 21 per cent. of the total polled. Some of the heaviest polling in the State was witnessed in the villages of Telengana. Mr. Ravi Narayan Reddy's home village Bellapalli heading the list with 95 per cent.

The Peasants' and Workers' Party, who follow the Marxian ideology and was expected to support the P.D.F. in the Assembly annexed ten out of the 19 seats it contested in Marathwada. Its candidates obtained about four per cent of the total votes polled.

The leader of the Scheduled Castes Federation Mr. J. H. Subbali, who stood for the House of the People from Ibrahimpatnam for the General seat was defeated by a Congressman. The Federation polled about five per cent of the total vote.

The Independents polled about 16 per cent. of the total votes.

An estimate of party strength at present (1954 March) is as follows. Congress 97, People's Democratic Front 39, United People's Party 36, Scheduled Castes Federation 2.

The Congress, polled 35.3 per cent. of the total votes cast.

Only about 34 per cent. of the successful candidates polled 50 per cent. or more of the votes cast. The average number of votes per candidate and the average number per elected candidate were 11,696 and 15,108, respectively.

The Left Front (Communist, Kerala Socialist Party and Revolutionary Socialist Party) won 21.4 per cent. of the total votes cast. Fifty per cent. of the successful candidates won by an absolute majority. The average number of votes per candidate and the average number per elected candidate were 12,491 and 15,388, respectively.

The Socialists won 14.1 per cent. of the total votes cast. The average number of votes per candidate and the average per elected candidate was 6,897 and 15,673, respectively. Thirty-six per cent. of the elected candidates won by an absolute majority.

Independents polled 18.3 per cent. of the total votes cast. On an average, an Independent polled 3,913 votes, the average number per elected candidate being 13,142. Twenty-seven per cent. of the elected candidates won by an absolute majority.

The Travancore-Tamil Nad polled 5.9 per cent. of the total votes cast. Fifty per cent. of the elected candidates won by an absolute majority. The average number of votes per candidate was 13,421 and the average per elected candidate was 17,600.

The Cochin Party polled 2.9 per cent. of the total votes cast.

The Republican Praja Party, the Tamil Nad Congress, the Tamil Nad People's Front and the Independent South Party together polled 2.8 per cent. of the total votes cast.

There was a straight fight only in 12 constituencies and in the rest the number of candidates ranged from three to ten. The largest majority of about 25,000 was scored by a Left Front candidate over a Congressman and the narrowest of 140 was won by an Independent over a Left Front candidate.

Only in two constituencies was the poll less than 50 per cent. The poll in one constituency was 88 per cent. and in 58 constituencies the poll was more than 70 per cent. The average poll for all the constituencies was 80 per cent.

TRAVANCORE-COCHIN LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY

A second general election took place early in 1954. Seats: 117; Electorate: 4,410,958. Votes polled: 3,906,415.

MONSOON RAINFALL SUMMARY 1953

The south-west monsoon set in over Travancore-Cochin by the 7th June, about a week after the usual date, but extended over the whole country by the end of the month.

The monsoon was vigorous in the Konkan between the 18th and 21st causing floods in many parts in the northern districts.

Locally heavy to very heavy rain also occurred in Berar on the 21st and in sub-Himalayan West Bengal, Assam and north Bihar on the 26th.

Rainfall in July was fairly well distributed and in excess over the whole country, although no depressions formed during this month in the Bay of Bengal.

Locally heavy rain in south Deccan (Desh) was responsible for floods in the Kolhapur district.

Floods were also reported from Assam and many parts of north Bihar, due to active monsoon conditions during the month.

The monsoon continued to be fairly active over north India and in Konkan throughout August. It was vigorous in Orissa on the 3rd, in Madhya Pradesh between the 3rd and 5th and in the north Punjab (I) on the 3rd. Very heavy rainfall was recorded in south-east Madhya Pradesh on the 13th.

The heavy rainfall in south-east Madhya Pradesh during the first half of the month was responsible for severe floods in the deltaic region of the river Godavari.

The monsoon was again vigorous in the north Konkan, Gujarat and Saurashtra during the first week of September. Also very heavy rainfall was recorded in sub-Himalayan West Bengal on the 10th and in Assam between the 10th and 14th.

The south-west monsoon withdrew from the country outside the south Peninsula by the 8th October, and gradually from the whole country towards the end of October.

The rainfall during the monsoon as a whole, was in large excess in Saurashtra and Kutch and in moderate excess in Chota Nagpur, east Uttar Pradesh, Gujarat and north Hyderabad. It was in slight excess in Bihar, the Punjab (I), the Konkan, Deccan (Desh), coastal Andhradesa, Rayalaseema and Tamilnad, and normal over the rest of the country, except in sub-Himalayan West Bengal, east Rajasthan, Madhya Bharat and west Madhya Pradesh where it was in slight to moderate defect.

Averaged over the plains of India, the rainfall was 7 per cent in excess.

BURMAH-SHELL REFINERIES LTD.

Burmah-Shell Refineries Ltd. was incorporated in India on 3rd November, 1952, for the purpose of constructing and operating a petroleum oil refinery on a 450-acre plot of land in South-West Trombay.

Site clearance and construction work was first started in April 1953 and it is estimated that the major part of the work will be completed by December 1954.

The Refinery is due to commence operations early in 1955.

The crude oil intake of the Refinery will be 2,000,000 tons per annum, and crude oil is expected to come from the Persian Gulf area.

The Refinery will manufacture per year 156 million gallons of Motor Spirit, 72 million gallons of Kerosine, 37 million gallons of High Speed Diesel Oil, 33 million gallons of Light Diesel Oil, 144 million gallons of Furnace Oil and 150,000 tons of Bitumen.

The total cost of the Refinery will be Rs. 25 crores, and the total staff to be employed in the Refinery including all categories will be about 1,500.

Apart from the main Refinery work now under way at Trombay, residential quarters for key operating personnel are being built a short distance from the Refinery, and in addition, Burmah-Shell Refineries Ltd., will pay Rs. 40 lakhs to the Bombay Government to build new housing quarters for 500 labour families.

Burmah-Shell Refineries Ltd., are also providing a 10-acre recreation ground for their Staff and Labour.
